St. Laurent Calls Caucus; Leadership May Be Raised

Unusual Action Sets Political Tongues Wagging

Prime Minister St. Laurent today called a special caucus in Ottawa of the 104 Liberal members elected on June 10.

The action immediately set off speculation throughout the country as to whether Mr. St. Laurent has decided to relinquish the leadership of the Liberal party.

On the other hand it may be that Mr. St. Laurent, who will become Opposition Leader on Friday when John Diefenbaker is sworn in as Prime Minister, may have decided to ask for a vote of confidence from the elected members in his decision to resign as prime minister.

SHORT-TERM STRATEGY

The official announcement carried by Canadian Press said the caucus would discuss short-term party strategy for the first session of the new Parliament early in the fall, and plans for the next general election whenever it is.

However the calling of the caucus meeting so suddenly, bringing members from all parts of the Dominion to Ottawa, was an unusual action. This is what set political tongues wagging, as it was pointed out the future leadership of the party was bound to come up for discussion at such a meeting.

Immediately after the election Mr. St. Laurent said he would continue to sit in the new Parliament, presumably as Liberal chieftain and Opposition Leader.

DIFFERENT PATTERN

But there has been a good deal of speculation that Mr. St. Laurent would not want to lead the party into another election against Mr. Diefenbaker. If Mr. Diefenbaker definitely intends to seek another election within a year, some party strategists feel it would be wise to choose a new leader, such as Lester B. Pearson, and face the country with a different pattern from the one which met defeat June 10.

In that event the caucus might decide to ask for a national convention of the party and settle the whole issue.

Besides the 104 Liberals elected June 10 the caucus meeting also will be attended by William Benidickson, Liberal-Labor member for Kenora-Rainy River. He was parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Harris in the last Parliament. It was not known whether two Independent Liberals elected in Quebec have been asked to attend.

Two B.C. Men Die in Crash Of RCAF Jet

Wreckage of Missing Plane Spotted By Helicopter on Farm Near Ottawa

BISHOP'S MILLS, Ont. (CP) Wreckage of an RCAF CF-100 jet fighter-interceptor aircraft, missing from St. Hubert air base since Tuesday evening, was identified on a farm near here shortly after noon today. Both occupants were dead and a coroner was summoned.

An RCAF helicopter from Rockcliffe air base was dispatched to the bushland scene late in the morning after Ontario provincial police reported sighting wreckage believed to be that of an aircraft.

The CF-100, belonging to the RCAF's Air Defence Command, was manned by Flt. Lt. William H. Siegel, 30, White Rock, B.C., pilot, and Flt. Lt. Robert Willard Bogle, 32, whose father lives at New Westminster, B.C. Bogle was the navigator and radar-observer.

The crash occurred during the height of a violent electrical storm in the course of which a severe explosion occurred in a desolate swamp area on the farm of Leonard Sunderland in nearby Wolford township. Bishop's Mills is 40 miles south of Ottawa.

IDENTIFIED FROM AIR

The Rockcliffe helicopter, a twin-screw aircraft, was too large to descend in the area but RCAF personnel aboard identified the crash wreckage as that of a CF-100. On the radio they asked the provincial police cruisers nearby to call for a coroner.

A provincial police ground party, accompanied by farmers and workmen in the area, was beating its way through the bush and swamp to the scene.

RCAF officials who travelled from Ottawa's Uplands Airport were also reported working their way toward the plane's wreckage. The last mile had to be covered on foot.

234 Dead From U.S. Heat Wave

7 Forest Fires In California

CHICAGO (AP) — Thunderstorms moved into the east in advance of a cold front today signaling a breakup of the season's most widespread heat wave.

Five days of broiling temperatures in the eastern half of the United States and floods in the midcontinent took at least 234 lives. Most of the 206 heat casualties were drownings. Floods caused another 28 deaths.

The cold front was expected to pass across most of the Atlantic states area today, followed by cooler and drier air tonight and Thursday.

A mass of cool air from Canada broke the torrid heat wave in the midwest Tuesday, and early today the cold air front extended along a line from Lake Erie through southwest Ohio and down to southeast Arkansas.

FLOOD DAMAGE HEAVY

In the two principal flood areas, residents of Marshall, Minn., waited for a further rise in the rampaging Redwood River, but the flood seemed to wane in eastern South Dakota.

The Big Sioux River, now as wide as a mile in some places instead of its normal 60 feet, caused millions of dollars damage along a 100-mile line in South Dakota. There were three dead and two missing.

But in Minnesota the Redwood River at flooded Marshal still was three feet above flood stage, and down-river towns braced themselves for an expected deluge.

The property damage at Marshal was estimated at $1,000,000. Farm experts said crop damage would be three times as great.

TORONTO (CP) — Ontarians awoke from a cool night's sleep today and found their three-day heat wave ended.

A cold front moved across the province behind thunderstorms and rain showers, squeezing the mass of hot and humid air into eastern Quebec.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Firemen manned lines today at seven major forest fires. Acreage burned totaled more than 7,500 early today.

Weary firemen patrolled six blazes which were brought under control Tuesday or during the night. A seventh, 65 miles southeast of Los Angeles, blazed on out of control.

The unchecked fire is in Temescal Canyon, not far from a blaze which was controlled Tuesday after burning across 1,850 acres. The canyon fire has burned 2,500 acres. No homes are menaced. Elsinore, the nearest town, is 10 miles away.

Firemen said that dry, desert winds and 100-plus temperatures left the brush-covered hills so dry that the smallest spark could cause a major conflagration.

Italians Flee Raging Po River

ROVIGO, Italy (Reuters)—A massive flow of floodwater which has drained off from the storm-lashed Alps and Apennine foothills today rolled steadily towards the dike-protected farmlands of the Po River delta.

A small army of police, firemen and peasant volunteers stood guard in the low-lying delta fields and mudflats on the Adriatic coast as the level of Italy's greatest river rose by 7½ inches an hour throughout the night.

The rain-swollen river breached the main dike encircling the island of Ariano, where 32,000 farme cultivate land. Stretches of dike crumbled under the pressure.

The islanders began shifting prized household possessions to upper floors and drove their cattle onto the walls of the strongest dikes.

Election Box Theft Solved By RCMP

MONTREAL (CP) — The RCMP reported today it has solved one of about 40 election-day irregularities in Quebec province and expects to have the others cleaned up shortly.

Superintendent Edward Brakefield-Moore said a case of ballot-box thefts in St. Georges de Beauce has been solved, the men identified and reports submitted to chief returning officer Nelson Castonguay and the justice department.

All the ballots were recovered or accounted for, he said.

There were 25 election-day irregularities in Montreal ridings, and 12 in south shore constituencies of Longueuil and Chambly-Rouville.

In Ottawa, Mr. Castonguay, who must decide whether to order prosecution in such cases, said he had no comment on the situation at this time.

Disarmament Plan

LONDON (Reuters) — United States delegate Harold E. Stassen will begin presenting the long-awaited American proposal for partial disarmament Thursday at five-power talks here, it was learned tonight. Conference sources said the U.S. has achieved enough agreement with its Western allies to start presenting the plan.

Tankers Collide; 8 Dead, 50 Saved

BREST, France (AP) — Two big oil tankers collided and burst into flames in darkness and fog off Brittany today. Eight sailors died in the oily sea but more than 50 were rescued.

Rescue vessels picked their way gingerly through fog and oil slicks to get to the burning ships. Ten of the surviving crew members were severely hurt.

The French naval radio station identified the vessels as the 15,000-ton tanker Stony Point, sailing under Liberian papers, and the 19,000-ton Greek tanker Ioannis. But the Greek ship was also reported to be a freighter named Joannis or Ionis.

Victory Carriers Incorporated, operating agents in New York for the Stony Point, said the tanker was loaded with oil en route from Sidon, Lebanon, to Antwerp and carried a crew of 40.

HAMPERED BY FOG

Reports of the disaster, 20 miles off the tip of the Brittany peninsula, came by ship's wireless from rescue craft. The fog was so thick off the coast that aircraft couldn't locate the burning ships.

The first radio message alerted shore stations when the German ship Eric Reckmann came upon the burning vessels.

The two stricken craft were still burning eight hours later, apparently abandoned by their crews. The Stony Point was reported settling low in the water. The rescue ships asked for tugs, indicating that at least one of the derelicts might be towed to shore.

WIRE BRIEFS

Suez Canal Cleared

PORT SAID, Egypt (AP)—Suez Canal traffic was resumed today after a 12-hour stoppage when the British tanker Tribulus ran aground 25 miles north of Suez.

Cheaper Food Urged

TORONTO (CP)—The new Diefenbaker administration was urged today by Thomas G. McCormack, president of Dominion Stores, to lower retail food prices by exempting all foodstuffs from direct sales tax and to wipe out hidden taxes on foods.

Kishi in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prime Minister Kishi of Japan arrived today for three days of high level talks which he said may open a "new era of Japanese-American relations."

Subs Create Tension In Mid-East

Israeli Cabinet Meets Hurriedly

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press
Staff Correspondent

Israel expressed growing concern today at Egypt's acquisition of three Soviet submarines, and informed sources said an attack on Israeli shipping meant war.

The Israeli cabinet met in emergency session Tuesday night and early today to discuss the Soviet move which once again shifted the Middle East balance of power.

Jerusalem dispatches said the atmosphere in Israel resembled that of the days just before the Sinai invasion when a swift Israeli drive captured much of the Soviet equipment turned over to Egypt in the 1955 Czech arms deal.

A series of new incidents along the border, the Gaza Strip, led to speculation that Cairo might be planning new actions to force Israel to attack.

A double mine explosion Tuesday killed one member of a UN Emergency Force patrol and seriously wounded four others. Earlier, UNEF troops shot and killed two Arabs trying to cross the border into Israel.

VICTIMS YUGOSLAVS

Yugoslav troops were the victims, and UNEF officers said it appeared that some mines had been laid deliberately to harm UNEF troops. Two Indian soldiers were killed in a mine explosion earlier this year.

Relations between Egypt and Jordan steadily deteriorated, and there were indications relations might worsen between Jordan and Syria, Egypt's chief partner in the Arab neutralist camp.

Jordan recalled its charge d'affairs from Damascus Tuesday and there was no indication today in Amman that he would be replaced.

Damascus reports indicated Egypt and Syria growing closer together. One newspaper said Egypt's forthcoming parliament would vote on a draft resolution proposing federation between Syria and Egypt.

Jordan, meanwhile, postponed for another three months the reconvening of its parliament. A four-hour cabinet session headed by King Hussein also decided to set up additional military courts to speed the trials of persons who plotted against the throne.

The parliament has been inactive since Hussein broke a plot to seize his government. There had been speculation he would dissolve it and postpone elections for at least two years while he purged politics of subversive elements.

STILL NEUTRAL

Foreign Minister Samir Rifai told newsmen Jordan still would maintain positive neutrality, but he also complained that only Saudi Arabia had come through with promised economic aid. Syria and Egypt are still "vague," he said.

ENRICHED

Diefenbaker Busy Forming Cabinet

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—John Diefenbaker today continued conferences with prospective cabinet ministers as he worked out the makeup of a Progressive Conservative government to be sworn in Friday.

The party leader spent much of the morning in meetings and was to resume them later in the day after a quick automobile trip to Perth, Ont., for the funeral of Dr. W. G. Blair, Conservative member for Lanark who died Sunday.

Mr. Diefenbaker met Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, member for Esquimalt-Saanich; Gordon Churchill of Winnipeg South Centre; Davie Fulton of Kamloops; and George Nowlan of Digby-Annapolis-Kings.

PROBABLE POSTS

Gen. Pearkes is expected to be his defence minister. Mr. Nowlan is probable trade or transport minister. Mr. Fulton, who arrived by plane today from British Columbia, may be minister of justice or possibly speaker of the Commons.

A portfolio is planned for Mr. Churchill, one of Mr. Diefenbaker's chief campaign strategists, but there has been no information on what will be allocated to him.

Later today Mr. Diefenbaker was to meet Howard Green of Vancouver-Quadra, flying here from Vancouver.

Mr. Diefenbaker, to present a cabinet nucleus to be sworn in by Governor-General Massey Friday, flies to London Monday for the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference, starting June 26. He said today he will be back in Canada Saturday, July 6.

Before leaving for Dr. Blair's funeral, Mr. Diefenbaker met briefly with another series of cabinet prospects. Most of the meetings consisted for the moment merely of a handshake and a hello before the whole group departed for Perth.

Among those who met him were Douglas Harkness, Calgary North, who will have a portfolio; and A. J. Brooks, Royal, N.B., likely veterans minister.

The member who will be Canada's first woman federal cabinet minister — Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, Hamilton West—was among those going to Perth. She is ticketed for either the labor or the health and welfare portfolio, according to informants.

Other prospective cabinet ministers meeting the leader were John Charlton, Brant-Haldimand, Ont., probable agriculture minister; W. J. Browne, St. John's West, who will almost certainly represent Newfoundland in the cabinet, possibly as fisheries minister.

QUEBECER CALLED IN

Another who conferred with Mr. Diefenbaker today was J. Wilfrid Dufresne, one of four Quebec Conseratives in the last Parliament. He was defeated in Quebec West on June 10.

There is speculation that he is being offered a portfolio, particularly since Mr. Diefenbaker—who needs about six Quebec ministers—has only two members with parliamentary experience among the eight returned in the general election.

Oriental Flu Not Deadly Here

VANCOUVER (CP) — The city medical health officer says the flu epidemic sweeping Asia is not likely to kill anyone in Canada if it spreads here. Dr. Stewart Murray said Tuesday "it is not likely any cases in Canada would be fatal. In Asia there are large numbers of people in small areas at a low level of health. In those circumstances a large number of flu fatalities could be expected."

3 CABINET MINISTERS FOR B.C. SAYS GREEN

VANCOUVER (CP)—Howard Green, Progressive Conservative member for Vancouver Quadra, said Tuesday British Columbia will have three ministers in the cabinet of Prime Minister-designate Diefenbaker.

"It looks like John is doing quite a thing, appointing three B.C. ministers," Mr. Green remarked to reporters just before he boarded an Ottawa-bound airplane.

He flew at the telephone summons of Mr. Diefenbaker, who also sent for Davie Fulton, Kamloops, and Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, MP for Esquimalt-Saanich.

Makeup of the cabinet is expected to be announced Friday. Asked if he expected to be a member Mr. Green said: "I expect I will."

He suggested that he might be named minister of transport.

317 Torture Cases Listed By Makarios

ATHENS (Reuters) — Archbishop Makarios claimed at a press conference here today to have a list of 317 cases of "torture" inflicted by British security and military authorities in Cyprus to obtain confessions.

The Greek Cypriot leader produced copies of handwritten statements which he said had been made by victims.

The archbishop asserted that no measures were taken against those responsible when such "inhuman atrocities" were reported to the British governor of Cyprus, Sir John Harding.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Give us, O God, eyes that can see and ears that can hear so that we may see in all nature evidences of Thy love and hear everywhere Thy voice speaking to us. Make us sensitive to the influence of Thy Spirit, and may we let our light so shine before men that they may see our good works and glorify, not us, but our Father who is in heaven. Amen.

If th' party wuz in th' grocery bizness 'stead o' th' guv'mint bizness, w'd Mr. St. L. be a loss leader?

Symphony Cuts Deficit; Hikes

Encouraging Report Given Annual Meeting Of Society; Municipal Councils Under Fire

A deficit reduced by more than half the 1956-57 figure—and an increase in attendance of 15 per cent—were among encouraging facts brought to light at the annual meeting of Victoria Symphony Society held Tuesday night in Spencerhouse.

President Jack Barraclough was in the chair and did some plain speaking during the evening.

Regarding the new foundation fund, he told the meeting that its chairman, Hon. R. W. Mayhew, hopes to have his goal of $1,000,000 in view within 10 years. Mr. Mayhew expects to accomplish this mainly through bequests and as permanent memorials.

At no time, however, would more than half the symphony's deficit be covered out of this fund, the balance being regarded as a civic and community responsibility.

Other applications of the foundation fund are visualized as provision of scholarships and assistance to musical organizations generally within the Greater Victoria area.

Concerning culturally lethargic municipal councils, Mr. Barraclough made some scathing remarks, while commenting that city council had shown its heart to be in the right place when it made the $2,500 grant last year.

Saanich council was the speaker's particular target.

Saanich and Esquimalt have rejected grants for this year. Victoria and Oak Bay are at present considering the matter.

"We ought to be ashamed, particularly of Saanich," said Mr. Barraclough. "First they hid behind the skirts of the legal profession and then, when the Municipal Act was changed, made their decision against the symphony grant for one reason—because the reeve recommended it."

"They seem to have no more difficulty in turning down a $500 courtesy grant than they do in making a $250,000 mistake in a sewerage program."

Special Appeal Raised Record Sum

It was revealed that a special appeal by the society last February had raised a record amount of about $24,000, of which $7,000 could be applied to next season's financing.

During the past season, the women's committee had raised $5,000 of which $1,500 is still on hand. From the Koerner Foundation, a grant of $2,000 had been recived.

Deficit on April 30 was $3,321—to be made up by guarantors—compared to $7,056 at the end of last season, according to the report of treasurer, K. R. Genn.

Average attendance at each pair of concerts during the past season was 1,814, compared to 1,576 last year.

"It may seem that we are getting to the point where we need no further support," Mr. Barraclough commented. "What these figures actually mean is that we not only deserve, but should demand more support from civic leaders."

Presentation of three outdoor concerts this summer may be announced at a later date. Negotiations are now under way for a Butchart Gardens series in July and it is also hoped to find sponsorship for a free concert from the steps of the legislative buildings.

Elections resulted in Jack Barraclough, P. E. George, Mrs. Jack Gillespie, W. Gilmour, J. Genge, Dr. Mellis Mair, Tony Lort, Dal Hawkshaw, John Wade and A. H. Fitzgerald being named for two-year terms on the board of directors. One-year terms will be served by Don E. Smith, Walter Stenner and Lieut.-Cmdr. Ian MacDonald.

This board will meet shortly to elect officers for the 1957-58 season.

Council Grants To Aid Culture Ready in August

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada Council grants to aid Canadian cultural pursuits likely will be announced late in August, council chairman Brooke Claxton said in an interview today.

A program of aid was mapped out at an executive meeting Tuesday and will be submitted for approval of the 21-member council to meet here August 19 and 20.

"Very good progress is being made in our organization and in developing a program," Mr. Claxton said. "We also had a very satisfactory meeting with the learned societies which met here in the last two weeks."

The grants are to be paid out of earnings from the council's $50,000,000 endowment fund. Some officials have estimated the earnings may total about $1,500,000 in the current fiscal year.

Victoria Girl On European Tour With Elgar Choir

A 14-year-old Victoria girl, Dianne Matthews, is among 33 young girl members of Vancouver's Elgar Choir which left the mainland city Tuesday night for its seventh United Kingdom and European tour. Dianne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Matthews, Crescent Road.

Charles E. Findlater, prominent Vancouver musician, who founded the choir in 1924, will conduct both choir and tour. Stop-overs will be made in Jasper and Ottawa before the group sails on the Saxonia June 28. They will return to Vancouver September 15.

Dianne, who came to Victoria with her parents nearly a year ago, won a silver medal from the Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto, last year and received warm praises from the vocal adjudicator at the recent Victoria Musical Festival.

Two Girls Drown

SOREL, Que. (CP) — Two young girls were drowned Tuesday night when a motorboat carrying three other children and an unidentified adult was tipped over by a gust of wind in the St. Lawrence River.

Police identified the victims as Chislaine Piche, 13, and Francine Cloutier, 13, both of Sorel.

Doctors Want Assurance Of Bargaining Rights

By DON HANRIGHT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—Canadian doctors want assurance of bargaining rights for their own professional organization before any dispute over fees develops with government or private health-plan agencies.

Acceptance of this "broad general principle" by the 180-member parliament of the Canadian Medical Association was described officially as a precautionary step and spokesmen were quick to stress that the CMA does not want to become associated loosely with trade unionism.

Indications were that the association adopted the principle to avert any possible doctor-government stalemate in case a national health plan evolves in Canada.

TERMS OF RESOLUTION

The resolution read:

"No doctor or group of doctors should enter into an agreement respecting remuneration for professional services with any non-governmental, semi-governmental or governmental body, without prior assurance of a recognized system for arbitration and negotiation of issues such as remuneration and terms of service.

One of the first applications of this CMA principle may come in connection with establishment of regulations governing diagnostic services to be included in the forthcoming national hospital insurance scheme.

In this program, regulations will be set up by the provinces and, in the case of diagnostic services, probably would affect pathologists and radiologists providing these services.

Dr. Thomson said it is "theoretically possible" that the CMA bargaining principle could be applied in any case of dispute in one or more provinces. However, it also would be applicable to any private firm underwriting medical insurance for a group of, say, railway employees.

In a second major step, the general council also decided to ask the federal government to put tranquillizer drugs on the prescription list.

Explaining this action, Dr. K. J. R. Wightman of Toronto said there already are 40 or 50 of these drugs on the market in Canada and soon the number will reach 100 or more.

They are out-selling aspirin in the United States, Dr. Wightman said, and in Canada the sales "indicates far greater use of them than is necessary in the interests of national health."

He said that in some persons these tranquillizers have the effect of making them "slap-happy and uninhibited," or in others result simply in "less tension." Addiction to these drugs was possible over a period of years.

NOW SOLD FREELY

In most provinces the tranquillizers now are sold openly in drugstores, while in other provinces they have been made subject the physicians' prescriptions. The CMA wants them on a prescription list right across Canada.

In other action, the CMA established a committee to review the effects of radiation — not only thermo-nuclear in origin, but also from X-rays in dental and hospital laboratories — and attempt to make definite recommendations on the problem.

Premier Manning of Alberta told the convention he is "unalterably opposed to state medicine in any form in the field of medical science."

Red China Trade

BONN (Reuters) — West Germany is ready to follow the example of Britain in relaxing the trade embargo against Communist China, a foreign ministry spokesman said Tuesday.

MORE HYPOTHESES THAN FACTS IN PSYCHIATRY SAYS CRITIC

VANCOUVER (CP)—A University of British Columbia scientist says the field of psychiatry "suffers from a surfeit of hypotheses and a famine of facts."

Dr. William C. Gibson, Victoria, head of the UBC research department, led a seminar of 20 U.S., British and Canadian scientific researchers, meeting here for five days to discuss the biochemical nature of mental diseases.

Dr. Gibson said Tuesday recent studies of mental disease, particularly schizophrenia, have been fruitful.

"But," he added, "they have been no more than that."

Among the most recent advances, he said, is the finding of chemicals in body secretions and blood configurations in finger nails which can be associated with poor mental health.

Strike Now Certain In Salmon Industry

Labor, Management Negotiations Collapse

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Pacific salmon industry faces a new crisis as fishermen prepare to strike Saturday.

Negotiations between the 5,500-member United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union and the Fisheries Association of British Columbia broke down Tuesday.

Homer Stevens, union secretary, said: "We see no prospect of a change in the situation. We now are going into a strike."

The fishermen are demanding increases in minimum guaranteed prices for net-caught salmon ranging up to seven cents a pound. The fisheries association, representing canners, has offered increases up to two cents over prices paid last year.

The $50,000,000-a-year industry, fourth largest in B.C., has been threatened during recent years, first by demands that the Columbia and the Fraser, "last of the great salmon rivers of the world," be harnessed for power, and more recently by a manpower shortage.

MAY AFFECT 19,000

The industry now employs about 19,000 men and women, fishermen and cannery workers. Most would likely be affected by a walkout.

Neither side foresaw any resumption in negotiations, although E. C. Harrison, fisheries association vice-president, would say only that negotiations "have been stalled."

Neither side made concessions in Tuesday's talks.

Mr. Stevens said the fishermen need more money and this must come from increased prices.

Mr. Harrison said any increase in prices would have a disastrous effect on sales. The new minimum price now being offered by the operators for sockeye salmon would be the highest on record.

A strike vote tallied last Saturday showed 97 per cent of the fishermen covered by contract with the canners to be in favor of a walkout, and Mr. Stevens said all fish caught after the strike deadline will be "hot."

"That's the decision of our joint committee and we are asking all our members to refuse to handle salmon after that date, June 22."

250 ISLAND FISHBOATS AFFECTED

Close to $2,000,000 in salmon fishing vessels would be tied up on Vancouver Island Saturday in the event of a UFAW strike.

There are about 230 small vessels operating from Island points such as Victoria, Campbell River, Nanaimo and Port Alberni, and about 20 larger boats.

Value for smaller vessels ranges around $7,000 each and for larger vessels, about $25,000.

Salmon catches are all sold on the mainland. There are no canneries on the Island.

Asphalt Man Warns Against 'Pork Barrel'

Directors of the Asphalt Institute were warned here today that the multi-billion dollar U.S. highway program may become "a political pork-barrel."

The warning was sounded by R. O. Wilson, chairman of the board and manager of the asphalt division, Cosden Petroleum Corporation of Texas, addressing a two-day directors' conference of the institute in the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Wilson spoke of a recent move in Congress to add an additional 7,000 miles to the 41,000-mile interstate highway system and stretch out the program to 20 years at an added cost of more than $15,000,000,000.

"Every mile added to the interstate system represents a bookkeeping transfer on the state highway systems, erasing corresponding mileage on the federal-aid primary system.

MAIN COST

"In effect, such additions are transferring the main burden of cost from the state governments to the federal government.

"It is a sugar-coated pill that could contain a deadly poison."

Mr. Wilson said construction money is already short at the state level.

"If expansion of the interstate system is used as a device to by-pass a serious financial congestion among the states by writing ever-larger federal promissory notes, there is a very real danger that the Fedeal Aid Highway Act of 1956 could become a political pork-barrel.

"The entire program, so bright with promise, could become blighted."

Under the Highway Act, the U.S. federal government furnishes 90 per cent of the cost of construction on the so-called interstate system while, for federal-aid roadbuilding the states must match the federal contribution dollar for dollar.

Seven Canadian delegates are attending the conference.

Side-Effects Of Prosperity Big Problem

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The national director of old age pensions says Canada faces a major problem in controlling the side-effects of prosperity.

R. B. Curry Tuesday told 200 members attending the three-day maritime conference on social work that Canada was expanding at a faster rate than other countries. Although the development tended to be spotty it was welcomed and provided more people with more possessions than ever before.

But problems existed, Mr. Curry said, in translating abundance into individual benefits and controlling side-effects.

He said increased movement to the cities meant the loss of rural friendliness and simplicity. The growth in the number of cars brought traffic jams and traffic accidents.

It would be "a most colossal tragedy" if increased leisure time meant two and three days of boredom each week, he said. The inflationary effect of prosperity chopped the dollars of those on fixed incomes to 55 cents of their former value.

Mr. Curry said some controls had developed to keep things in reasonable perspective. Industry has shown a "rather remarkable" concern about the danger of side effects and company towns placed emphasis on good housing and recreation.

Pensions and retirement plans helped head off some of the undesirable side effects, he said, and new concepts in education such as the Canada Council and regional high schools were good ideas.

Polish Leaders Snubbed By Press in East Germany

BERLIN (Reuters)—Polish leaders today received cool treatment from the East German Communist press on the second day of their visit here.

The chief Communist party newspaper, Neues Deutschland, did not even mention Wladyslaw Gomulka, Polish Communist party leader, in its account of the Tuesday opening of Polish-East German negotiations.

Gomulka is the "national Communist" who stood up to Moscow during anti-Soviet demonstrations in Poland last October.

Gomulka's decision to visit East Germany was seen in West Berlin as the result of his recognition of the economic facts—Poland's need for East German capital and consumer goods.

Denmark Defies Reds; Takes U.S. Missles

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (UP)—Denmark today accepted an American offer of missiles despite Soviet threats to "obliterate" this country if such weapons were used in war.

The Danish Parliament, without a vote, accepted a report by Defence Minister Poul Hansen declaring that Denmark could not afford to turn down the U.S. offer.

Hansen said that deliveries of U.S. "Nike" and "Honest John" ground-to-air missiles would strengthen this country's defences. He said that Denmark would not receive nuclear warheads for the missiles.

Early this year, the Kremlin had warned Denmark and other Scandinavian countries that they would be "obliterated" in any new war if their territories were used as bases for attacks gainst the Soviet Union.

Hansen said that Denmark had to accept the American offer now to get deliveries financed under the 1957-58 U.S. budget and start training of personnel.

Informed sources said that one Nike and one Honest John battalion would be organized here next year.

Spectro-Prospectors Seek Secrets of Mars

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP)—Astronomers preparing for the age of space travel are prospecting already for water and oxygen on Mars. Two researchers today expressed optimism that these two life-giving elements can be found on the planet.

The only way of finding these elements on a planet 60,000,000 or more miles away is by spectrography. This technique detects chemical elements by the wavelength of the light they produce when lit up by the sun or some other strong source of illumination.

A possible way of finding oxygen on the planet with a spectrography was suggested to the international mars committee and the Astronomical Society of the Pacific by Dr. Robert S. Richardson of Mount Wilson and Palomar Observatories in California.

It could be done by mounting the instrument on a rocket and sending it up above the earth's atmosphere, Dr. Richardson said. This would eliminate the problem of separating earth oxygen and Mars oxygen in spectograph recordings made at the earth's surface.

Dr. Audouin Dollfus of Meudon Observatory in France said spectroscopy also offers a possible way of finding water on Mars. He suggested a balloon-borne spectrometer to get the instrument above the water vapor of the earth's atmosphere for a direct look at the atmosphere of the red planet. Mars supposedly has some water, but the amount is not shown.

Fattening the Pay Envelopes

UNDER CIRCUMSTANCES AS strange as the political times which produced them, civil servants, both federal and provincial, are to receive wage increases.

In British Columbia Mr. Bennett's statement assures a higher pay scale from July 1. But there will be no actual payment of increases at that date. The Premier rightly states that he has no authority to spend money not voted by the Legislature.

He is within constitutional grounds, however, in giving the assurance of an increase. With his overwhelming majority in the House there is scant likelihood of the legislature repudiating his promise.

But if British Columbia civil servants can count on this as money in the bank, they still lack an agency through which to bargain as they wish. They are denied arbitration. This is a sore point with the civil servants. They have made their pleas time after time for the same sort of consideration from the Provincial Government which the Provincial Government insists that other employers give to their employees.

If the civil servants have won their point on the need for a wage increase, they have still the other score to settle. Having apparently emerged from a serious situation Mr. Bennett and his Government might profitably seek means to avoid its recurrence. The civil servants know what they want. Perhaps now the Government should decide what it wants in the way of machinery to deal with the continuing labor relations problem as it concerns Government employees.

In the federal field, Mr. St. Laurent acted with integrity in refusing to let the civil service wage increase become a factor in the recent general election. He removed the issue from politics, providing no increases until after the polling date, although the Government no doubt had agreed to the raises.

It is extraordinary to find Mr. St. Laurent now authorizing the increase, not because such an action may be contrary to the public will, but because Mr. St. Laurent's Government has been defeated and by tradition could be expected to leave the granting of large public expenditures to Mr. Diefenbaker when he assumes control.

However that may be—and the Liberal administration admittedly had the legal right to take the course it has—the federal civil servants are guaranteed higher salaries, and doubtless with the tacit concurrence of Mr. Diefenbaker.

A Foot on the Ladder

THE VERY LIMITED STEP towards disarmament proposed last week by Russia, and its enthusiastic reception by Western diplomats, must be assessed in the light of the last 11 years of fruitless discussion.

Complicated as it is by the problem of nuclear weapons, international disarmament has proved to be perhaps the most difficult task of this era. Yet it appears vital to global safety; the offensive powers of the leading nations are now reaching a point where the choice may be control or chaos.

The inter-continental missile with atomic warhead, now the armament goal of both East and West and likely soon to be achieved, will bring the problem to a critical point. Before that happens, at least a preliminary step must be made toward mutual restriction and control.

The latest Soviet offer is viewed as such a step. It is little enough. The Russians suggest a ban of two or three years on further nuclear weapons tests, with monitoring stations set up on British, Russian and American territory and in the Pacific to ensure that non-compliance shall not go undetected.

To the layman, this does not appear to be momentous progress. Yet against the background of past failure to achieve even minor agreement it brings new hope.

President Eisenhower has already noted the encouragement that would come from a "small, measured step." On such a concrete basis further progress might be built.

Mr. Harold Stassen, the U.S. representative, has still to reveal his plans in line with this principle. But it is hoped that they will be of a nature to win the support of Russia as well as of Western allies.

Both U.S. and Soviet attitudes have changed frequently during the protracted London negotiations, and at times the two nations have appeared to switch sides on some aspects of disarmament and inspection. But the conference seems to be developing a better spirit.

Only a few days ago, at Helsinki, Mr. Khrushchev was charging the West with making disarmament offers that were only "a screen to mask plans to continue the arms race." His remark appeared to damn not only present but future negotiation. Mr. Zorin's latest proposal, however, brings the London talks to what British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd terms an "important stage."

Difficult problems still await solution. There is the question of international arms inspection, which Russia is very chary of permitting. There is the equation of nuclear and conventional forces—the West sees the H-bomb as a counterbalance to Russia's huge army, navy and air force. There is the question of international control of basic nuclear material and its distribution throughout the world. There is the question of lethal atomic fall-out from tests. There are others equally complex.

The latest development is therefore important, not only for itself but as a token of further possibilities—a foot on the rung of the ladder we must climb if we are to escape from the pit of unlimited armaments and their threat of unlimited destruction.

They Want More Facts

THE BRITISH COLUMBIA Youth Council, a group centred in Vancouver, has called for a royal commission to study juvenile delinquency. Magistrate Gordon W. Scott, a director of the council, says the "whole system of handling this problem as it stands today is antiquated and futile."

The call for the commission and the magistrate's comment have been received with interest in Victoria. At present this city has a committee, under the auspices of the Community Welfare Council, investigating various features of the problem in the Greater Victoria region.

At this point in their studies the committee members have reached no firm conclusions. They are seeking further information before attempting to frame recommendations or even define specific trends in teenage behaviour in this locality.

Conceivably the scope of the British Columbia Youth Council investigations has been broader than that undertaken in Victoria. If it is not fuller, then Victorians will find difficulty in determining how estimates of a 100 per cent increase in delinquency in the last five years have been reached. In this community available reports of juvenile court cases do show a heavy list of traffic offenses. Some of these may involve delinquency. Most of them fall into less serious and more routine categories. At all events, statistics do not indicate as great a growth of hoodlumism as casual talk would suggest.

The Victoria committee would be the last to object to a royal commission investigation. It would probably offer the suggestion, however, that further detail is required here to prove the need for such an approach to the problem.

As long as there is any juvenile delinquency at all there is too much of it. Good clinical practice may suggest that the adolescent's behaviour pattern be placed under the microscope of social work specialists. It is doubtful, however, if good practice would call for placing the subject further under the public's magnifying glass. Perhaps that policy has been followed far enough as it is.

What's So Amazing?

MR. BENNETT SAYS HE WAS "amazed to find" that the wage increases approved by the legislature for government operating engineers had not gone into effect on April 1.

It had only just been discovered that an order-in-council had to be passed to give force to the legislature's action.

Mr. Bennett may be "amazed." The public is not. How could Mr. Bennett and cabinet colleagues have possibly been caring for the business of running British Columbia when he and they were busy running all over Canada in an election campaign that had nothing to do with the jobs they are paid to hold down?

WIRED FOR SOUND — By B. A. TOBIN

Indoor Employment

MANY years ago I owned a Model T coupe, one of the old vertical types that looked like a coffin on end complete with silver handles. One of its most notable features was its manoeuvrability. With its all-round vision and its short wheelbase it could, in the parlance of that day, turn on a dime and give you a nickel change. I doubt if any other mass production vehicle on the road has ever been able to beat it in this regard. But last Monday I met its sea-going counterpart.

Tobin

I stood with a crowd of other landlubbers on the deck of the ship which a week from next Friday will be HMCS Fraser, and felt the hull spin beneath my feet as the vessel swerved into a 180-degree turn. I couldn't help thinking of the old Ford. But having said that much, there the comparison ends.

The Fraser is the latest thing in submarine killers. To find them and destroy them every scientific device possible has been used.

We visitors saw a lot of the marvels. I have no doubt as many more are hidden away inside the hull somewhere, safe from unauthorized eyes and uncomprehending minds.

To go below decks in this ship is like sticking your head inside a television set. Old-time ships used to strike you as being crammed with pipes. This one is crammed with wires.

Pipes for All

Oh yes, I'll grant you pipes pass overhead through cabins and work spaces, appear mysteriously out of bulkheads and disappear equally mysteriously into decks. You can't get away from that on any ship.

But you hardly notice the pipes for the electric cables that jam the overhead space of every passageway, crawl out of the walls from all directions, snake around and disappear again into boxes and panels.

There are thin wire cables, thick ones and medium-sized ones. There are bright shiny cables, dull ones, painted ones, smooth ones, rough ones. They twine throughout that ship like kelp on the seashore, like the six-foot tresses of the Seven Sutherland Sisters, like spaghetti in a cauldron of soup.

You have an irresistible impulse to select one thin cable and snip it through just to see what happens.

Will it turn off the fourth toaster in the galley, halt all the electric shavers in the forward messdeck, stop the radar antenna in its endless spinning, or blow the whole ship up?

There's no way of telling without trying, and while I'm sure that if I'd had a pair of pliers with me I would not have used them—still I'm glad I didn't have a pair of pliers with me.

It's not until you've been shown around the ship that you begin to get an idea of what is connected to the other end of all those electric cables. Every cubbyhole aboard seems to be loaded with glowing dials, flicking radar screens, squealing loudspeakers and stacks of hot vacuum tubes.

Some black boxes give you a moving picture of what's around you outside, some wiggle a thin green-lighted line at you that looks like the beginnings of an electrocardiogram, others go ping! or boop! as you pass them.

A panel of buttons may control anything from a telephone system—there are twelve seperate systems aboard—to a three-inch gun or a pressure oven.

But a lot of these gadgets don't even need buttons. So much of the ship is automatic it's a wonder it needs men.

Dead-Eye Dick

You see the rapid-fire anti-aircraft guns swinging around and searching the skies for a plane, finding it and "locking on" so that the guns fire dead-on until the plane disintegrates.

Somewhere inside the ship an electronic brain locates an enemy submarine, directs the ship to it, trains the mortars and fires them right on the spot where the sub is lurking. It's uncanny.

You walk out on the foredeck and look aft. There's no one in sight. The bridge seems deserted. You can't see any helmsman or even a helm. You could imagine yourself the only person aboard when this phantom ship changes speed and course as though unseen ghosts were in control.

But deep in the ship, where it can't be damaged, is the control center. Here dials and screens replace the old-time lookout's eyes. Messages flow to and from the center. Microphones and headsets hum with low-voiced commands. Teletypes handle messages to and from shore and other ships. Radar circuits carry their vital information.

It's a new navy which the veterans of even ten years ago would have difficulty in recognizing.

Same Spirit

But one thing seems not to have changed. Talk to Commander Ray Phillips, who will captain this ship, or his even younger first officer, Lieut.-Commander G. C. McMorris. Their pride in this wonder-craft is an almost tangible thing, the same which Nelson no doubt felt as he waited to step aboard his first command.

Radar antennae spin where once topgallants bellied in the wind, pushbuttons accomplish what once took a score of sweating hands, the speed and the armament of today could not even have been dreamed of in those early times.

But mechanized though they are, the men of today seem to have the age-old feeling for their ship and for the sea which she will guard. I'd say the job is still in good hands.

Anarchists?

According to an item in the Times the members of the newly formed "National Youth Club" must sign a statement that they are not members of any Communist, Fascist or anarchist organization. But since this group is self-governing and depends upon its own efforts for organization, operation and discipline is it not an anarchist group?

Although some of the by-laws of the "National Youth Club" seem to be totalitarian, as a decentralist and a fellow-traveller of the individualist-anarchists, I congratulate these young people on their initiative and wish them success in their efforts.

For the Young

Periodically one feels ashamed of his city. During the last two weeks such a feeling has come over me regarding the lack of public support and understanding for our young people.

Our difficulty arises from a number of sources I think.

1. Our crazy mixed-up, unco-operative municipal gentlemen who constantly pull apart instead of amalgamating our resources and finances.

2. The heavy percentage of retired and aged persons who are only concerned with their own welfare or leisure.

3. Lack of community spirit or enthusiasm to build us a beautiful city with a place for all its citizens.

Much ado (and properly so) is made about the plight of our senior citizens, but we could help these youngsters by being willing to help in spirit and co-operation.

I predict that the minute a drag-strip site is chosen there will be hundreds of protests lodged to the municipal council in which the site is chosen, and secondly, it will be tougher than pulling teeth to raise enough funds or willing hands to build the strip.

What a horrible shame that the outboard association has been refused the use of Elk Lake. It seems to me to be a natural site for such an event.

When, oh when, are we in Victoria going to shake off the shackles of narrow-mindedness, selfishness and personal greed and build a city in which all its cititzens may have a place and be proud.

R. FLEMING.

Our New Canadians

As one who has occasionally employed new arrivals from Hungary, I have found them most satisfactory.

I cannot speak too highly of their energy to work, their eagerness to learn our language and to adopt Canadian ways of life. Coupled with this is their charm, politeness and courtesy, which is genuinely refreshing to any employer.

These newcomers will surely make first-class Canadians.

Kiwanis Centennial Plan

Needs Thought

I think that a great deal of thought should be given to the proposed Kiwanis Villa as I am sure that the Kiwanian Village is not nearly the success it is supposed to be.

Am I right that the bed-sitting rooms are going to be 11x12 feet? I hope I am wrong, for can you or anyone imagine living in such a small room?

Item No. 2: Is it correct that there is to be a community dining-room and a community kitchen with meals served? If so, does it not sound very much like a glorified English poor house

Don't you think our elderly people need a place where they can cook their own bit of supper and eat it in their own private rooms? No doubt the grounds will be very nicely laid out and will cost quite a bit of money. But the grounds will not affect the tenants unless they are allowed a small place to sit in and even perhaps pass an opinion or two on them.

It would be a wonderful scheme if it does not take away individual privacy. It will be another 100 years before there will be another centennial, so let us be very sure the funds will really be used to help and not to make profit. Personally I would have liked to see the Jubilee Hospital wing built.

MRS. EDWARD EAST.

505 Russell St.

Delighted

I am delighted to learn of the proposal to make the construction and furnishing of the Kiwanis Villa our centennial project for Greater Victoria.

While some very good suggestions have been made for a fitting commemoration of our 100th anniversary, so far nothing seems to have been proposed about which there has been much agreement. How a member of the centennial committee has come forward with the suggestion which should catch the imagination, inspire the sympathy and stimulate the generosity of all our people.

What could be a better witness to the character of our citizens than the erection of something that would be a lasting monument to our concern for those of our number who, through no fault of their own, find themselves living under the dark shadow of homelessness and want? I hope our people will unite wholeheartedly on this project to bring care and comfort to these deserving folk, rather than support some scheme, which while offering a measure of pleasure or pride to the well-to-do, would ignore the more urgent and nobler claims of our common humanity.

W. G. WILSON, MA, DD.

1000 Pentrelew Place.

The New Villa

It was with a great deal of pleasure I read that the extension to Kiwanis Village has been suggested as Victoria's official centennial project under the name Centennial Villa.

It has always seemed to me that one of the failings of our western society is that while we can and do raise great sums of money for the training and recreation of our youth, our older citizens are largely forgotten. This is in shocking contrast to the older Oriental societies where a person's importance in the community is in direct proportion to his age. This is not to decry the many excellent organizations working with our youth, and the fine things they are accomplishing.

But let us not, in the midst of these endeavors, forget our older people who have contributed so much to our society and whose wisdom and experience we should treasure in these turbulent days.

The Festering Wound

THE squalid mud huts climb the scarred slopes or huddle in the stony valleys in half a dozen areas of this hilly little desert city. "Refugees from Palestine, these are," says the taxi driver pointedly, when you pass one of these melancholy settlements. Here is human habitation reduced to the neolithic level. The family housing in the 8,000 year old fortified village just so amazingly discovered near Jericho was as good as this. Besides, those forerunn- of all the civilization that was to come after, who had even invented organized warfare, as their strong walls testify, at least had fields to plough and jobs to do. The Arabs driven out of Israel have no fields, and very few have jobs.

Alsop

Some live in organized camps. Some, like so many here in Amman, live in shantytowns of their own construction. All receive rations from the United Nations. If it were not for this ration of a few measures of flour and a few spoonsful of oil, a large majority would simply starve to death.

Thus about a million persons have been living (and of this million, about half in little Jordan) ever since the Palestine war in 1948.

The world has comfortably forgotten about them. But they should not be forgotten, if only because the refugee problem is like a deep infection of the blood, which inflames every other problem in the whole Middle East. And this is a good time to remember them for a particular reason.

Threatened Cuts

Henry Labouisse, the quiet spoken but determined American head of the special U.N. organization that handles the refugee problem, has recently passed through here on a fairly desperate mission. He was seeking local support, before going home to America to defend himself against threatened cuts in his relief budget.

The very fact that Labouisse should have to undertake such a mission seems all but incredible, when you consider the character of his budget.

In brief, Labouisse has $25 million a year to provide about a million people with food and medical care. He used to have an additional $15 million to provide schooling for the hundreds of thousands of refugee children, to purchase clothing and the like and to help refugees that may wish to strike out on their own. But this $15 million has already been cut to $12 million.

Consider those charming statistics. Consider that the total outlay for each refugees' food, clothing, health, education, shelter and everything else is not much above forty dollars a year!

Yet there is serious danger that even the U.N. appropriation for food and medical care will be considerably cut!

Labouisse's problem is gravely complicated by the fact that his money comes from a sort of club of voluntary contributors among the U.N.'s member nations. The United States already puts up about three-quarters of the total.

But it does not matter much whether the American Treasury pays the whole bill. It will be criminal lunacy to allow Labouisse's appropriations to be cut at this juncture. One sure result, for instance, will be such refugee riots here in Jordan as may well overturn the new and boldly independent government of young King Hussein.

But that is not the end of the story. Nine years have worn away the angry obstinacy with which the refugees used to reject any alternative but a return to their lost homes. "Give us justice," they still cry; but especially among the younger refugees, there are many who might now accept other alternatives besides repatriation.

Many Applicants

Labouisse has only been able to offer a little more than $400 in aid to any refugee who wishes to surrender his ration ticket and make a new start on his own. Yet he now has several thousand applicants for this not especially golden opportunity.

This is only one sign that the atmosphere has changed. The time is ripe, in Labouisse's opinion, for a bold new program which would not solve this insoluble problem, but would at least reduce its terrible dimensions.

Such a program might comprise an offer of repatriation (which would not be accepted while Israel endures) or compensation (which would be accepted with alacrity); plus better financing for those wishing to make a new start; plus visas, including American visas, for those wishing to emigrate to a new land.

Such an attack on the refugee problem would call forth cries of phoney outrage from the unscrupulous Arab politicians who use these pitiful people as political pawns. But the simple fact that the refugee problem has been neglected for so long, is the death's head symbol of the inanity of American Middle Eastern policy. Good conscience and good policy both call for action now.

UN CORRESPONDENCE

By CHARLES LYNCH

World's Eyes on Canada

NEW YORK—Other countries, inasmuch as they take any interest at all in Canadian domestic politics, were astonished at the election tidings from Canada Monday night. Canada's emergence as a middle power in world affairs has been most pronounced in the years since 1935—that is, the world at large has become conscious of Canada with a Liberal government at the helm.

This includes Canada's large-scale participation in the Second World War, which has been the basis of a good deal of Canada's global influence. It includes her participation in the formation and the subsequent history of the United Nations. It includes the periods of enormous change in the structure of the British Commonwealth, and Canada's key position in that group of nations.

Lynch

It includes the very concept of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the Colombo Plan—in fact, every world agency in which Canada plays a part. In all of these, the men Canada has sent abroad have been men who were members of, or appointed by, a Liberal government.

The Canadians of whom the world has been most aware in these years of change have been only three in number—William Lyon Mackenzie King, Louis St. Laurent, and Lester B. Pearson. Of these, the man best known in other countries is perhaps Mr. Pearson. He is the most travelled of the three, he has served in the United Kingdom and the United States, he has been resident of the United Nations General Assembly, and is perhaps, outside of Mr. Dag Hammarskjold, the best-known man in the councils of the United Nations. To many people at the UN, what has happened to the government of which Mr. Pearson has been so long a member seems nothing short of incredible, despite his own personal success at the polls.

Other countries, and this includes particularly the United States, have always taken Canadian political stability for granted. The nation became known as the most stable of democracies—the place where a single party had been in power for 22 years, and seemed likely to go on forever. The fact that there were opposition parties was scarcely known, and what little publicity Mr. John Diefenbaker has had abroad has been in connection with his election campaign. The leader of the Progressive Conservative Party remained, at least until Monday night, a virtual unknown outside the borders of Canada.

Now, for the first time in the last two decades, the world will be taking a long second look at Canadian internal affairs, and all the nations in association with Canada, as well as those not aligned with her, will be following closely to see what the election result will mean in terms of Canadian external policy.

Many of the answers must await the clarification of the internal position, and the composition of whatever government the country is to have as a result of the voting.

Mr. St. Laurent was a respected figure abroad—in particular, he was a close friend of Mr. Nehru of India. It was St. Laurent's concept, concurred in and furthered by Mr. Pearson, that the Commonwealth could only endure if the Asian members were given the prominence that their population and geographical position demanded. It was the Liberal government's policy that decided Canada's role in the Suez crisis of last November, when Canada did not, as Australia and New Zealand did, stand at Britain's side. Instead, she chose a position between that of the old Commonwealth nations and the new.

The Suez question was not a burning issue in the campaign, but all of the opposition parties brought it up, and Mr. Diefenbaker in particular said again and again that Canada's position was at Britain's side. Mr. Low of the Social Credit Party said the same thing even more forcefully.

The world will want to know who will speak for Canada now?

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Mrs. Dylan Thomas Writes

LONDON—The book they're talking about now is Leftover Life to Kill, by Caitlin Thomas. She is widow of Welsh poet Dylan Thomas, who died young and suddenly a couple of years ago. She was furious at a book written in the U.S. called Dylan Thomas in America which painted him as a lecherous drunkard.

Leftover Life to Kill was intended as her reply to that book and it was expected that it would be a defence of her husband. In fact, it does nothing to refute the accusations of sousing bawdiness in the American book; it merely comes forward with more details, many of them much more intimate because of their husband-wife relationship.

Reyburn

* * *

It would of course be foolish to try to whitewash Dylan Thomas. He was such a noticeable figure in so many hectic parties that too many people knew the facts. He used to use one of our local pubs (the Prince of Wales on Queen's Grove, just below Swiss Cottage), so I had ample opportunity to see him in action.

I never remember seeing him attired in anything but open-necked shirt gaping at the waistline where it had budged out from the top of his baggy trousers, worn half-mast on his paunch. His hair showed no signs of ever having had a conscientious combining and he was never without a tankard of beer in his hand which he waved around sloppily to emphasize something he was saying.

And the big pint beer mug got lots of waving around because he seldom stopped talking, with the bemused sort of wordiness of a person loaded to the gills. At a friend's house during several visits I paid there in the course of three weeks Dylan Thomas was to be seen on the living room couch in the process of fighting his way out of and relapsing back into a monumental binge which my friend was trying to shepherd him through.

This brings up the main point about Dylan Thomas and the aspect of his life that has set people arguing about his widow's book. Was it worth bothering with a man such as this, whose behavior branded him in the eyes of the average person as the sort of troublesome drunk that would be asked to leave any party that was even vaguely respectable? His staunch defenders, plus those who were merely prepared to put up with him, used the phrase which made allowances for everything—"He can write."

* * *

With the public his writing fame rests mainly on Under Milk Wood, heard first on radio, recently a London stage success and heading your way soon. This and some bits of poetry and poetic prose writings form not much of a basis on which to build a Dylan Thomas legend, say those who are against this current glorifying of him.

With other men also far from angelic—such as Balzac, Oscar Wilde and Van Gogh—at least it can be said of them that each left an important body of work behind him. Why make a cult of an unpleasant beer souse who only occasionally got down to stringing together some well-turned phrases?

Foot and Mouth Disease Menaces Channel Islands

JERSEY, England (Reuters)—Jersey farmers are battling an outbreak of foot and mouth disease which is threatening the Channel Islands' 11,000-strong herd of the most valuable cattle in the world.

Already 30 animals worth thousands of dollars have had to be destroyed since the outbreak started a month ago.

Persons arriving at the airport are being made to step on mats impregnated with powerful disinfectant. No pets are allowed to be taken to the island. Farmers may shoot on sight cats or dogs straying onto their land.

Korean Atomic Expert Vanishes

SEOUL (Reuters)—The South Korean National Assembly has ordered a committee to investigate the disappearance of a Korean army officer who received advanced training on atomic and guided missile warfare in the United States. The officer, Lt.-Col. Kim Hai Shik, disappeared May 30. Army sources said another lieutenant-colonel was also missing since that date and was believed to have crossed the armistice line into Communist North Korea.

Strike Holds Up Big French Ship

PARIS (AP) — The French liner Liberte was forced to delay its scheduled departure for New York today because of a wage strike by maritime engineers and mechanics of the Communist - dominated General Workers' Union.

Shipping officials expressed concern that the delay would throw trans-Atlantic passenger traffic into confusion in the midst of one of the heaviest tourist seasons in years.

Passengers scheduled to leave Le Havre for New York aboard the Liberte switched to the liners United States and Queen Mary.

The most serious difficulty posed by the continuing strike was on the other side of the Atlantic where hundreds of passengers already have booked eastbound passage aboard the Liberte.

BRICKS MORE DANGER

A-Bomb Fallout Lesser Hazard

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's top defence scientist says the risk from radioactive fallout is so small that it is much less than that involved in moving from a wooden into a brick house.

Dr. A. H. Zimmerman, chairman of the defence research board, says that moving from a frame house into one of brick or cement blocks increases the amount of natural radiation received by the individual by .025 roentgens a year.

This is almost precisely the same amount, he adds, as the estimated fallout hazard over a 30-year period from nuclear test explosions, assuming that the tests will be continued at the same rate as in the past.

In other words, says Dr. Zimmerman, living in a brick house is 30 times more risky, as far as radioactivity is concerned, than world-wide radioactive fallout from nuclear weapons tests.

In light of recent conflicting statements by world scientists on the possible effects of radioactivity from nuclear tests, The Canadian Press requested an interview with Dr. Zimmerman on the subject.

Dr. Zimmerman stressed in the promptly-granted interview that he was not taking sides. He merely wished to present some figures gathered by the board's "radiation panel" in order to bring about a better sense of proportion in the public mind of the degree of risk involved.

The question was: "How much real danger is there?" In reply, Dr. Zimmerman said he feels that a comparison with natural radiation hazards puts fallout hazards in better perspective and indicated in fact, that the risk is small.

Here are some yardstick figures:

A lethal dose of radioactivity, over the whole body, is calculated to be between 400 and 600 roentgens. Of a given number of persons exposed to such a dose, it is estimated that half would die in 30 days.

Natural Radioactivity Much Larger

The dose from nuclear weapons tests, taking into account all "shots" so far and future ones made at the current rate, is calculated at only .026 roentgens throughout a period of 30 years. That would be .001 roentgens a year.

The natural dose—from rocks, space and so on—is calculated at .01 roentgens a year. Radioactivity from minerals in bricks or cement blocks in a house is calculated at .025 roentgens a year—that is, 30 times greater than from the dose caused by nuclear tests.

Again, because of cosmic rays, the dose at 4,500 feet altitude—for instance, at some points in the Rockies—is .025 roentgens a year greater than at sea level. In other words, if you live in a brick house high in the Rockies you are exposed to 60 times more radioactivity than from nuclear tests, though the total dose is still very small.

A radioactive dose to cause sterility—and aimed directly at the reproductive organs — is reckoned at 500 roentgens for men and 300 roentgens for women.

If nuclear tests continue at their present rate, the amount of accumulated radioactivity would be four times the present level by 1983 and six times the current level by 2011. That is, by 1983, it would still be only 0.1 roentgens.

Dr. Zimmerman said there is no clinical evidence for a so-called threshold dose of strontium .90 which, in sufficient quantity, can cause cancer of the bones.

Dr. Zimmerman indicated he considers the genetic hazard is low—as low perhaps as the hazard from radioactive fallout to present generations. He added, however, that the genetic effect of radioactivity is accumulative.

Dr. Zimmerman said he personally believes the amount of radioactivity from testing will decrease as "cleaner" weapons are developed.

Flower Show Promises Surprises

Gardeners and farmers are likely to be more aware of weather than other groups of citizens with the probable exception of aviators and meteorologists.

This year our pet peeve is that the wonderful weather has brought along a host of late summer flowers by mid-June, and "blown" the choicest of the early flush of roses.

Hilda

These garden catastrophes are more noticeable when a flower show is pending, as on Friday and Saturday of this week at the Crystal Garden.

With 36 of the 110 competitive classes devoted to roses, the Victoria Horticultural Society shows its awareness that there are few gardens which do not have at least a half dozen specimen rose plants.

The great diversity of garden climates in the Victoria area is the factor which enables the annual flower shows to be a success in spite of an early or late season. Some areas always come up with the prize blooms.

This year, apart from the sweet pea classes and other specialty flowers, we are likely to see a wide range of later summer flowers make their appearance in the artistic arrangement classes.

It will also be interesting to see what turns up in the fruit and vegetable section. Some areas have been slow with vegetables and ahead in flowers.

The junior sections in any show should be better filled than formerly. This, of course, will depend primarily on the interest of the parents.

To the many new gardeners in and around Victoria we would like to say "see the flower show—it will help you to see what can be grown, and to select what appeals to you for your own garden."

Copper Shares Drop After Cut in Price

With base metals leading the index declines the Toronto stock market continued its downward trend today.

The mining list was led lower by coppers, which began to fall following a 2⅝ decrease in the price of copper. Hudson Bay was off 1½ points to 66 and International Nickel dipped 1⅜ points to 101⅝. Lower-price copper losses ranged to 15 cents but were generally 10 cents or less.

The market at New York declined quietly. Among key stocks the losses ranged from fractions to around two points or so, but a fair sprinkling of gainers remained.

AT TORONTO McIntyre led golds lower with a two-point loss at 108. Uraniums were mixed to lower in narrow-range trading.

Refining oils were the leading industrial losers. Imperial lost a point at 57¼, while other major stocks were down fractions. Page-Hersey Tubes lost two points at 132½ and Algoma Steel was off 1½ to 150.

Security featured western oils with a 50-cent gain at $5.80. Canadian Atlantic and Medallion were each ahead 25 cents. Pacific Pete gained ⅝ to 31⅞. Losses were narrow but there were almost as many as gains.

AT NEW YORK closing Canadian issues were McIntyre, off 2¼; International Nickel, a big copper producer, 2⅛; Hudson Bay Mining, 1½, and Walker-Gooderham, ¾; Aluminium Ltd., Canadian Pacific and Distillers-Seagrams lost ⅛ each. Dome Mines was among the few gainers, moving ahead ⅛.

Rising Canadian stocks on the American Exchange included Brazilian Traction and Richwell Petroleum, ahead ⅛ each. Dropping off ⅛ were Fargo Oil and Preston East Dome.

AT MONTREAL prices sagged today in moderate afternoon trading on the stock exchange.

Most losses were narrow, but some issues dropped more than a point. Hudson Bay was the afternoon's big loser with a drop of 3¼ at 66.

AT LONDON the stock market failed to derive much benefit from the start of the new account and no decided trend developed today.

Gilt-edged securities eased but there was a tendency later to recover.

Steel shares were firm. Dollar stocks reflected Tuesday's decline on Wall Street. South African gold shares were firm. Oils went ahead and showed several good improvements.

AT VANVOUVER a light market saw prices drop. Futurity moved 7,000 at 82. Cowichan Copper sold 5,000 at $1.15. Vantor traded 5,800 at $2.52.

VICTORIA—Banks buying U.S. cheques 5¼ per cent discount. Cash at 5¼ per cent discount. Silver at 7⅝ per cent. Selling cheques at 4⅝ per cent discount and cash at 4¼ per cent discount.

MONTREAL (CP)—The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 4 23/32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today. Pound sterling $2.66 1-16.

NEW YORK (CP)—The Canadian dollar was at a premium of 4 31/32 in terms of U.S. funds today. The pound sterling was unchanged at $2.79¼.

Canadian Market Eyed by British Oil Gear Firms

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British petroleum equipment mission winds up its cross-Canada tour today "quite astounded by the goodwill and interest displayed by every oil company and the governments throughout the tour.

A spokesman for the 12-member mission said at a press conference Tuesday manufacturers of petroleum equipment in the United Kingdom "now feel they are in a position to crack the Canadian market."

J. M. Storoy, leader of the mission, said British manufacturers have been getting only three per cent of the Canadian money being spent on petrochemical equipment.

"We're keen on getting more of your 105-cent dollars," he said.

Last year the 450 companies represented on the council of British manufacturers of petroleum equipment had a business volume equivalent to $430,000,000 of which $364,000,000 went to export, "but very little went to Canada."

Copper Price Cut By U.S. Producers

NEW YORK (AP)—Kennecott Copper Corp. and Phelps Dodge Corp., the largest and second largest copper producers in the United States, today lowered the price of copper 2⅝ cents to 29¼ cents a pound, effective immediately.

The Anaconda Co., third largest producer, took no immediate action but was expected to go along with the others eventually.

Wheat Exports Drop Sharply

OTTAWA (BUP)—Canadian wheat exports in the first week of June amounted to 5.7 million bushels, down sharply from the 9.8 million shipped abroad in the same week last year, the bureau of statistics said today.

Shipments since the beginning of the crop year last Aug. 1 were 184.4 million bushels, compared with 203 million in the same period a year ago.

General Softening Noted For Canadian Exports

OTTAWA (CP)—A softening in demand in some markets for wheat and other Canadian exports occurred in the first three months of 1957, the bureau of statistics said today.

The bureau also reported a "moderating" in the rate of increase for some imports in the period although many imports remained at record levels.

The bureau's views were contained in a report on Canada's balance of international payments during the first three months of 1957. The report showed that a greater increase in payments to other countries for goods and services than in receipts led to a widening of the current account deficit in the three months.

The deficit for the quarter totaled $409,000,000, compared with $363,000,000 in the first quarter of 1956. The figure for the period is exceeded only by a deficit of $435,000,000 in the second quarter of last year.

Canadian demand for industrial machinery and building and engineering materials still was providing the backbone of the recent extraordinary import demand.

A major factor contributing to the size of the deficit was an imbalance in merchandise trade. A deficit of $224,000,000 on merchandise transactions was some $33,000,000 above the deficit in the same quarter last year.

Declares Dividend

TORONTO (CP)—Sheraton Corp. of America has declared a stock dividend of two per cent payable Aug. 1, to shareholders of record July 3. Cash will be paid in lieu of fractional shares based on the closing price July 3, 1957.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Reports that the U.S. tariff commission had recommended a cut in rye imports brought liberal rye selling today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Later, however, offerings showed a tendency to dry up and there were some rallies from the low points.

Moderate activity occurred in trading in other grains with some export orders for flax. There was some buying of barley by exporters and shippers with reports of parcel lots going to the United Kingdom.

Oats trading was mainly domestic. Prices were lower.

Overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat included: Poland, 370,000 bushels; Belgium, 150,000; United Kingdom, 85,000; The Netherlands, 30,000, and Germany, 20,000.

Lakehead prices for class two, IWA, and domestic wheat were all unchanged from Tuesday.

CHICAGO (AP)—Short covering and strong advances in rye prices aided a rally in grain futures today on the board of trade.

Wheat, which had been lower early on hedge selling, advanced on short covering.

Rye featured the market with gains of as much as five cents at times. The buying was influenced by word that the U.S. tariff commission has recommenced an import quota of 93,200,000 pounds for rye, rye flour and rye meal for each of the two years beginning July 1.

Pacific Petroleums Brings in B.C. Well

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (CP)—Pacific Petroleums Ltd. today announced discovery of oil in its Pacific Charlie Lake 93 well, one mile east of here.

The company said the oil was obtained on a drill stem test of cretaceous sand between 3,320 and 3,340 feet. The test brought gas to the surface in three minutes and the oil flow was estimated at 17 barrels an hour, it said.

The firm's statement said 800 feet of oil and 100 feet of gas-cut and oil-cut mud was recovered when the pipe was pulled.

Scores Arrested In Haiti Crisis

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—Hundreds of workers and peasants have fled this seething Caribbean capital city in fear that fresh violence may erupt.

Loaded with personal belongings, they began streaming out of Port au Prince Tuesday as the ruling military junta started jailing political partisans on a wide scale.

Those fleeing to the countryside included supporters of both presidential candidate Louis Dejoie and his arch-rival, the ousted provisional president, Daniel Fignole.

Dejoie was in hiding. Six of his chief advisers and scores of followers were among those arrested.

The military rulers apparently concentrated on Dejoie's backers to keep them from again organizing general strikes. Most business firms in the capital followed orders from Dejoie in the recurrent strikes staged during the political turmoil that has unseated six governments since December.

The junta has outlawed strikes. It also pushed a widespread shake-up of the army commands.

Student Christian Group Plans Voluntary Work in Far North

OTTAWA (CP)—A party of men and women university students, members of the Student Christian Movement, is to spend the summer in voluntary Arctic work at Frobisher Bay.

The northern affairs department said Tuesday it has accepted the movement's offer of seven men and five women students who are keen on learning about the Arctic and Eskimos and who want to spend their summer vacation among them.

The group gathers here July 3 for briefings, leaves the same day for Mont Joli, Que., from where it flies July 4 to Frobisher, where a new townsite is under construction.

Led by Frank Thompson, 27, an Anglican divinity student at the University of Western Ontario, London, the men will do rough carpentry, general construction work, and help unload the supply ship due in late July with the year's stores.

The girls likely will do clerical work and some cooking. Mrs. Thompson, 26, is one of them.

NO PAYMENT

A department spokesman said the group, representing Anglicans, United Church of Canada, Presbyterians, Baptists and the Plymouth Brethren, will work without pay, although the department will provide transportation, food and accommodation.

George Parsons, an information officer with the department, is to accompany the students as liaison officer. A course of lectures is to be arranged for them, with the RCMP corporal and the northern service officer there the principal speakers.

One Student Christian Movement is affiliated with the Canadian Council of Churches and arrangements were made by the department and Shiela McDonough, SCM executive secretary.

Making the trip are to be Heather Stewart, 20; Robert Ross, 21; Alan Baker, 25; Donald Pipe, 26, and Jack Snell, 23, all of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Thompson; Ray Farrell, 20, Kincardine, Ont.; Ruth Lor, 24, Brockville, Ont.; Richard Allen, 28, Ottawa, and Ruth Pheeney, 20, Fredericton.

Lectures on B.C. to Feature Summer Courses Next Month

On eof the most interesting "teacher" projects in connection with the centennial year will be available next month at Victoria College summer courses.

Two hours per day for 10 evenings will be devoted to lectures by outstanding authorities on facets of B.C. resources, people, history and arts.

Under chairmanship of L. J. Wallace, general chairman of the B.C. Centennial Committee, lecturers will be:

LECTURERS

David B. Turner, PHd, director of conservation for the B.C. Lands Service, speaks on flying over B.C., and provincial resources; Provincial archivist and librarian Willard Ireland lectures on the province as it was a century ago and growth in the last 100 years; Lands and Forest Minister Ray Williston speaks concerning the people of the province; Victoria Art Gallery curator Colin Graham lectures on the arts of B.C., and John J. Deutsch, PHd., head of the UBC department of economics and political science, forecasts the next 100 years of B.C. progress.

First session will be July 3 and time for the course is between 7.30 and 9.30 p.m.

Another non-credit course drawing considerable interest is that in drawing, painting and graphics. Instructor is William D. West of the Vancouver School of Art.

Time will be from 1.15 to 3.15 p.m. Monday to Friday inclusive for five weeks. First meeting will be Tuesday, July 2.

Early registration is requested from persons interested. It may be made by mail.

$125.00 Trade-in Allowance for Your Old Washer on this de luxe 1957 DUO-MATIC BENDIX WASHER-DRYER

Low Down Payment — Convenient Terms

It Washes—It Dries
In one appliance—in one operation.
- Set the dials just once.
- The auto duo-matic does the rest.
- Washes, dries—automatically.
- Washes better.

With tumble action that lifts the clothes high, then plunges them into hot sudsy water—triple motion rinsing flushes away lint, light soil and heavy grime.
- Dries a new way, too — fluff and tumble drying.
- Use anywhere—does not need venting—lint and moisture are flushed down the drain; uses only 36" space.
- Use separately, if desired—use as a washer or as a dryer.

THE DUCHESSES BLUSHED

Sabrina, nee Nora Sykes, Britain's "dumb blonde" of television, shocked everyone, but everyone, at Royal Ascot Tuesday. The girl who won fame by just breathing, crashed the royal enclosure at the race track to the horror of the assembled dowagers.—(Daily Mirror photo)

ROYAL ASCOT RUINED

Aristocracy Rocked As Sabrina Enters

ASCOT, England (AP) — The babe with the biggest bust in British show business gate-crashed the hallowed royal enclosure at the Ascot races Tuesday. It was sensational, and the place may never be the same again.

The girl with the bust is Sabrina, nee Norma Sykes, known the length and breadth of the British Isles as "television's dumb blonde." She has become famous by the simple process of standing in front of the cameras and breathing. The vital statistic is 41 inches.

Sabrina's appearance before the Royal Family and among the peers of the realm created a bigger shock than the victory of an eight-year-old gelding named Bonhomie in the day's feature race, and Bonhomie paid 76 to 1 on the tote.

EYEBALLS POP

Dressed in a low-necked flowered organdy, Sabrina walked into the enclosure without a ticket while the gate man was groping around the royal turf for his eyeballs.

"Scandalous!" hissed 15 duchesses, or it may have been 18.

"Shocking!" muttered six viscountesses, or maybe it was seven.

"Yes, m'deah," murmured their titled escorts as they kept on looking.

HAD EXCUSE READY

A reporter who encountered the showgirl asked her what in the world she was doing in the royal enclosure.

"Looking," giggled Sabrina, "for the ladies' powder room."

After a 15-minute search Sabrina departed as thousands peered, including a rare assortment of popeyed dukes, viscounts, lords, barons and earls.

The Queen and the other members of the Royal Family did not appear to notice.

Hussein Ex-Wife Wants Baby Back

CAIRO (Reuters)—The semi-official Egyptian newspaper Al Gomhouria says Queen Dina of Jordan has gone to Baghdad to ask her cousin, King Faisal, to plead with King Hussein of Jordan to give her back her baby daughter, Aliya.

Another Cairo newspaper, Al Ahram, reported Monday that Hussein had divorced his hazel-eyed queen and that she had flown to Baghdad to settle family affairs and Aliya's future. Jordan denied this report.

Former Missionary To Eskimos Dies

NEW YORK (AP)—An 81-year-old former missionary to Canadian Eskimos died here Tuesday.

Rev. Frederick Swindlehurst, a retired Anglican clergyman and a native of Britain, was ordained at a Hudson Bay mission in 1902 and served there among the Eskimos until 1915.

Later he served as an Episcopalian minister in the United States.

'FLANDERS FIELD' QUOTED

GI in Japan Hears of Win

NEW YORK (CP) — A colorful American lawyer with a sharp nose for news quoted a Canadian soldier-poet of the First World War at a press conference held Tuesday in the interests of an American soldier facing trial in a Japanese court.

The case of army specialist William Girard, accused of manslaughter in the death of a Japanese woman slain on a United States army firing range in Japan while scavenging for scrap metal, has become a big issue in the U.S., involving the right of foreign courts to try American soldiers.

Earl J. Carroll and his partner, Joseph S. Robinson, both New York international lawyers, have been fighting the Girard case in U.S. courts. A district judge in Washington ruled Tuesday that Girard could not be turned over to the Japanese for trial.

SEE SUPREME COURT BID

This doesn't end the legal battle, of course, since the U.S. government earlier had agreed to turn Girard over to the Japanese court and now may take the issue to the U.S. Supreme Court. But lawyer Carroll acted quickly Tuesday afternoon as soon as word of the district judge's decision was received.

Within the hour he called a press conference with the aid of a New York press agent.

Carroll read a victory statement three times for the television cameras while Robinson nodded. The statement said it was a victory not only for Girard but for American civilians as well as soldiers, and for "our constitutional form of government."

Then he employed a quotation which for a time caused some confusion and arguments among the reporters present. This was the quotation:

". . . To you from failing hands we throw the cross;
"Be yours to hold it high.
"If you break faith with we who die, we shall not sleep . . ."

Then he concluded by saying:

"Tonight all Americans, living and dead, can sleep in peace. May it be ever so."

NOT KILMER, McRAE

Carroll didn't attribute the quotation, but most of the reporters thought it came from the works of Joyce Kilmer, the American poet who wrote "Trees," and so labelled it.

It took a Canadian reporter to set them right. The quotation of course is from "In Flanders Fields," by John MacRae, who died of pneumonia while serving in the Canadian Army during the First World War. And the poem is familiar to every Canadian school child.

PHONES GOOD NEWS

The reporters, photographers and TV men then listened in on a phone conversation Carroll held with his client in Japan.

It developed Girard had not yet heard the news.

"You can't be turned over to the Japanese," Carroll said while reporters took notes. "We have won this round. If there is an appeal, don't worry about it, we'll defend you in the next round. Don't let anybody talk you into voluntarily accepting jurisdiction of a Japanese court . . . Why didn't they tell you of the decision sooner? Why were they hiding it?"

It was then 5 a.m. in Tokyo.

GREEK COURT TRIAL SET

ATHENS (Reuters)—American airman Mario L. Musalli was handed over today by Greek police to United States Army authorities pending his trial in a Greek court for manslaughter by negligence of Gen. Stefanos Sarafis, Greek war resistance hero.

Sarafis died in hospital after a motor accident May 31. His British-born wife was severely injured.

Carpenters Vote Strike

Major Vancouver Projects Affected If 4,000 Workers Walk Off Jobs

(From CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER—The carpenters' union has voted 2 to 1 to strike for higher wages, George Bengough, international representative of the union, said Tuesday.

Work on two major city bridges—Oak Street and Second Narrows—would cease if the men walked off their jobs.

In announcing the result of a government-supervised ballot Bengough said 900 members actually voted out of 1,300 entitled to do so.

Twenty-three construction firms and 4,000 workers are involved in the dispute. The union executive has set no date for a strike.

The union has been demanding $3 an hour, while a conciliation board recommended a 33c an hour cash raise over two years, plus 7c for the health and welfare plan as from October 1.

These terms have been rejected. Present pay is $2.25 for Lower Mainland carpenters and $2.28 for other areas.

The strike vote follows nearly six months of negotiations.

FINE RECORD ENDS

VANCOUVER — A 71-year-old man who drove 44 years and 1,000,000 miles without an accident was convicted in assize court Tuesday of criminal negligence.

He is Leonard Short, who was released on his own recognizance by Mr. Justice A. M. Manson pending sentence later.

A 12-man jury added a recommendation for leniency.

Short's car struck Mrs. Joanna Mueller, 72, March 28. She died five days later.

$2,200 MISSING

VANCOUVER—City police detectives are investigating the reported disappearance of $2,200 from a safe and a cash drawer at the Yale Hotel here.

The management of the hotel reported Tuesday the money had vanished overnight.

MAN DROWNED

KITIMAT—Sidney Putnam Radmond, 36, of Kitimat, is missing and presumed drowned in a boating accident that occurred near here Sunday, RCMP reported Tuesday.

Frank Bowers, the other occupant of the small outboard-motor craft, said it hit a log and capsized. He managed to swim ashore but Mr. Radmond was drowned in the icy water, police said.

SEAPLANE BASE

VANCOUVER—Pacific Western Airlines will go ahead with construction of its Vancouver harbor seaplane base despite discontinuance Tuesday of all but one of its scheduled harbor flights.

Planes on the Vancouver-Powell River run will continue to operate from the month-old base along with charter aircraft.

Flights between Vancouver and Port Alberni, the Gulf Islands, Shalalth and Gun Lake have been suspended.

WILL BUILD ELEVATOR

FORT ST. JHON — George E. Edworthy, an executive of United Grain Growers, said Tuesday the company has made application to lease a site from the Pacific Great Eastern Railway for construction of an elevator in this community about 375 miles northwest of Edmonton.

The site would be located on a spur line set aside here by the PGE to service the grain trade.

PROMOTE YOUTH HOSTEL

VANCOUVER — City Council agreed Tuesday to set up a committee to promote a hostel in Vancouver for homeless and wayward youths.

A delegation from the B.C. Youth Council asked city council to finance a youth hostel here as a pilot project but councillors said they did not think they should take financial responsibility for something that was a provincial problem.

ASIATIC FLU SUSPECT

VANCOUVER—A man who recently returned from a visit to Hong Kong is being examined to determine whether he has Asiatic flu, city health officials said Tuesday.

Dr. Stewart Murray, medical officer of health, said blood samples and throat washings have been sent to the provincial health laboratory and will be forwarded to Ottawa for further tests. He said results of the examination will be known in a week's time.

PENGUIN FIRST SCORED AT STANLEY PARK

VANCOUVER (CP)—The first Humbolt penguin to be hatched in Canada arrived Tuesday at Stanley Park Zoo.

Zoo curator Alan Best said the infant bird is light grey, about the size of a large duckling and "looks healthy enough." He said the mother penguin will feed it with pre-digested fish.

Two more Humbolts are expecting and the next hatching could occur today, Mr. Best said. Three King penguin eggs also have been laid.

33,000,000 Carry Communist Cards

LONDON (AP)—A Soviet leader claimed Tuesday night that Communist parties throughout the world have a membership of 33,000,000, with 3,000,000 of them in Western Europe and North America. B. N. Ponomarev, a departmental chief of the Soviet party, was quoted by Moscow radio as saying there are 76 Communist parties in the world, including 13 in the European and Asian Communist blocs and 42 in the "capitalist countries of Europe and America."

Scare Kills Man

TOKYO (AP) — A 70-year-old kimono dealer died of shock today when he tried to pay for a new supply of material and found his roll of 200,000 yen ($555) missing. At the morgue the money was found inside the lining of the old man's trousers. It had slipped through a hole in his pocket.

Found in Hospital

LOS ANGELS (AP) — A week after being reported missing, author Elliott Paul, 66, has been found in hospital, suffering from a heart attack. The bearded writer of The Last Time I Saw Paris, Life and Death of a Spanish Town, and other well-known works, was brought into the hospital as an emergency case Monday, a hospital spokesman said. He was reported missing last Wednesday by a friend.

Red Deer Air Officer OC, HMCS Shearwater

OTTAWA (CP) — Commander John D. Love, 37, of Red Deer, Alta., and Ottawa, deputy director of naval aviation at navy headquarters here, has been appointed air commander at HMCS Shearwater, the RCN air station near Dartmouth, N.S.

Cmdr. Lowe will succeed Cmdr. Donald W. Knox, of Montreal and Dartmouth, who will take an unspecified new appointment.

U.S. Leftovers In Korea Buses Killing Scores

All Parts Stolen Fleet Now 3,100;

SEOUL (Reuters) — South Korea's buses, made out of stolen United States army truck parts, oil drums, and even beer cans, are causing a heavy death toll among passengers and pedestrians.

They explode on the highways, run down cliffs with broken axles and kingpins, dive into rivers with jammed steering gears, and crash into stores and houses.

In one recent eight-day period, buses killed or injured 164 persons.

The national police reported that in 1956 buses were involved in more than one-third of the country's 5,240 traffic accidents, in which 2,309 people were gilled and 6,505 injured.

HOME-MADE

At hundreds of "assembly plants" scattered through the teeming back alleys of Seoul and Pusan, Korean mechanics build buses with hammers and acetylene torches as their sole tools.

Workers flatten the oil drums. Using torches, they cut the sheets into various sizes to form the exterior of a bus. Flattened beer cans are used freely for the interior bodywork.

No two vehicles are alike. South Korea has imported fewer than 25 buses since the outbreak of the Korean War in 1950. Yet in seven years, the bus fleet has grown to a total of more than 3,100.

All the chassis come from wrecked or stolen trucks. Engines, transmission systems and steering mechanisms are assembled or installed from whatever parts are available on the black market.

Ordinary, thin window-glass is used, and this shatters into sharp pieces in an accident.

Whim of Two Police Saves Drowning Girl

VANCOUVER (CP) — Whim that took two city police constables a few blocks off their patrol car beat Tuesday afternoon saved an eight-year-old girl from drowning at Sunset Beach.

The girl, Margaret Gorder, was dragged semi-conscious from water over her head by Constables Larry Gilbertson and William Simmons.

The dramatic rescue was carried out seconds after a rescue attempt by the drowning girl's companion, eight-year-old Sharon Schneider, had failed.

The constables heard cries from both girls and saw Margaret struggling in the water. They waded in up to their shoulders to rescue the girl as she was beginning to lose consciousness.

She was taken to hospital for observation.

Constable Simmons said he and Gilbertson drove a few blocks off their regular "beat" to cruise past the beach, and saw the girl floundering in an unpatrolled area near Burrard Bridge.

"We got to her just in time," said Simmons. "Her head was under water. Only her arms were visible on the surface. If we hadn't happened along, she'd be dead."

RUSSIA PLANS ON SEVERAL SATELLITES

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A Russian scientist said today the Soviet Union will launch several artificial earth satellites during the International Geophysical Year. Evgeni Federov, a member of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, said Russia would launch "not one but several" of the satellites to circle the earth at altitudes varying from 125 to 300 miles, and "the entire surface of the earth will be covered by the observations."

NELSON TO COACH SAILORS — IN VICTORIA GRID LOOP

Bert's Back and Navy's Set to Roll

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Bert Nelson, ex-Winnipeg Blue Bomber and former coach of the Navy's entry in the Victoria Intermediate Canadian Football Union, is returning to the Island sports picture.

Navy team manager Lieut. Earl Foston today confirmed that Nelson will be back at his old position to replace Lieut. Frank Hindle, coach for the past two years who has been appointed away.

It may seem that football, usually considered an autumn game, may be with us a bit early, but the fact is that the men who gambol on the gridiron are already manipulating in high gear.

Besides Navy, the three-team circuit also includes Mayo Vampires and Oak Bay Drakes, western intermediate finalists last year.

The sailors launched training Monday.

"It's really only organizational work," said Foston. "They won't get down to serious work until Nelson arrives on July 15.

"We're a bit behind schedule this year. Most of our ships are at sea and many of our players are unavailable. As a matter of fact, we're not just sure what we are going to have.

REBUILDING CHORE

"Actually, I think we're faced with quite a rebuilding chore. We lost most of last year's team through discharges and sea drafts. But we'll definitely come up with a team," he added.

Only about half dozen members of last year's squad are around the base, he said. The list includes Otto Brown, Bill Porter, Joe Hornesty, Roy (Pop) Reeves, Bob Cook and Bob Duggan.

BERT NELSON

Reeves, team captain last year who is a little doubtful about returning to active playing this season, and Hornesty are expected to serve as Nelson's assistants. It was also learned that Chaplain I. R. Edwards, now in Ottawa, may help coach Navy.

Chaplain Edwards, scheduled to arrive in September, is considered as one of the country's leading gridiron coaches. He earned his early reputation firstly as a player in college and later coached HMCS Stadacona teams to great successes in the Maritimes.

COACHING CLASSES

Hornesty and Reeves, incidentally, were among 110 minor coaches who attended special coaching classes conducted by British Columbia Lions in Vancouver at the weekend.

Foston will again handle managerial duties. The 40-year-old manager arrived in Victoria last August after handling similar duties for five years at the Naval Air Station in Nova Scotia.

Football circles recently heard rumors that the Navy might stage an inter-service championship, possibly playing Stadacona in an East-West battle. Foston, however, discounted the reports.

"We certainly would like to see an East-West final. Right now, I would say that's not possible. It would mean an airlift—a costly proposition. It would have to be played either in Victoria or Halifax. There certainly wouldn't be any interest in, for example, Winnipeg."

Well, sir, it may be early, but it does appear as if that football is rolling along.

Prior Flashes Mound Magic; Farmers Clip Burnaby Again

By GRAHAM COX

Bill Prior wove a magic spell Tuesday night at Royal Athletic Park as he pitched Victoria Farmer Construction to a thrilling 4-3 win over Burnaby Athletics in the Northwest International Semi-Pro Baseball League.

It was a satisfying win for Prior and his mates. Burnaby was leading 3-1 from the fourth to seventh innings before Farmers could tie it all up in the bottom of the seventh and go ahead to win in the bottom of the ninth.

Prior threw a lot of baseballs for his win as he worked one pitch behind the batters most of the night. He came from behind on 13 occasions for strikeouts and only allowed the touring team two hits, both in the same inning, when the A's scored their three runs.

The magic wore a little thin in the fourth frame, when Burnaby scored all three of their runs, and it looked as though they had finally fathomed the veteran's style.

He started it all off himself as he walked Bill Kinder, struck out John Davies and then yielded a solid double to Gerry Halgren, that chased Kinder across with the first run.

The next man to the plate was Frank Vaselenak, who dumped one down the first-base side, and after Prior fielded the ball, he fired it over the first-baseman, Art Worth's, head into the right field.

It was expensive as Vaselenak went all the way to third and Halgren scored.

A single behind short by Ed Pelechaty scored Halgren and the next two batters went down in order.

Art's Single Wrecks Burnaby Strategy

Pitching against Prior, right-handed Stan Dagneau drew tight the cinches and got good fielding support to hold Farmers scoreless through to the seventh with Vaselenak, in left field, pulling off the play of the game.

He made a running, over-the-shoulder catch of one of Charlie Boyd's power drives into deep left, that made the third out and nipped a budding Victoria rally. Farmers had knotted the count and were threatening to pull out into the lead.

The most important blow of the game was one of the least impressive, as Art Worth singled in the bottom of the ninth to drive home Pete Ash with the tie-breaker.

Ash had singled and advanced on an error that put Harford on the paths, with both of them being sacrificed on by a Lyall Cornett bunt.

Boyd was given an intentional pass to get at Worth, who had gone hitless in three previous tries, and the bases were loaded.

Worth crossed up the strategy by poking a broken-bat single just out of reach of second-baseman Art Jaccard to score Ash.

Farmers managed only seven hits off the offerings of Dagneau, but made them count. Hodge and Harford were the only players to hit more than once.

Saturday, Farmers will have Seattle Cheney Studs knocking on the door of their 12-4 record in a doubleheader played at Royal Athletic Park at 2.30 and 8.00 p.m.

Irish, T-Men Aim At Lead Tonight

Victoria Shamrocks will be out to wrap up first place in the Inter-City Lacrosse League all for themselves when they host Nanaimo Timbermen at Memorial Arena tonight.

The only trouble is, Nanaimo will be out to do practically the same thing.

Presently tied for the league lead at 16 points apiece, the two clubs will be meeting for the fifth time. They are all even at four points each after the four previous clashes, both Rocks and Timbermen winning one at home and one away.

Timbermen are expected to be near full strength, the return of Fred Fulla and Derry Davis helps compensate for the temporary loss of goalie Alf Shuker, injured in a car crash.

Fulla, their all-star goalkeeper as they won the Mann Cup in the 1956 season, will be playing his first game this year. Davis missed three games with a strained knee ligament.

Also expected to play is Barry Ashbee, younger brother of their high-scoring veteran, Don Ashbee.

For Victoria, the starry Bradshaw - Dobbie - Bionda combination is counted on to provide a lot of the punch, while Don Sherry will go on a second forward line with Al Gill and Ed Kowalyk.

Third forward string will have Art Green, Bert Bertoia, and juvenile Bob McKee in strip. Utility man is Al Davies.

On defence, coach Whitey Severson will have Bill Bamford and Jack Howse forming one unit, while Lou Landess and Jack Northup will alternate in protecting goalie Geordie Johnston.

In Vancouver on Tuesday, the streaking New Westminster Salmonbellies won their third in a row to break a third-place tie.

The 'Bellies, who had earlier beaten both Shamrocks and Timbermen, made it a clean sweep of every club in the circuit as they picked on Vancouver Pilseners, 10-6, to move into undisputed possession of third spot.

Loss dropped the Pilseners into the league basement, with a total of 12 points, two points back of the rejuvenated New Westminster aggregation.

Salmonbelles are now just two points behind the co-leaders.

Trailing 2-4 at half-time, Pils lost all chance of victory as New Westminster rapped in five goals to their two in the third quarter.

Bill Jobb led the winners with three goals, while Cliff Sepka added two. Norm Usselman snaked two past solid Stan Joseph for the losers.

Bobby, Not Art, Key Man; Cuts Down Bengals, 2-1

By Associated Press

Bobby Shantz, well on his way in what may be the comeback of the year in the American League, is just what Casey Stengel had him pegged for—the little guy who could knock off the big guys for his New York Yankees.

The Yankees were chest high in pitchers and confidence when they picked off Art Ditmar and Shantz from Kansas City in that February deal. Ditmar figured to be the key man—but Ol' Case wore a wink when he talked of "that little feller" with the sore arm.

So now Shantz is the Yankee ace, replacing the ailing Whitey Ford. Shantz leads his league in percentage with an 8-1 record, and has a runnerup 1.87 earned-run average.

The 31-year-old southpaw got his first shot of the year at the Tigers Tuesday night and cut their winning string at five games with a 2-1 victory as New York won its fifth in a row and edged within 2½ games of first-place Chicago, beaten 2-1 at Baltimore.

Cleveland replaced Detroit in third place, beating Boston 7-6. And Kansas City gained its first shutout victory as Ralph Terry, acquired in the most recent deal with the Yankees, and Virgil Trucks beat Washington 2-0.

BEATS EX-MATES

Trades figured in the National League race, too. Right-hander Ray Crone beat his ex-Milwaukee mates 5-4 with a neat relief job for New York Giants. The Braves kept a one-game lead, however, as Pittsburgh belted St. Louis 8-1. Philadelphia gained a share of second with the Cards, defeating Chicago Cubs 7-6.

Brooklyn Dodgers also moved within a game of Milwaukee, three points behind the Cards and Phils, by swamping Cincinnati 7-0.

Shantz tossed a seven-hitter, struck out six and walked only two in winning his seventh in a row. Rookie second baseman Bob Richardson drove in both runs off Billy Hoeft, who lost his fourth.

Jim Busby, acquired in a trade with Cleveland last week, drove in both Oriole runs and had two of the four singles given up by loser Billy Pierce, now 10-4 with his second successive defeat. George Zuverink won his seventh in relief as the White Sox lost their sixth in the last 10. They led by six when the skid started.

INDIANS CLUB SOX

Chico Carrasquel, Vic Wertz, Rocky Colavito and Roger Maris homered for the Indians, who won their eighth in the last 11 games. Jackie Jensen smacked a three-run homer in the ninth for the Red Sox, who have lost four in a row. Ray Narleski saved a fourth victory for Bob Lemon.

Righthander Art Swanson, who had worked only 24 innings since signing a bonus contract with the Pirates in 1955, had a two-hit shutout for eight innings and finished with a four-single job on the Cards for his first major league start and victory. Bill Virdon drove in three runs with two homers, both off loser Larry Jackson.

Don Newcombe had himself a night at Cincinnati, gaining his sixth victory and third shutout—while driving in two runs with three of the Dodgers' 13 hits and swatting his first 1957 homer. The fifth-place Redlegs lost their eighth in the last nine.

Arrow Attack Maims Mayos; Sluggett Wins

Archie Sluggett heralded his return to the mound Tuesday night by pitching Arrow Furniture to a 6-2 victory over Mayo Lumber at Central Park.

It was Sluggett's first start of the season, and the canny veteran held the visitors scoreless until the eighth inning, when he opened the gate a crack and allowed them two runs before slamming it shut again.

For Mayo's it was their third loss in a row, as they dropped a double header in Duncan Sunday, when Halfway House set them down 9-8 and 9-1.

Four successive singles, to Brian McKinley, who opposed Sluggett on the mound, Jim Peterson, Bob Smith and Dennis Stubbs scored the runs for the losers.

Arrows battered McKinley for 10 hits, scoring singles in the first and second and driving over three runs in the third. They made sure of the win with an additional count in the sixth canto.

Sluggett allowed seven hits and two walks for the win, while McKinley gave up the same number of free passes to go with Arrows 10 safeties.

MOUNTIES BLANKED

Surging Rainiers Can't Shake Pads

By The Associated Press

Seattle's Rainiers, on the crest of a seven-game winning streak, have tightened the Pacific Coast League race, but can't draw away from the fifth-place San Diego Padres, who trail them by a half game.

Both teams scored shutout victories Tuesday night at the expense of the league's two top teams. And third-ranked Hollywood also lost.

Southpaw Charles Rabe hurled the Suds to a 2-0 triumph over the second-ranked Vancouver Mounties and righthander Dick Brodowski matched that for the Padres by the same score against the league-leading San Francisco Seals.

The Seals remained 2½ games in front of the Mounties, who are a game ahead of Hollywood and 3½ up on Seattle.

ANOTHER MARATHON

For the second straight night, Hollywood and Portland battled it out in a lengthy marathon. But this time the lowly seventh-place Beavers avenged a 13-inning loss by winning, 6-5, in 14 innings.

In the other game, Los Angeles' Angels cruised to an easy 8-2 victory over last-place Sacramento.

Brodowski's six-hit pitching for San Diego was helped by the hitting of Rudy Regaldo and Eddie Kazak. Between them they garnered seven of their club's nine hits and Regaldo drove in both runs.

Rabe pitched five-hit ball for Seattle, struck out seven and walked three. He was solidly supported by Jim Dyck, who doubled and scored on catcher Ray Orteig's line single to centre-field. Later Dyck pounded out his third homer of the season, a 345-foot blow over the left-field wall.

BILKO HOMERS

Big Steve Bilko contributed his 13th homer of the season to the Los Angeles victory. After striking out with the bases loaded in the first frame, Sacramento's Harry Bright tripled and scored and later belted a four-bagger.

FATHER'S 6 IRON STARTED DICK IN GOLF — QUIT WALL STREET FOR TOURNEY TRAIL

If Junior Swipes Your Clubs, Remember Mayer

By OSCAR FRALEY

TOLEDO, O. (UP) — If junior swipes your golf sticks or can't get interested in that new job you've lined up for him, don't get angry with him, Pop.

He just might wind up as the U.S. Open golf champion.

Those were two "faults" with a young fellow named Dick Mayer. And that's the lad who went out in the Inverness inferno Sunday and polished off Cary Middlecoff by seven shots in a playoff for the coveted Open title.

"When I was about eight years old in Greenwich, Conn., I broke the lock on the closet and swiped my Dad's six iron," Dick grinned. "I whacked balls around a baseball diamond and got so that I could do anything with that club except eat."

Later on, Dick started to work in Wall Street and was apparently destined to be a broker.

"But the market broke," he chuckled, "and besides, I was tired of running to try to get to work on time."

So he chucked the whole business and, having been a top amateur for several years, decided to try his hand as a pro.

"It's probably harder on the nerves," he says, "but you can't beat the hours."

Mayer, who stands almost six feet and weighs 165 pounds, knows all about nerves. Enlisting in the army in 1942, he was in the combat engineers and saw service in the Mediterranean and in Europe. After that he wound up driving a tank.

"I got to be a sergeant once," he recalls. But then I made the mistake of telling a lieutenant that they didn't know how to run an army. I wound up back as a private."

When he returned from service, Dick gave Wall Street its brief whirl and then, after chucking the whole business, went to work for Claude Harmon at Seminole. He had been a member at Winged Foot in Mamaroneck, N.Y., and had taken lessons from Claude.

"I've also been helped by Craig Wood, Lloyd Mangrum and Toney Penna," he explained. "But I'd have to say that Ben Hogan was my long-time idol. I sure wish I could hit a ball like he can."

Mayer has been doing pretty well. His victories include such as the Kansas City, Eastern, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Miami Opens. He should have at least tied for the Open at Baltusrol in 1954 but took a double bogey on the final hole and finished third.

"That taught me never to worry too much," he said, "so, while I was nervous underneath I forced myself to relax when I played Middelcoff. I just telling myself to forget Cary and play the course."

Mayer has an 11-year-old stepdaughter and a four-year-old son. His wife, Doris, follows him around the course when he plays and was a worried spectator as Dick bested Middlecoff.

"I'll be 35 in August," he summed it up, "but that playoff made me feel 105. The whole thing made a nervous wreck out of me—but, oh boy, what a wonderful feeling. Maybe it all came three years late, but better late than never."

Which, for a guy who just couldn't make it on time to the office and who frequently just makes it to the first tee on time, is just about par for the course.

OUTDOOR REPORT BY Doug Peden

Sportsmen in the United States and Canada spent something like $150,000,000 on the purchase and care of dogs last year.

As might be expected, such a lucrative market opens the door for a host of specialized products. Thumb through the back pages of any nationally-circulated outdoors magazine and you'll find where you can buy any number of weird and wonderful thing for your pooch.

Many of the products are good mostly for laughs, but many have been getting a lot of play from the dog-owning public, including synthetic scents, originally used for lures on traplines.

Special versions have been used for years by professional and amateur dog trainers. And now a growing number of one-dog owners, who are short on time and don't have ready access to training grounds, are becoming convinced that scents can be one of their greatest training aids.

Scents will not train a hunting dog. But they will help teach him to do something or help break him of a bad habit.

Pheasant and duck scents are said to be excellent aids in training a dog to flush and retrieve game birds. Deer musk can be used to break a dog of running deer by giving him so much scent he gets disgusted with the stuff and never wants another sniff—like a kid who ate too much strawberry shortcake.

Gadgets Galore to Make Dogs Happier

But how about some of the other gadgets advertised in this magazine on my desk?

If you are the small dog type, you can get an electric shocking stick to fend off attacks by big mongrels on your little pet when you're out walking. The same outfit also advertises electric dog clippers and a "dog water warmer"—an electric element that can be placed in his water dish to prevent freezing.

Planning to take your dog on a long trip? If so, you can order an aluminum dog crate for the purpose or buy car trunk ventilators so you can carry a dog in the car trunk with the lid locked. Without a dog, the ventilators help keep game fresh while travelling.

Is he troubled with fleas? One company advertizes a "flea-seat"pad that a dog, it says, will love to sleep on. Another company offers a cedar-treated pad with washable slip-covers that gives an outdoors atmosphere.

If your dog barks too much, you can find an ad for an anti-bark bridle. And you can order a self-filling watering dish, any number of collars, whistles, training books, name tags, special-type kennels and swinging doors or flaps for the kennel you already own.

Rubber Boots to Protect His Feet

Rubber boots in any of four sizes will keep a dog's feet dry and there are a couple of potions designed to keep wandering males from calling on your lady dog at the wrong times. Another concoction is suppose to keep your pet off the good furniture while you're away.

Speaking of special potions, there's one for housebreaking that is guaranteed to attract a dog to a newspaper or box of dirt.

Nestled alongside the ad for the above-mentioned product, perhaps in case it didn't work, is one about a gadget called the "Sooper Dooper Pooper Scooper." That one requires no skill to use and its purpose, I think, is obvious.

★ ★ ★

Mike Gorick, down from Qualicum Beach, says that the bluebacks up his way have been more than keeping anglers happy during the past few days. Their tastes may change at any time, but the blues have been going for red-and-white bucktail flies trolled near the surface.

★ ★ ★

Only one big salmon—a 29½-pound spring taken in the morning— came in at Oak Bay Tuesday. Choppy seas kept most evening anglers in protected waters and only a few small fish reached the dock. However, it seems probable that the big springs will still be around in The Gap and off Discovery Island for a while longer.

Taylor Meets Ron Mitchell In Net Semis

Sharon Whittaker and Diana Lawrence will be looking for the same berth in the finals of the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club's annual tennis championship when they meet in a semifinal match at 5.30 tonight.

Miss Whittaker, the defending champion, is expected to receive a battle from Miss Lawrence, a promising junior.

Also to be decided tonight is the remaining men's semifinal slot as Keith Taylor tackles last year's winner, Ron Mitchell.

Winner clashes with Warren Cameron on Friday, while the other semifinal between Ted Smythe and Gordon Hartley will be staged on Thursday.

Mytja Petersen and Pam Ferguson will also play their women's semifinal on Thursday.

Tonight's draw follows:

5.30—S. Whittaker vs. D. Lawrence; R. Mitchell vs. K. Taylor; J. Cosar vs. G. Bishop.
6.00—W. Cox and J. Woolison vs. P. Ferguson and M. Peterson.
6.30—D. McCormick vs. W. Browne-Cave.

11.35—Mrs. E. H. McGuire vs. Mrs. R. Humphreys.

Joe Favored To Keep Title

DENVER (UP) — Champion Joe Brown, a rugged puncher for a lightweight, is favored to catch elusive Cuban challenger Orlando Zulueta often enough tonight to retain his title in a scheduled 15-rounder at Denver Coliseum.

Brown, 31, is a 2-1 favorite over the 28-year-old Havana battler, although Zulueta has never hit the canvas in 100 fights. His fancy boxing and strong left could lift the champion's slightly worn crown. Brown has worn the crown less than a year.

The Baton Rouge, La., champion, who defeated Wallace (Bud) Smith for the title and again in his only defence in a rematch, was expected to weigh ounces short of the 135-pound limit. Zulueta was well under the limit, at 134½.

HELPS BROWN

Zulueta's camp lost a prefight skirmish yesterday when the Colorado Athletic Commission ruled six-ounce gloves would be used instead of the eight-ounce ones called for in commission rules. Manager Hymie Wallman charged the commission was giving Brown the championship "before it gets started," pointing out that the lighter glove helps a "puncher" like Brown.

Commissioner Leo J. Crowley said the eight-ounce rule was "our rule and we can't change it." Most championship bouts, outside Colorado, which has not had a title bout since 1918, are fought with six-ounce glove.

In addition, the commission: Waived its rule that any fight be stopped after three knockdowns in a single round; eliminated its mandatory eight-count, and retained its five-point "must" system for judging (a winner of a round "must" get five points).

Both men were in "peak" condition, according to their trainers.

Trainer Freddie Fiorello said Zulueta was in "real high spirits."

Trainer Bill Gore didn't sound worried either, saying Brown "was nervous like a champion should be before an important match."

The fight will be nationally televised with the Denver area black out.

Ken's One-Hitter Ends Royal Skein

View Royal had their 12-game win streak broken off Tuesday night in the Juvenile Boys' Softball League when Ken Oliphant, of Fairfield, threw a one-hitter against them for a 2-0 win.

All the scoring came in the second inning when View Royal pitcher, Ray Newall, gave up a pair of walks and hits to Blair McLain and Brian Bestrup.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Charley Joseph of New Orleans dropped Spider Webb for an eight count Tuesday night in the sixth round and went on to win a unanimous 10-round decision over the third-ranked middleweight contender

Ray West Takes Brenton Tourney

CHEMAINUS — Ray West this week won the Mount Brenton Golf Club championship for the fourth straight year by defeating Harold Hagg in a 36-hole play-off.

The first 18 holes were close, with only one point separating with only one point separating the two golfers. In the second round West pulled away to a decisive win.

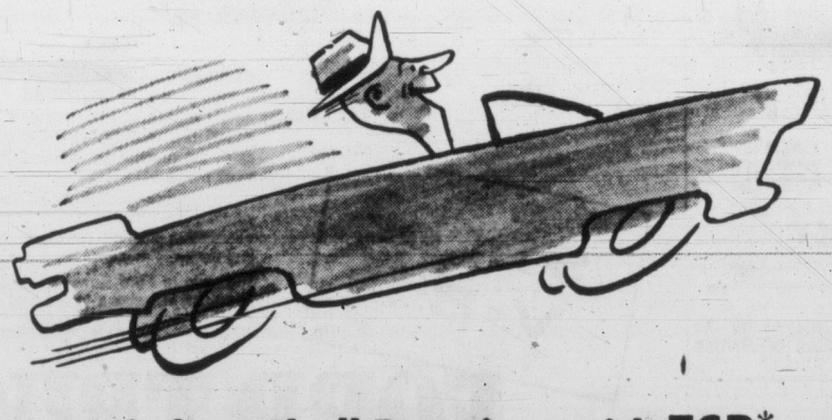
Car lost its pep ?



Switch to Shell Premium with TCP* and restore lost power while you drive!

How can a gasoline bring back power your engine has lost? Only by overcoming the cause! You see, most engines lose power as a result of certain deposits which form on spark plugs and in combustion chambers. In fact, engineers agree that these deposits are the major cause of power loss in modern high compression engines. (Even a new engine can lose power within 3,000 miles.) But TCP in Shell Premium Gasoline neutralizes these deposits while you drive—brings back the power your engine has lost.

Sharon Stops Vicettes, 3-2

Sharon Polson of the Polyettes women's softball team is the kind of player a coach likes to have around.

Usually a pitcher, Miss Polson can also play either centre or right field. At Central Park on Tuesday against Vicettes, she tried pitching. The result was a neat three-hitter and a 3-2 win for Polyettes.

On the other hand, pitcher Laura Shields of Vicettes did not do quite so well. While she allowed only six hits, she walked in the winning run in the sixth inning.

Doug Nips Dave In Pitching Duel

Pony Leaguers put on their finest show of the season Tuesday night at Carnarvon Park as Doug Gilmour of City Police and Dave Murdock of Jaycees matched three-hitters down to the wire with Gilmour edging through to a 3-1 victory.

It was Gilmour's third straight win as he collected 15 strikeouts while nipping Jaycee's win streak at seven and moving his team to within one-half game of second-place Cosmopolitans.

In losing, Murdock picked up 10 strikeouts and walked only two as he lost his second game in seven starts.

Larry Kern scored the insurance run for the Police team in the second frame, when he blasted a bases-empty homer.

In the Capital City Colt League, Pacific Sheet Furnaces and Victoria Tire Heralds battled to a 9-9 draw at Windsor Park, while in the Esquimalt-Victoria West Little League, Foresters and Merchants would up their contest with a 6-6 count.

Gyros downed Odd Fellows, 8-5, in the National Little League, Goodyears hammered Britannia Branch, 25-10, in the Fairfield Little League and Evans-Coleman-Johnson dropped an 18-13 decision to Kersey's in the Oak Bay Little League.

Tugmen Romp In Last Half; Thump Jokers

Island Tug made hay in the second half in a Senior B Lacrosse game at Stevenson Park on Tuesday.

The Tugmen sniped six unanswered goals after the intermission to down Jokers, 10-4, as Gary Taylor, Art Green, George Wilson, and Reg Lott all scored twice in the hard-fought game.

Jokers, bolstered by the return of Vic Sage and Whitey Wakelyn, were a much improved club over former games in the first half but couldn't find the range after the whistle.

Island Tug—Gary Taylor 2, Art Green 2, George Wilson 3, Reg Lott 2, Art Pike, Reg Salvatti. Total—10.

Jokers—Paul Calve, Jim Lewis, Whitey Wakelyn, Bryan McCoy. Total—4.

Mary's Feel Tudor Muscle

Tudor House is in last place in the Senior "B" Softball League, but occasionally they flex their batting muscles.

Tuesday at Heywood Park was one of the three times in 14 games that it's happened, and Mary's Coffee Shop was on the receiving end as they unleashed a seven-hit attack that netted them a total of eight runs.

Mary's could muster only four runs behind six safeties.

MARCIANO, MANAGER END AGREEMENT

Rocky Welcomes New Freedom

By TED SMITS

NEW YORK (AP)—Rocky Marciano said Tuesday he and his manager, Al Weill, have ended their association amicably—but there was a broad hint that now Rocky is free to do the things he was never permitted to do before.

"Now I'm doing lots of nice things," he said. "I'm interested in the Boys' Town of Italy, the March of Dimes, just a lot of nice things and nothing commercial. I'm lucky enough to be wanted at those affairs."

Weill rigidly limited the public appearances of the former heavyweight boxing champion. His appearances were few, and mostly on a cash basis.

Marciano, who retired undefeated in 1956, reiterated he had no intention to try a comeback.

"I assured Al I wasn't going to fight again," he said. "If I fought he would be my manager. I guess Al thought I would come back.

"Al and I never have been mad at each other. But I wanted to make my own decisions. When I was fighting I was willing to take Al's word for everything. We respected each other. There never has been any argument, but he has agreed to give me my release. My contract with Al would have terminated July 31 anyway."

Marciano, one of the most ferocious of all boxers, makes a surprisingly gentle impression in street clothes. He smiles readily, talks rapidly and with great earnestness, and has a wide-eyed boyish look.

His fights drew gates of $4,138,289 and he won every one of his 49 professional fights, 43 by knockouts. Marciano liked to fight. As he became important, his fights diminished in number and he was unhappy.

"When I started I had 12 or 13 fights a year, then 10 or 11, then six or so and then just twice a year," he said. "I didn't enjoy it as much. I didn't like the layoffs. I saw this wasn't going to help me as I grew older. Now I know why Gene Tunney must have quit."

Ike Interested In Russ Proposal

Soviet Three-Point Plan for Banning Atomic Tests to Get Serious Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he would be perfectly delighted to make a satisfactory agreement suspending atomic tests while negotiating with Russia for some permanent program.

Under questioning at a press conference, Eisenhower said he believes, although he does not want to commit himself finally at the moment, that a prohibition on the manufacture of atomic weapons might not necessarily have to be a part of the package for suspending tests.

His tentative comment on this point was contrary to what state department officials have been saying privately since negotiator Harold Stassen returned to London.

DIFFERENT LINE

Their line has been that the United States would only agree to suspend tests as part of a first step in an agreement which would provide for halting manufacture of weapons under a carefully inspected program.

Eisenhower said a three-point proposal put forward by Russia in the United Nations talks at London a week ago deserves the most earnest and sympathetic study.

The Soviets called for a two to three-year moratorium on atomic tests, for a commision to supervise the agreement and for inspection points within the territories of Russia, the United States and Britain.

Eisenhower said it was a hopeful sign for the Russians to put up such a proposal but that he wants to study all the details. It was one thing to state a generalization and another to see how it worked out.

Eisenhower was asked whether he would agree to suspend tests without cutting off weapons manufacture.

He said he is not certain that one could not devise an inspection system that would be sufficiently good to determine whether all production of fissionable materials was being devoted to peaceful purposes.

He said he believed, although he would not want to commit himself at the moment, that it would not necessarily be a part of a general disarmament package agreement.

30 HURT WHEN JOLTED TRAIN UNCOUPLES FOUR COACHES

GRANTS, N.M. (AP)—Thirty persons were injured, one seriously, about 14 miles east of here Tuesday night when four cars came uncoupled at the rear of the El Capitan, fast Santa Fe passenger train.

Railway officials said the train hit a loose tie plate, which flew up and cut the air hoses on one of the cars. This threw the emergency brakes on.

The last four cars came uncoupled and then slammed back into the rest of the train.

The dining car was damaged, officials said, but equipment damage was not major. The train was delayed about four hours.

'FOOL WITH GUY ROPES'

Pranksters Bother Flagpole Sitters

MONTREAL (CP) — Two flagpole sitters, who separately set up shop June 8, reported today they are being bothered at night by men who "fool with the guy ropes" and make telephone threats.

Andre Lamoureux, squatting 50 feet above suburban Ville Jacques Cartier, said he has received threats that his pole will be cut down.

"Every night up to 25 men come and fool with the poles, trying to make me sick," he said.

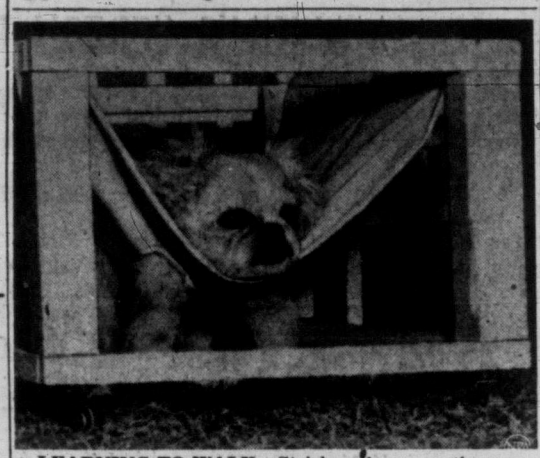
Lamoreux said he feels fine despite the heat and humidity and when he comes down after 30 or more days he will be "ready to do a rock and roll."

Meanwhile, in Montreal's east-end, Arthur Tremblay, 35, said he had trouble two nights ago from two men shaking the ropes on his pole.

"I don't know who they were, but I'm not scared. I welcome trouble and my friends will protect me from anyone who tries to make it."

Both men said they aim to break a 23-day record set in Detroit

Lamoreux said he climbed his pole to prove to doctors he was "not washed up" after 35 operations. Tremblay said the reason for his stint above the city is to reduce and help cure his rheumatism.



LEARNING TO WALK—Stricken three months ago with a brain condition that caused complete paralysis, Toy, a five-month-old Pekingese, is learning to walk again in this special hammock rigged by a St. Joseph, Mo., veterinarian. The special rig allows Toy to use his muscles. Thanks to the hammock, rubdowns and medical attention, the pet is expected to lead a normal dog's life eventually.

U.S. Relies on Armed Force To Keep Peace—Khrushchev

TOKYO (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev says the United States bars the withdrawal of foreign troops from Western Europe because it fears the people of that area "might want something other than capitalism."

Asahi Shimbun, Japan's largest newspaper, today published a 3½-hour interview with the Soviet Communist party boss in which he said U.S. reliance on military force to preserve peace is the "philosophy of a man who desires war."

"We would like to withdraw our troops from Germany, Poland, Hungary and other nations," Khrushchev said, "but America, Britain and France do not want to withdraw their troops."

JUDY BOOTS

(Barking for Monte Roberts)

Well a lot of people keep asking the Old Man in our house how he is getting along since we have a Small Cat in our house in addition to a Large Dog which the latter is me namely Judy Boots Streak the friend of all the people.

And the Old Man in our house seems hard put to it to find out how to answer people who ask him how he is getting along with a Small Cat and also a Large Dog so I guess I will have to answer the question for him and the answer is he is getting along okay but not nearly so okay as the Small Cat and the Large Dog.

For instance there was Sunday morning which it was just an ordinary Sunday morning when the Old Man wanted to sleep in but I wanted to go for my Sunday morning walk so naturally we went for my Sunday morning walk.

And when we came back why the Old Man wanted to go back to bed but Small Cat and I we wanted our breakfast so naturally Small Cat and I had our breakfast which was cooked by hand by the Old Man. Naturally.

So then I went outside for a small romp in the sunshine and the Old Man started to clean up around the kitchen sink which Small Cat helped him do by prowling around on the window sill above the sink and why shouldn't she, what are Small Cats for if it is not to prowl around on window sills and help Old Men clean up the sink?

And when I was outside a friend of mine came to visit me namely a cocker spaniel by trade a small type of Large Dog but very lively and he challenged me to a game of Pull the Stick which this is a sort of tug of war with a stick as anyone who is owned by a dog knows very well.

Naturally the Cocker Spaniel by trade and I did a considerable amount of growling snarling snapping and general carrying on all in the spirit of good clean fun but what do you think Small Cat did?

Small Cat thought she was witnessing a dog fight little does she know what a real dog fight is like and Small Cat became very excited and ran up the curtain by the window over the kitchen sink but her claws are not very big yet so she slipped and landed on the Old Man's head.

Which of course is nothing unusual but then Small Cat took off from the Old Man's head and sprang down to the sink and that was okay too except what she landed on was nothing but a piece of soap in the soap dish and the soap went one way and hit the Old Man in the eye and the soap dish went another way and hit the Old Man on the chin and Small Cat went another way and landed in a saucepan which happened to be filled with soapy water also a reasonable amount of grease and the soapy water and the grease splashed on the Old Man and Small Cat bounced out of the saucepan up unto the Old Man's shoulder and began to clean herself as Small Cats do not like soapy water or so I am told.

So I guess you can see why the Old Man is hard put to it to find an answer when people ask him how he is getting along since Small Cat came to live at our house but personally I think it is wonderful I haven't had so many laughs since Rin Tin Tin was a pup.

'ART' CRUMBLES WITH MACHINE AGE

Sentiment is blown to dust by giant sander when school desks are refinished at school board maintenance plant. George Taylor guides desk in jig as revolving belt erases initials carved by doodling pupils. Some of names would embarrass today's citizens — long married to wrong sets of initials.

CARVED MESSAGES TURNED TO DUST

Clean Sweep of School Desks Made by New Sanding Machine

By PETE LOUDON

A romance between Sharron and Ron was blasted to dust today—sawdust.

The names were engraved and entwined by a heart in the top of a desk from Esquimalt High School. Close by was another soulful declaration, "SOS—I'm dying of French."

The desks were being resurfaced at Greater Victoria School Board's new maintenance building on Gorge Road. It's one of the unending tasks that go with running a multi-million dollar school system.

The $187,500 building has all the appearances of a modern factory. It includes a well-equipped carpenter shop, electrical shop, plumbing shop, sheet metal shop, paint shop, glazier's shop and a shop for a locksmith and for repair of precision instruments.

About 55 men make the building their headquarters. They represent all these trades and laborers and gardeners as well. They have just moved in after years in several cramped and crowded shanties.

Everything which can lend to economy of operation, safety, efficiency and morale of the staff is combined in the building.

Entering the plant area a visitor passes spacious lumber storage units. Blacktop driveways are being laid and a parking bay provided. There are wide loading ramps for supply trucks.

A bright office gives access to the shops. Flooring is of two-inch fir decking, glowing with varnish. A non-skid painted apron surrounds each machine.

Plant boss Charles Thom and school buildings and grounds supervisor R. Hamilton Smith feel the plant adds a new dignity to the maintenance trades, sets a pattern for other major employers to emulate.

To get back to the desks. The key machine for refinishing them is a sanding jig built by the department a few years ago at a cost of $100. Manufactured jigs cost $900.

George Taylor, who operates the sander, says it enables complete sanding without dismantling. He has seen desks 25 to 40 years old come in.

Many of them bear initials carved in bygone years by some of Victoria's most distinguished citizens.

Recent finds were names of hockey great Lynn Patrick and basketballer Hank Rowe.

A sidelight on today's juvenile behaviour patterns—desks are not defaced as much today as in years gone by.

It is also noted that where all the desks in a room are renewed, carving of initials is slow to start. Where there are old scarred desks and new ones in the same room, the kids tend to emulate the former owners of the mutilated desks.

Chambers Seek Power Ministry

Duncan-Cowichan Motion Supported

By HUMPHRY DAVY

SOOKE—The B.C. government will be urged by the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island to create a ministry for power resources and the development and distribution of electric power.

The ACCVI, at its annual convention here today, unanimously endorsed a resolution for a power portfolio, submitt 1 by Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce. (See also page 33).

It was suggested by Joe Garner of Duncan that power distribution is becoming a major issue in the province, and should be dealt with by a separate ministry.

The demands for power will exceed electric power output in a few years, he said.

It was evident at the meeting that some delegates were dissatisfied with power distribution on Vancouver Island. Earlier, the ACCVI refused to endorse a Duncan-Cowichan chamber resolution asking the provincial government to institute a definite power policy for B.C.

George Gudbranson of Tofino requested the meeting to ask the government to empower the B.C. Power Commission to develop the proposed Mica Creek project. He said if the commission was allowed to develop this project it would mean lower electrical power rates for Vancouver Island.

UNDER REVIEW

Tom Hargreaves, retiring ACCVI president and chairman, said the idea advanced by the Tofino chamber now is under review by the B.C. Chamber of Commerce.

At the same time the Sayward chamber requested that the B.C. Power Commission provide electricity to the northern Island area.

Among resolutions passed were those asking for posting of an RCMP officer at the Legislative Buildings at all times during the tourist season, improvement of the harbor facilities at Tofino, retention of all existing and future government departments in Victoria, and permission for shops to stay open all day Wednesday and to 9 p.m. Friday.

HYDRO TOUR

The two-day convention at Sooke wound up today with a tour of the B.C. Electric hydro-electric installation at Jordan River, and the West Coast Road beyond Jordan River.

Conway Parrott, Victoria, was elected ACCVI president for the coming year. He succeeds Tom Hargreaves of Campbell River.

Other officers elected were Jack Evans, Nanaimo, vice-president, and Arnold Webb, Victoria, secretary-manager.

WEDNESDAY OPENING DUE SOON

This is the last Wednesday but one on which Victoria stores will be closed in the afternoon.

Starting Wednesday, July 3, (two weeks from today) stores will be open all afternoon through the months of July and August.

Employees' hours will be staggered so that they will work the same hours as before, and the larger stores are engaging extra staff to permit all-day Wednesday opening.

The larger stores already employ their staff on a five-day week basis.

Police Check Disappearance Of Salesman

Foul Play Theory Investigated

City detectives are investigating the disappearance Monday of a 35-year-old brush salesman who may have met with foul play for the estimated $200 he carried.

Mrs. Arthur Yurkowski, Suite 3, 2624 Quadra, last saw her husband at 1 p.m. Monday and reported him missing at 1.20 a.m. Tuesday.

About two hours earlier she had found his car parked on Kings between Rose and Douglas. His sales recodrs, sample case and car appeared to be in order.

Fuller Brush Co., for which Mr. Yurkowski is a salesman, said he was to remit an invoice and about $200 to Vancouver headquarters Monday.

The missing man was described as dependable and of good habits and neither his wife nor employers could suggest any reason for him to vanish.

Mrs. Yurkowski said her husband had not felt well Monday and had an appointment to see his doctor at 4 p.m. He did not keep the appointment.

The man was described as being about 145 pounds, six-feet-one, with dark hair, grey-blue eyes and wearing a light blue shirt with grey slacks and a tweed sports coat.

Two Proposals For Hatcheries At Beaver Lake

Two applications to lease or buy old filter beds adjoining Beaver Lake for conversion to commercial fish hatcheries were received at city hall today.

One applicant would charge for public fishing as well as raise trout for sale to local restaurants.

Separate applications were received from Thomas A. Fee and Charles Nelles.

Public works committee tabled both requests while all phases of the proposal are investigated.

Mr. Fee pointed out the old filter beds, which have not been used since Victoria ceased drawing water from the lake, are a liability to the city and could cause accidents because they are not fenced.

FIX UP LAND

They resemble two large cement-walled swimming pools with sand bottoms. Mr. Fee said he and his associates would fence them and provide a full-time caretaker and "fix up the land surrounding."

In commercial pools elsewhere, the public is furnished with tackle and bait. In some places a customer catches the trout, the operators fry it for him and he eats it on the spot. Mr. Fee would charge for public fishing.

Mr. Nelles said there would be no public fishing if he were given opportunity to develop a hatchery. His plan is a "fish farm."

GOING UP

This 14-foot delphinuim at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Lewis, 58 Government Street, may not be the biggest in the world, but it certainly is a leading contender. Young admirer is five-year-old Diane Abbott, a neighbor. (Times Photo)

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Aldermen M. H. Mooney, J. Donald Smith and Hugh Ramsay of Victoria will go to Vancouver within the next month to inspect the vehicle testing station there.

Council is seeking special provincial legislation which would permit setting up a similar operation here. Last year, police commissioners Gordon Carter and William Hamilton made a similar inspection and later recommended setting up a testing station in Victoria.

Fire and building authorities of Victoria today reiterated their stand against permitting use here of prefabricated metal chimneys.

The chimneys will rust in area close to salt water and are not approved in the national building code, they stated.

Vancouver and other mainland centres also refuse to authorize them, public works committee was told.

The committee is studying an application by a manufacturer to have the chimneys authorized in local building regulations. They are approved by DVA and Central Mortgage and Housing.

Eric Norman Hand, Vancouver, was sentenced in city police court today to three months concurrent on five charges to which he pleaded guilty.

The jail term was imposed for failing to supply a wife and four children with necessities of life.

Other charges were careless driving, $35 or five days; driving while under suspension, $40 or five days; using another person's driver's licence, $25 or five days, and using an improper salesman's licence, $25 or five days.

Magistrate H. C. Hall said the days in default of payment could be served concurrently with the first sentence.

Centennial Plans To Committee Thursday Night

Greater Victoria Centennial Committee will meet in the city hall Thursday, at 8 p.m., to receive delegations submitting plans for centennial projects.

Construction of a fireproof wing for Victoria Art Gallery will be urged by a delegation of directors, and a brief will be presented on behalf of the gallery's 956 members by Major Cuthbert Holmes.

A delegation from the Kiwanis Village Society will urge construction of a villa on land adjoining Kiwanis Village which would provide accommodation for 74 widows and widowers living on pensions.

Cost of the project is estimated at $400,000.

Committee members are Ron Lochhead, Edward Mallek, Reginald Harris, Charles E. Craig and Glenn Hope.

"An appeal to the public for its opinion on the project brought 74 replies in favor and four against," Mr. Lochhead said.

Child's Death Accidental

A six-man coroner's jury here today returned a verdict of "accidental death" in the fatality Sunday in which a 2½-year-old girl was killed by a Veteran Stages Ltd. bus in Belmont Park.

Evidence disclosed that Dorothy McDormand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald E. McDormand, 406 Monarch Crescent, Belmont Park, ran in front of the bus on Belmont Road, main thoroughfare of the navy housing development near Colwood, and was killed immediately.

The child was hit by a bus driven by Claude Cole, 47, 844 Goldstream Avenue, Langford.

Mr. Cole was visibly shaken at the inquest before Dr. E. C. Hart, and said he preferred not to testify

Mrs. Orma Rudolphi, 1012 Goldstream, was that "The child ran in front of the bus, I hoped she would make it, and then I felt the bump."

The jury recommended provisions be made in the area for improved bus stops,

CHURCH TOUR

Hawaiians' Reception 'Cool' Here

Sixty-two Hawaiian men and women from Honolulu got their first glimpse of Victoria today and found it "lovely but cold."

The visitors, all members of Congregational churches in Hawaii, stood and shivered on the steps of the Empress Hotel while waiting for the sightseeing coaches which took them to Butchart's Gardens and other points of interest.

"We left Honolulu only last Sunday night," said Rev. Paul Nagamo, who is in charge of the party, "and the change of temperature is somewhat abrupt."

The Hawaiians were startled by the sight of the huge silver-colored Kalakala steaming into the Inner Harbor from Port Angeles.

"What is it—a space ship?" asked one of the party.

The Hawaiians are en route to Mount Herman, Santa Cruz, for a religious conference from June 24 to 30.

"After that the party breaks up and we shall travel home via many different points in the United States and Canada," Mr. Negamo said.

Queen's Own Leave City For Summer

Main body of Second Battalion Queen's Own Rifles was scheduled to move out of Camp Gordon Head for the summer this afternoon headed for Camp Wainright, Alberta.

About 450 men were to be taken in buses to CPR docks to be ferried to Vancouver where they would board two special trains tonight.

Unlike past summers, they were to leave a rear party of 20 riflemen and a lieutenant to take charge of the camp here.

At the end of camp on Aug. 5 the men will take annual leave and then prepare to go overseas as a unit of Canada's contribution to NATO forces in Europe.

Hotelkeepers Back Labor Stand For Change in Liquor Penalty

Support for a Victoria Labor Council brief urging changes in provincial liquor laws was given today by the president of the Hotel and Inkeepers' Society of B.C.

James Neely of the Douglas Hotel in Victoria, said the existing legislation is "unfair" to beer parlor waiters who are convicted of selling liquor to minors.

In a brief presented to Attorney-General Robert Bonner Tuesday, the labor council protested the "obvious injustice" in the case of a Victoria waiter who was recently fined $300 or three months' imprisonment for serving a minor.

"We submit that a minor who breaks the law intentionally by false pretence and deception receives a light penalty compared to that meted out to the waiter who breaks the law unintentionally, the victim of this deliberate deception," the brief said.

Mr. Neely said it is very difficult for a busy waiter to determine whether a young customer is telling the truth if he states that he is over 21.

"This is not the present government's fault," Mr. Neely said. "It is in the legislation and we feel that it will be rectified in time."

The labor council brief pointed out that a waiter has nothing to gain by serving a minor because he is paid by the hour and not by the number of customers served.

GOOD FAITH

"It is obvious that, on occasion and in good faith, he can make a mistake without the slightest intention of breaking the law."

Attorney-General Bonner admitted when the labor council first raised the matter last month that a "good case" could be made for the waiters.

He added, however, that the dispensing of liquor is a privilege, not a right and "if you relieve the proprietor from responsibility to enforce the act, you remove a very valuable form of control."

CCF VIEWPOINT

Lawyer George Gregory, Victoria MLA, said today he feels that the legislation gives "adequate protection" to the waiters.

The matter was raised at the spring legislature session by CCFer Randolph Harding, who said the penalties imposed on the waiters were "too harsh."

"The larger onus should be on those people who get the operator into trouble," Mr. Harding said.

He suggested that beer parlors be equipped with forms to be signed by persons who say they are over 21 but of whom the management is doubtful.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Just exactly what is "chamber music" which in some quarters seems to be gaining more recognition today?—F.S.C.

A.—Before public concert-giving began in the late 17th century, set musical performances fell into three classes, church, theatre and in homes of the aristocracy. Those of the last class, whether vocal or instrumental, were chamber music. It consists of compositions for a small concert room and a small audience, as opposed to music for church or theatre, or, comprehensively, cantatas, single songs, solos and trios and quartettes. It is generally noted for its simplicity of presentation.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Favorite Italian Shoe Here for Summer Wear

By PENNY SAVER

Europe's most popular summer shoes have arrived in Victoria! They're the wooden-soled "Zoccoli," made in Italy, that girls in England and all across the continent wear with swim suits, slacks and shorts and cotton dresses.

They will certainly be a change from the usual white sandals, although I admit that they do take a bit of getting used to. The wooden soles are actually designed for easy walking on cobbled streets and on the beach, but they're worn on city pavements as well.

They've come to a Victoria shoe shop direct from Italy. The wooden soles and semi-high heel (European girls prefer these to flat shoes—they make their legs look longer!) have a burnt-on design and painted flowers for decoration, and the raffia tops are flower-embroidered.

Basic colors for the uppers are beige or black and they're priced at $5.98 a pair.

BAMBOO MATS

Colorful bamboo place mats will certainly save laundry these warm summer days, and they'd look equually pretty on a dining room table or out on a patio or garden table.

Colors are pink, red, light and dark green, yellow, different shades of blue and many others. You get eight for $1.49.

Bamboo is also used for new drinking glasses. They are very light and are suitable for either hot or cold drinks. In natural shade, there are large ones (nearly milk-shake size) for 89c, medium for 79c and small for 69c.

A collapsible bamboo bag would be ideal for carrying bathing suit, towel and all your other beach equipment. It folds flat and opens out to a good size, with sturdy handles for easy carrying. Price is $1.98.

Give me a ring at 2-3131 if you'd like to know where I found these items.

"Let's change—you drive and I'LL ogle."

Women Have Lost Vigor Of Pioneer Efforts

MONTREAL (CP)—Charlotte Whitton, Ottawa's former mayor, said recently women's efforts have become "resolutionary" rather than "revolutionary."

Miss Whitton, now an Ottawa newspaper columnist, said that women's hard won rights must be well nurtured and fearlessly applied.

"Women, their organization, their efforts, the councils of women, too widely have lost the vigor of the pioneer women's movement. . .

"Women's efforts have become resolutionary when they should still be revolutionary.

"Politically, women have made little impact on the life of most countries, particulary in the wealthy comfortable life of North America."

Married women who stayed at home often satisfied restlessness by participating in women's groups and clubs, church and voluntary welfare service.

"This satisfying outlet explains in part the deplorably poor showing of women on the whole, in political life at any of our government levels."

She said perhaps women's powers lag because they still tend to be more concerned about their social claims and status, and their innate appeal and appeasement of the opposite sex, than about their economic status, the legal status of their children or their own political rights.

Victoria BPW Club Returns Mrs. Masters as President

Mrs. R. Masters was unanimously re-elected president of Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club in annual meeting recently. Other officers are: Vice-president, Miss Lily Henderson; second vice-president, Miss Ella Brett; recording secretary, Miss D. Burrows; corresponding secretary, Miss Virginia Ross; treasurer, Miss Jean Smith. Directors are Mrs. E. Maunsell, Mrs. C. Danby, Miss M. Beveridge, Miss J. Rodger and Miss L. Wright.

In her address the president spoke of three major projects already planned for the year ahead: The visit of Lisia Sergio, editor of the international magazine, Widening Horizons, and an authority on international affairs who will be the speaker at a meeting in Victoria at the Oak Bay Junior High School auditorium in October; the observance of Business Women's Week in September, and the visit of a large delegation of Business and Professional Women from the United States on a post-convention tour next summer.

It was again decided to send a student from one of the Greater Victoria high schools to the UN seminar this summer at University of British Columbia.

Two members were elected to membership, Mrs. L. Grainger and Mrs. M. H. Benbow.

Announcement was made that island clubs will meet for a picnic at Swallowfields on the Chemainus River on July 14, when Nanaimo club will act as hostess group.

Installation of Victoria officers will take place at a dinner meeting next Monday when Rev. Laura Butler will be guest speaker. Mrs. Bessie Smith will act as installing officer.

Simply Designed Cotton Dress For Beginner's First Effort

If you have never made a dress in your life, you can make this easy-to-sew summer cotton with confidence from our Anne Adams printed pattern 4506. This pattern comes in only four main parts with directions for cutting, sewing and putting pieces together printed on each easy-do pattern part.

Shown here in rosy red and gold Victoriana cotton, a signature fabric by M. Lowenstein, it is a fashion that goes anywhere and everywhere. Its smooth simple lines are so flattering to your figure. Shoulder bows simplify construction and add charm and style. The crease-resistant fast finish requires little ironing, making this an extremely easy dress to launder.

So if you are learning to sew or plan to teach a beginner to sew, order this printed pattern today. It comes in misses' sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Misses' size 16 requires 4¾ yards of 39-inch fabric.

Send 40c in coins for printed pattern 4506 to Anne Adams, the Times Pattern Department, 60 Front Street West, Toronto 1-A, Ont.

Styled on cool and pretty lines for warm summer days, this cotton dress has been designed for easy sewing. The shoulder bows add a charming touch and make construction easy.

Mrs. Thompson First Life Member in Holy Trinity Auxiliary

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Losing Excess Pounds Gradually Is Best Bet

Human nature is like that: A woman may take 20 years to accumulate her extra pounds, but onec she makes up her mind to lose them she is apt to want to see results immediately.

We all have seen the unattractive effects of losing a great deal of weight too rapidly. The skin did not have time to shrink to its new proportions and often the arms and neck are baggy. Wrinkles may appear which would have been avoided if the reduction had been more gradual.

If you have only a few pounds to lose you can do so rapidly without these unhappy by-products. You can lose 10 pounds in a short time and look 10 years younger. However, if you have many extra pounds you should be contented with a loss of two to two-and-a-half pounds a week.

You should remember that when you lose weight on the outside you also lose on the inside. You should not lose too much supporting flesh without giving internal organs time for adjustment.

You will not have to cut your calorie intake drastically if you aim at a loss of two-and-a-half pounds weekly. You can follow these simple rules.

1. Take smaller helpings. Never eat until you feel stuffed.

2. Cut down on fats. This means that you leave off rich desserts, fried foods, gravy, cream sauces, drink skim or dried, fat-free milk, and decrease the amount of butter and salad oils.

3. Build up on proteins such as lean meat, fish and fowl.

4. Build up on the vitamin rich foods such as fresh vegetables and fruits. These are low in calorie count and high in health value. They are also filling.

5. You need some carbohydrate foods but control them.

You won't starve on 12 to 1,400 calories a day and you will lose two to two-and-a-half pounds in a week.

Remember, too, that exercise will be a great ally in firming you up while you lose poundage.

If you have only a few pounds to lose you may want my Nine-Day Reducing Diet. This gives you a loss of from five to 10 pounds in nine days time. If you would like to have that booklet send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

George Pringle Cottage Dedicated At Sunday Afternoon Reception

Church people of the United Church of Canada from various Island points flocked to George Pringle Memorial Camp at Shawnigan Lake Sunday afternoon for the open house and dedication of Pendry Memorial Cottage. The service was held in the newly-created chapel in the trees with music supplied by Miss Betty Warren, accordionist. Rev. C. G. MacKenzie, chairman Victoria Presbytery, presided. Scripture lesson was read by Rev. E. Laura Butler, convener, Christian education, and the address given by Rev. Douglas B. Carr, chairman-elect Victoria Presbytery.

The dedication took place outside the new Pendray Cottage. Dr. F. E. H. James spoke in memory of the work done by both the late Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Pendray, and received the key from H. V. Wilkinson, chairman of the building committee of the board of directors of the camp who include R. J. MacKinnon, Arnold Bailey, Dr. J. L. M. Anderson, Mrs. R. K. Simpson and J. Bryant of Victoria; Lorne Fuller, Langford, and Peter Hamilton, Shawnigan Lake. Mr. MacKinnon, chairman of the camp board, received the key of the cottage. He mentioned work done by many volunteers to make this project possible.

After a tour of the camp the 250 visitors were served tea in the dining hall. Tables were decorated with wild flowers. Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. F. E. H. James, Mrs. R. J. MacKinnon, Mrs. H. V. Wilkinson, Mrs. J. Bryant, Mrs. E. R. Bewell and Mrs. R. B. Prendergast. Fairfield Women's Auxiliary was in charge of the kitchen, those assisting including Mrs. T. Haythorne, Mrs. W. R. Williams, Mrs. J. McCammon, Mrs. E. Garman, Miss M. Staines, Mrs. R. Anderson, Miss I. Wightman and Miss B. A. Sutherland. Servitors were from the Young Adult Group of Metropolitan United Church.

Island guests included Rev. R. Rodgers and family from Alberni, Rev. W. Van Druten of Lantzville, Rev. F. Golightly and Mrs. Golightly, Mrs. A. V. Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. A. Mann, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Masterson of Duncan.

St. Mary's Church Scene Of Brown-Graves Wedding

White stocks and peonies were banked at the altar of St. Mary's Anglican Church, Oak Bay, Friday evening, for the wedding of Diane Marie Graves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald G. Graves, 2701 Dewdney Avenue, and Matthew James Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Brown, 3982 Cedar Hill Crossroad. Ven. Archdeacon A. E. deL. Nunns officiated, and organ music was played.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her floor-length gown of white chantilly lace and net, the fitted bodice featuring a yoke of the net outlined with scalloped lace. Seed pearls trimmed the neckline, and the skirt was bouffant. Her fingertip veil of net with embroidery trimming the scalloped border fell from a cap touched with seed pearls, and her bouquet was a cascade of pink rapture rose sand stephanotis.

Miss Janine Graves, maid of honor for her sister, was gowned in bluish pink silk organza over pink satin, while another sister, Miss Linda Graves, as junior bridesmaid, wore pink nylon net over taffeta. They carried cascade bouquets of pink carnations and pale blue delphiniums. The little flower girl, Irene Panter, wore a dainty pink nylon dotted Swiss frock and carried a basket of pink flowers.

Best man was A. Stenseth, and J. Swedberg and V. Friesen, of Kelowna, showed guests to pews marked with Esther Reid daisies.

A reception followed at the Golden Slipper, where F. W. Jacob proposed the bridal toast. Pink roses, pink candles and pink tulle formed the setting for the wedding cake.

For a honeymoon trip to the Mainland, the bride wore a grey imported suit with pink and while accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Brow will live in Victoria.

Wedding Ensemble In Blonde Tones Chosen by Bride

A sheath gown of French brocaded satin in blonde mink shade was worn by Elspeth Isabelle Jane Baker at her wedding Saturday evening to Sven Rose Pedersen. Her hat and shoes were en tone, and she carried a bouquet of rapture roses and stephanotis.

The ceremony was performed in the vestry of First United Church by Rev. A. I. Higgins. The bride's grandfather, George Main, Victoria, gave her in marriage. The groom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. Pedersen of Copenhagen.

Miss Madelina Main, aunt of the bride, was her attendant. She wore a sheath gown of Wedgwood blue corded silk with matching straw hat and corsage of talisman roses. Alex Main, uncle of the bride, was best man.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's grandfather, where the newlyweds cut a three-tier wedding cake topped with a crystal vase of sweetheart roses. Alex Main, cousin of the bride, proposed the toast.

For a honeymoon motoring in the States, the bride wore a Dior blue corded French jersey suit trimmed with contrasting blue faille, and a stephanotis corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Pedersen will live at 1245 Pandora.

Crisp and colorful salads make tempting meals during summer days, and you'll find the ingredients at their best in your own garden or at the market.

Salad Time Has Arrived

Toss up a salad for luncheon or for a light supper. It's an ideal hot-weather meal. Make the salad of pears, celery and nuts, and you simply cannot go wrong.

PEAR, CELERY, NUT SALAD

Three ripe pears (six canned halves), fresh lemon juice, two (three-oz.) packages cream cheese, mayonnaise, few grains of salt, ½ cup cream, whipped, two cups diced celery, ½ cup chopped nuts, lettuce.

Sprinkle pear halves with lemon juice to prevent darkening. Blend just enough mayonnaise into the cheese to make it smooth and fluffy. Add salt to taste. Fold in whipped cream. Add celery. Arrange pears on lettuce cups. Top with cheese mixture and chopped nuts. Makes six servings.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

Condolences to the Bereaved: When calling at a funeral home to pay your respects to a member of the family of a deceased friend or relative, what can one say to express a feeling of sympathy? Oftentimes a death has been a blessing after a long suffering. To say you are sorry would not be entirely correct.

Louise Davis Answers:

Louise Davis

Anything said to the bereaved family is something that comes from the heart, so it is difficult for anyone else to make suggestions. Naturally, the loved ones can't help but grieve even though they may be thankful that the person who passed away has been released from a long suffering. Therefore, your expressions of sympathy are for members of the family because they are going through a difficult, strenuous and emotional period. It is often best to say nothing, especially if you are at a loss for words. Just the presence of relatives, friends and acquaintances is enough to comfort the family. Thoughtful callers want to think twice about being sentimental with their eulogies and sympathies, for they don't want to cause any more emotional strain than the family already has. Sometimes the kindest thing to do is to sign the register and be brief with any words spoken to those of the family if they are available and if it seems likely that the are anxious to converse. But if they are surrounded by others, there is no necessity for you to wait your turn unless you feel compelled to.

Plans Decorated Tables Tea Party

Plans were finalized at the meeting of Oak Leaf Junior Chapter, IODE, for a decorated tables tea next Saturday in Oak Bay United Church hall, commencing at 2.30 p.m. Glenda Gordon is convener; Ann Downard, assisted by Mrs. R. Rogers, is in charge of the home-cooking stall; tea arrangements being handled by Mrs. J. W. Harness, Mrs. W. J. Presley, Mrs. Morgan and Pat Townsend; gate receipts, Joy Elliott.

Table judges will be Mrs. H. L. Smith, Mrs. A. R. Roberts and Mrs. H. A. Thompson, librarian at Lansdowne Junior High School. The tables will represent favorite books.

At the meeting, the regent, Mrs. W. R. Freethy, reported on the recent national IODE convention and stated the chapter standard was carried at the convention by Mrs. G. F. Green, formerly of Victoria.

It was decided to adopt as a fall project, the purchase of flanelette to be made into layettes for refugee children. Plans were made for a picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Nimmo at Langford Lake on June 29.

CLUB WOMEN'S NEWS

Rooms Toured—At a meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the YMCA, members toured rooms of the "Y" to check various needs. It was decided that purchase of sheets and the painting were first considerations. Mrs. R. A. Dykes presided at the meeting and plans were discussed for a fall fashion show in mid-September and a rummage sale in early October. Two new members, Mrs. L. Sutherland and Mrs. L. McNeil were introduced.

Visitor Speaks—Mrs. Dorothy Reed, a visitor from northern California, told of work of the Episcopalian Church of St. Nicholas at the foot of the Sierra Nevada mountains, at a recent meeting of St. David's Women's Guild, held in the home of Mrs. S. Morgan Hobbs. Mrs. K. M. Lewis presided and plans for the fourth annual Cordova Bay flower show to be held on July 10, were discussed. Mrs. Hobbs served tea, assisted by Mrs. Fred Smith and Mrs. D. Mackay.

Missions Group — Afternoon Auxiliary of First United Church Woman's Missionary Society was held Monday with Mrs. Allister Campbell presiding. Mrs. W. A. Hobbs reviewed the last chapters of the study book, "East of Burma." Mrs. C. Hagglund took devotions and Mrs. Alice Waddell was soloist. Announcement was made that the fall rally will be held in Nanaimo in September.

Boy's Town—Reports given at meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Britannia Branch No. 7, BESL, on the recent provincial conference, showed that all delegates at the convention endorsed the proposed "Boy's Town" to be built by men's branches of Canadian Legion at Roberts Creek. Mrs. I. Horrod presided; Mrs. D. Barnes, London, Eng., and Mrs. C. Troke, Hamilton, Ont., were welcomed as visitors and six new members were initiated: Mrs. A. E. Wilson, Mrs. E. Lomas, Mrs. L. Rowen, Mrs. M. J. McBratney, Mrs. D. B. Henderson and Mrs. C. M. Evans. Plans were made for a trip to Port Angeles on Aug. 7 with Mrs. M. Arnold, 3-8957, the convener.

Fun Fair — Final arrangements were made at meeting of Esquimalt Chapter, IODE, for a Fun Fair on July 6 at Plaskett Place, off Munro Street, starting at 2 p.m. Mrs. J. Bryant presided and with the standard bearer, Mrs. J. T. Jones, reported on the national convention in Vancouver. Plans were made to attend closing exercises of Lampson Street School and to present the annual prize of $10 to the best runner-up student.

THE OLD POINT ELLICE BRIDGE soon will pass into history. Many old-timers will watch the demolition sadly. James Eccles, 77, who helped build it, reaches back 54 years for a story of the first boy across.

BOY'S DREAM CAME TRUE . . .

He Was First Across Old Ellice Bridge

By PETE LOUDON

One of the old-timers who will watch demolition of Point Ellice Bridge with a twinge of sadness is 77-year-old James Eccles, 2421 Chambers.

In 1903 he heated rivets for the construction of the bridge.

He remembers clearly the sunny morning when a 10-year-old boy astride a Shetland pony was first to cross the spanking new structure.

Mr. Eccles recalls he was employed by Puget Sound Bridge and Dredging Company of Seattle. (Name on the plate adorning the west end of the bridge is Victoria Machinery Depot. He thinks the Seattle firm had a sub-contract for part of the job.)

All of the bridge crew were American citizens except for four Victorians. The fireman's name was McDougal.

McDougal was a rough and tough steel man. But he had a soft spot that showed through when he was approached by a small boy one day before the bridge was really finished and ready to take traffic.

The boy came from a well-to-do family that lived in Victoria West, where many of the finest homes were located. He went to University School. Most days he travelled in a closed coach.

Big Thing to Other Boys in School

The boy knew the bridge was almost open. He told McDougal what a big thing it would be to the other boys at school if he could be first across. So McDougal let down the barriers and while the steel men waved he rode across like a victorious knight going into battle.

The boy grew into young manhood in time for First World War. He joined a local regiment but it was delayed by garrison duty.

The same spirit that made the youth want to be first across the bridge, still burned in him. He wanted to cross again, this time the ocean. He obtained his release and took passage for England, intending to join the Royal Army. But his ship was the Lusitania.

It was May 4, 1915, off Head of Kinsale, Ireland, when a single torpedo smashed into the vessel. The boy was one of 1,198 who died.

He was the only Victorian lost and when word reached this city, feeling against the Germans reached new heights. Men on leave banded together and for two days they showed their grief in rioting.

The German Club (where the Business and Professional Women's Clubroom is now, 904 Government) was wrecked. So was the Kaiserhoff Hotel. (It stood where the Kent Hotel is now back of the Library.) And there was other damage.

Who was the boy?

Mr. Eccles says he was Jimmy Dunsmuir, youngest son of former lieutenant-governor, the Honorable James Dunsmuir.

Driver Admits Negligence In Fast Chase

Michael McGuire, 1521 Amelia, pleaded guilty to criminally negligent driving Saturday night and was remanded for a probation report in city police court Monday.

Saanich Constable Frank Briers told the court he was driving north on Douglas near Hudson's Bay Co. when McGuire's car was seen racing about three feet to the left of another vehicle which made a right turn when its driver noticed the police car and a city motorcycle officer giving chase.

The car driven by McGuire increased its speed, went through a red light at Douglas and Bay as it made a right turn and drove through a stop sign at Blanshard before it was stopped.

Speed was clocked at 50 miles an hour.

The other driver, apprehended by the motorcycle policeman, was to be dealt with by juvenile authorities.

Three Acquitted On Theft Charge In Nanaimo Court

NANAIMO — Donald Brown was given an 18-month suspended sentence by Magistrate Lionel Beever-Potts in police court here Monday for threatening two persons about giving evidence in court.

Later he was acquitted, with two other youths, of a charge of theft.

The charge arose out of theft of a speaker from a drive-in theatre. Police said E. Shamlock, manager of the drive-in theatre, and Mel Gow, Nanaimo theatre manager, had been threatened by Brown with further damage if they pressed charges against him and his companions. Others acquitted were Gary Bennett and William Sampson.

Brown also was found guilty of impaired driving, was fined $150, and had his licence suspended for 18 months.

At stake are wage increases, hours of work, overtime, union security and other fringe benefits.

Citizens Favor Kiwanis Village Extension Plan

Out of 80 replies received as a public expression opinion on the proposed extension to Kiwanis Village as a Centennial year project, 76 favored the suggestion, it was reported Monday at a meeting of the Kiwanis Village Society.

The scheme would provide a $400,000 housing development to accommodate up to 100 single persons.

Kiwanis officials Thursday meet with the Greater Victoria Centennial Committee to lay their proposals on the table.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Dorothy Schaffner, aged 11, of Omah, Neb., for her question:

Who Discovered That the Earth Is a Planet?

Each day the sun arrives in the east, swings around the sky and slips out of sight in the west. The same path is taken by the moon and stars. The earth seems to be at the centre of a carousel with the heavenly bodies swinging around it. Until about 300 years ago, most people were sure that this was the truth. They were proud that their world was the hub of the universe. The idea made them feel important.

Nowadays, we know that the sky parades around because the earth is turning on its axis. This brings into view first one piece of sky, then another. The parade moves from east to west because the earth is forever turning towards the east. This idea gives us a pleasant feeling of belonging to a safe orderly family. The earth is but a smallish planet of the Solar System. The Solar System is a small part of a vast and orderly universe.

But people hate to give up an idea that makes them feel the centre of things, even when it is a burden. A few thinkers long ago suggested that the earth itself was turning, but the idea was unpopular. A Greek thinker named Heraklides suggested it 1395 B.C. Another early astronomer named Aristarchus expressed the same idea in 280 B.C. But people did not like the idea that the earth was one of several small bodies circling around the sun. They preferred to think that the universe turned around the earth and not the earth itself was turning.

Earth Was 'Hub of Universe'

The great Aristotle, who had an orderly mind, did not acceut the idea that the earth was a turning planet. He taught that the earth was the hub of the universe and people were proud to accept his idea for many centuries. In the 16th Century, a Polish priest named Nikolaus Kopernik was re-studying some old charts of the heavens. He began to wonder if the Old Greek idea might not be true. In 1543, he published his ideas in a brilliant and upsetting book. He said that it might be true that the universe moved around the earth. But — we would get the same heavenly parade if the earth itself was turning around. He died in the year his book was published, before he had a chance to prove his theories. We know now that his brilliant ideas were correct. His name has been Latinized and we know him as Copernicus, one of the greatest of all astronomers.

Proof of Copernicus' theories had to wait over 50 years, for the invention of the telescope. This wonderful instrument which makes faraway things seem near was used by the Italian Galileo. In 1610, Galileo was using a telescope to get a closer look at the planets, the heavenly bodies that were called the wanderers because they made curly paths through the sky. He saw the moons of Jupiter, the rings of Saturn and the moon-like phases of Venus. There was no doubt now that the earth was a planet, sister to several other planets all revolving around the sun. And that the earth itself was forever rotating towards the east, facing first one view and then another of the heavens.

What Causes a Cloudburst?

Andy sends a Hammond's International World Globe to Ann Crews, age 12, of Winston-Salem, N.C. for her question:

What Causes a Cloudburst?

A cloudburst can suddenly dump 72,300 tons of water over one square acre. This is quite a wallop and luckily it does not happen very often. A real cloudburst is very rare. Sometimes we call a sharp shower in the mountains a cloudburst when it really is not. The runoff from the slopes creates such a deluge that it seems that a cloud has burst open like a paper bag.

Of course, even in a real cloudburst, the cloud does not break open. It happens because the rain forming in the cloud has been unable to fall down in a steady shower. Sometimes this happens when the cloud is ready to rain and the ground below is scorching hot. Or maybe a very warm current of air is blowing under the rain cloud. Either of these events causes a strong updraft of warm air. Raindrops find it very hard to fall through a current of rising air. When they start down, up they are whisked again.

If this goes on for any length of time, the cloud gets an overload of rain. The drops that should have fallen are returned back up and new drops are being formed all the time. Finally something happens to change the situation. The weight of rain is able to break through or maybe the updraft suddenly stops for some reason. Then all the rain drops, new ones and old, come tumbling down at once. Truly it seems as if the rain cloud has burst.

Workmen's Fashions To Be Ultra-Ultra

TORONTO (CP) — "Men at work."

The sign will be necessary if male clothing designers have their way, for the industrial worker of the future may be clad in flashy, eye-catching work clothes that could do justice to a movie star.

The idea of promoting fashion consciousness in the Canadian male was advanced Tuesday as some 300 manufacturers of the National Garment Association of Canada viewed a collection of sportswear and work and utility clothes.

In an attempt to start fashion trends, the association staged a men's fashion show giving "inspirational" design ideas to the manufacturer.

The "dress-up" trend was first shown in shirt and slack co-ordinates. One, a turquoise chambray pullover, had a narrow collar with squared freedom neckline which may be worn zipped closed or open with lapels turned back. It featured extra short sleeves and doubled welt pockets on the left side.

Brown herringbone corduroy slacks had wide belt loops with frontier - type pockets cut straight across the top.

Stitched-down creases in the slacks will be a boon to housewives—they require no pressing and are of drip-dry fabric.

Creating a stir among the manufacturers was an orange pullover shirt worn with co-ordinated grey and white cotton cord slacks. The shirt had a narrow collar and pockets set in horizontal yoke. Sleeves may be worn down or turned back and cuffed.

The slacks had slim lines with patch pockets in back, stitched down creases and cuffless bottoms with stitching.

Denim and knit jersey were popular fabrics. Bold patterns were used and color combinations included brown and orange, green and white, and red and blue.

The "elegant look" came to the fore in sportswear. Giving a dressed-up appearance, these clothes are made to bridge the gap between tailored clothing and "knock-about" leisure wear.

Jackets in beige, yellow and brown were shown in leather and knit combinations. All collars, cuffs and pockets were trimmed with leather.

Some had zipped-in linings in gay floral designs. Among the innovations was an eye-catching red pullover jacket with a zipped-in chamois lining.

PGE Extension Into Peace River By 1958—Bennett

At least one fork of the northern PGE extension will be completed by the middle of next year, Premier Bennett said Monday.

"We'll be into the Peace River by next summer," he said.

Questioned about troubles being experienced along the southern extension beside Howe Sound, Mr. Bennett said: "Certainly there's problems, but it's an amazing thing that we're able to build both the railroad and the highway. They told us we couldn't do either."

Boy, 10, Survives Fall of 30 Feet; Had Bad Dream

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 10-year-old West Vancouver boy who dreamed he was being chased and fell 30 feet from a roof outside his bedroom window at midnight is alive today because he landed in a flower bed.

"If he hadn't," said his mother, Mrs. Cecil Lowe, "he wouldn't be with us now."

Michael suffered a compound fracture of the skull and other injuries.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowe had retired when they heard a noise and hurried out to find their son lying on the ground.

"He was screaming that someone had been chasing him. He went through the open window and down off the roof," Mrs. Lowe said.

Polite Bandits Rob Lauritz Melchior

Singing Star's Home Looted Of $175,000 by Armed Men

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Four armed bandits forced their way into the home of Lauritz Melchior late last night and robbed the opera star and his family of $175,000 in cash, jewels and furs, police reported.

Detectives said the bandits tied up Melchior and his wife, Maria, before fleeing from the swank home on Mulholland Drive. Officers said the Melchiors were uninjured.

Officers said the men wore stocking masks. They said the bandits ordered Melchior to turn over all the cash he had in the home in addition to the jewels and his wife's fur coats.

Melchior told police the bandits were "real courteous and gentlemanly." He said they forced him to open a safe containing the jewels and $300 in cash.

Sgt. William Vowles said the four men rang the doorbell and a maid answered. He said then they forced the maid to ring the doorbell and this time Melchior came to the door.

Vowles said the men pulled a gun on Melchior and forced him and the maid into the living room where Mrs. Melchior was reading.

IMPRESSED with Seattle painter Mark Tobey's "white writing" style of canvas work is Art Gallery visitor Mrs. W. G. Wellington. Tobey, said by some critics to be the U.S. painter whose works are most appreciated in cultural Europe, currently has a 33-picture display on view here.—(Times photo)

Soviet Musicians Should Come Here, Says Glenn Gould

TORONTO (CP)—Glenn Gould, 24-year-old Toronto pianist just returned from a successful tour of Russia and European countries, said today he is looking forward to another tour next year.

"I've been invited back and I intend to go," he said. "I would like to see other Canadian musicians do the same thing, and I would like to see Russian musicians come to Canada for concerts."

Of Russian audiences, Mr. Gould said they were "terribly enthusiastic and extremely attentive." Berliners, however, were "terribly dull, staid and respectable—just like Torontonians."

Polish Cardinal Back in Warsaw

WARSAW (Reuters)—Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, Primate of Poland, returned to Warsaw today from Rome with a picture of the Virgin Mary given to him by Pope Pius. The cardinal, who received his red hat from the Pope during a six-week visit to the Eternal City, was accompanied by Archbishop Antoni Baraniak of Poznan. The picture will be installed in the cathedral of St. John, Warsaw.

ART IN REVIEW

Tobey Show Demands Attention

By MONCRIEFF WILLIAMSON

This week I wish for two things.

That you will leave your strawberry feasts, climb into your automobiles and drive to Moss Street to visit the Mark Tobey exhibition.

Secondly, that some generously inclined Victorian will purchase one of the larger canvases and present it to the city.

Until July 7 the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria is giving this internationally famous American painter his first one-man show in Canada.

I feel that Victorians should commemorate the occasion by going out of their way to see this well arranged display. It might also help them to understand what this writer means when he reiterates the importance to painting of draughtsmanship, style, taste and sincerity. Mark Tobey has all these qualities.

Mind, these are not easy pictures. They look abstract yet Tobey has declared that he is no abstractionist. But if these are not abstractions, you may well ask, what are they?

It is a fact that if you look long enough at one or two of the paintings then you will recognize the objects depicted—but you will be seeing them with a new pair of eyes.

An American critic, searching his vocabulary to express his understandable enthusiasm for Mark Tobey's provocative technique, coined the term "white writing".

"WHITE WRITING"

It is an infuriating expression because, try as one does to dismiss it, "white writing" exactly describes the Oriental, white-laced caligraphy which overlays many of his compositions and unites the confusion of color and spidery image in close, well-knit harmonies. These are the Byzantine mosaics of contemporary America.

Tobey studied Chinese caligraphy as a pupil of Teng Kwei. He also studied bamboo brushwork at a Zen monastery in Japan. The Oriental influence on his thoughts, his attitude towards life and deep concern with the fate of humanity, shines clearly through these pictures with the pearly whiteness of moonstone.

This is Oriental mysticism integrated in Western, advanced painting with all the force of a stiff uppercut.

Tobey uses a fidgety means of painting for tranquil ends. He weaves patterns of interlaced colors, closely woven and warm. They seem about to explode from the loom, yet always there is this "white writing" to hold them back—to prevent them from running all over the walls. Rich, desert-baked colors; lush, vegetable-dye colors, and everywhere a calmness which can only come from long periods of deep contemplation.

MAN AS NATURE

I was not surprised to learn that Tobey is an adherent to Bahasi World Faith which, to quote the exhibiton catalogue, "stresses the essential unity between man and all forms of nature." An artist who recognizes man as a "form of nature" will understandably wish to paint him and Tobey was for many years a distinguished portrait painter. He still paints portraits, though there are none on view in this display, which covers the period from 1933 to 1957.

While going round the exhibition I made notes analyzing the various phases in Tobey's art. The pictures are not easy to interpret second-hand so I suggest you see for yourselves the work of a man who has influenced a considerable school of modern French and American painting.

Another Icebox Victim

KEESEVILLE, N.Y. (AP)—Abandoned iceboxes, noted for their fatal attraction to children, claimed another young life Tuesday, that of seven-year-old Carl Fayette Estes. He apparently crawled into the box while playing hide and seek with his brother and sisters, and suffocated inside.

BRIDGE LESSON

By Oswald Jacoby

If you look at the North and South hands you will see that six clubs makes easily. Declarer draws trumps, ruffs one of North's spades with one of his trumps and loses one heart trick only.

While the slam is a lay-down it is not easy to bid. South has a normal no-trump and North only has 10 points in high cards.

When the hand was played in a Toronto duplicate some pairs landed in three no-trump and were set by a heart opening. Others got to four spades and made five.

A couple of pairs using the Jacoby transfer bid got to the six-club contract.

North's two-heart response was the transfer bid and South's two spades the forced answer. North's three-club bid showed the spade club two-suiter and was an absolute force to game. If a player who has used the transfer bid shows another suit he is forcing to game.

South's three-diamond bid was an all-purpose bid and naturally showed diamonds tops. North's jump to four spades indicated that he had no interest in no-trump and some slight interest in a slam. He could have bid three spades and South would have had to continue.

South's five-club bid showed good clubs and also a willingness to play a slam. South could not have worried about the four-spade contract.

Finally, North's six-club bid was based on his singleton heart. With two hearts he would have stopped at five.

BUILDING MATERIALS,
BUDGET TERMS

For Sale — Cheap
CRYSTAL BALL

And so goes the story of many election forecasters and writers, we too, could tell you which way the cat will jump or next week's sale price of strawberries—but we might be wrong.

Busily looking through the July advance editions of Knothole news the confidential indicator says lumber prices won't be any lower. In fact bargains may not be around too much longer as to wit with the recent prices of plywood. So, while you're in the mood, bundle up and visit Stewart & Hudson for a look at the largest selection in town—building lumber for every purpose—at prices you will like to pay—on budget terms, too.

All Prices Listed per 1,000 Ft.

WHAT'S THIS
How come mahogany plywood cheaper than ordinary fir plywood? We can't answer this one either, but there it is.
4x8 ft., ¼ in. sheet rich mahogany plywood for panelling. Only per sheet $3.95
Then there's 3x6-ft.x¼ only $1.50
Sounds too good, so order soon, while it's a reality.

One size, one color, Arborite curvatop. The factory-made sink top and splashback. Size 25"x96x4¼ in. High splashback, pearl grey, only $15.95—and there's only 5 of 'em.

PAPER LOSSES
are listed in my dictionary as something you own on paper and not in cash when the price goes down. Well, something like this happened to the hardware man who made lock sets. The bottom dropped out of something and the old boy threw in the towel—quit making 'em, been at it for years, too. The prices you will read next are half what they used to be. Yes, less than cost.
Bathroom lock sets, only $1.40
Front door lock sets, only 5.95
Extra good front door sets, only 6.00

Joe Brown Defends Title Against Orlando Zulueta at 7

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

GLEANINGS—Just received word that Channel 4 will carry the 24th annual All-Star baseball game on Tuesday, July 9, starting at 11.15 a.m., 15 minutes before game time. This will mark the eighth consecutive year that NBC-TV is covering the diamond classic.

As usual, the starting lineups for both teams, except for pitchers, will be chosen by popular vote of baseball fans. The pitching staffs and balance of the 25-man squads are selected by the managers. Casey Stengel of the world champion New York Yankees will pilot the American League team and Walter Alston, of the Brooklyn Dodgers, will manage the National League squad.

The American League holds a 13-10 edge in the All-Star series. It will be televised from Busch stadium in St. Louis.

* * *

JACK PAAR will bow with his new Tonight show Monday, July 29, at 11.30 p.m., running each week throughout the summer months on a five-day a week schedule. . . .

Elliott Lewis has resigned from NBC to assist Jules Goldstone in the production of "Court of Last Resort" TV film series to make its debut on Channel 4, Oct. 4. Series will be based on activities of the seven-man board of crime-detection experts dedicated to freeing wrongly convicted prisoners. . . .

S. Mark Smith, former editorial supervisor for Maurice Evans Hallmark Hall of Fame series and the U.S. Steel Hour, will produce the forthcoming "Crisis," series, to commence Sept. 30, in the 10 to 11 p.m. slot.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

THURSDAY, JUNE 20, 1957

(Author of the new "Astrology and You")

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—Sudden chance to be more expressive in the outlets which bring you a feeling that you are getting ahead in whatever interests you the most should be seized and used to advantage by you now. Avoid financial risks, etc., however.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Quietly uncovering better methods for making your family realize you are devoted to them and interested in their welfare, produces all kinds of excellent results by systematizing, scheduling time to soon put them in motion.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Ambitious friend communicates or drops in to see you to give you a chance to get in on the ground floor with interesting new plan, gadget, invention, group movement, party or other desirable matter. Get all the facts before deciding.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—Have you followed the suggestions given by expert that can bring you greater amount of public popularity, financial remuneration, personal security? You have the opportunity to increase in any of these lines today. Keep alert for such.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Getting out of your groove into the big, wide world of action excellent now for you. Let others know what you want. Then put plan quickly in effect. Make acquaintances of all who are able to give you the boost you need.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Adopting a new plan in confidence with experts in their fields is what is now best for you. Let others see that you value their secret backing by following suggestions they make. Otherwise, why take their, and your time in the asking?

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Get together with all of the interesting personalities who are available today, alone or singly. Be sure that you do state your hopes and wishes. Then go along with the unique suggestions they make for gainining such aims. P.M. be amusing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Plunging into the jobs awaiting your attention with vim, vigor and vitality produces all kinds of enlightening results that impel you even further upward. Be sure to get your environment as you'd most like to have it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—You are so filled with inspiration you can lash out and see all with whom you have a desire to work in harmony in days to come. Fine for creative expression as well as matters connected with romance, recreation, youngsters, games.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—You can busy yourself all day working at an intelligent financial system under which to operate with others in the future. This not only applies to co-workers, members of your own clan, but where government, taxes, etc., are involved.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Your mind is all fired up to get every relation with others on a generous, fine, lofty, desirable plane, and since you, as an Aquarian, like people, it's a truly wonderful day for you. Therefore, arrive at better understanding with everyone.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Financial affairs can be put in much better shape. But it's up to you to get busy and perform all the tasks necessary to do so. Increase value and attractiveness of your possessions by putting in perfect order. Devise better budget, also.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN THURSDAY . . .

Thursday's child is one of those very charming youngsters who is all filled with the desire to get a great deal accomplished and who will brook no opposition if you give them the decision between what you know is right and their erroneous ideas. This child will appreciate a firm hand and will cling to the one who will be positive in stating the truth as he or she sees it. A fine chart for work of an uplifting nature if you keep worthwhile principles before your offspring.

Aces for Sale

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec Aces, whose management announced Friday the club would withdraw from the Professional Quebec Hockey League for a year, were put up for sale Tuesday.

Main shareholders J. R. Latter and C. H. Smith announced they consider it time for younger and more energetic men to take over and "all reasonable, serious offers will be considered."

Financial difficulties prompted the decision to withdraw.

DUCHESSES MUTTER IN TEA CUPS

Royal Family Attends Doug Fairbanks Party

LONDON (AP)—Actor Douglas Fairbanks Jr. and his wife staged the biggest scoop of the Mayfair social season Tuesday night when they entertained the Royal Family.

More than one duchess was muttering in her tea cup.

The occasion was a spectacular coming-out party for Fairbanks' debutante daughter Daphne—but it was Queen Elizabeth and others of the Royal Family who got most attention.

Last week the Queen declined an invitation to the coming-out dance of lovely Nora Lyle, stepdaughter of the Duke of Bedford.

"I asked them all," said the duke, "but they the Royal Family were busy."

More than 350 guests went to the Fairbanks party including Prince Philip, Princess Margaret and Princess Alexandra.

BORROWED HOUSE

The scene of what will go down as one of the most glittering balls of the year was historic Clieveden, in the nearby countryside.

Fairbanks borrowed the country house for the night from a pal, the third Viscount Astor. "It was a personal gesture," said Astor's secretary.

Nov. 19, 1952, Mrs. Fairbanks—daughter of a Bluefield, W.Va., dentist became the first hostess to be honored by having the Queen as guest at a private dinner.

Fairbanks knew Admiral Lord Mountbatten and Mountbatten introduced him to his nephew, Prince Philip.

The Queen made Fairbanks a knight commander of the British Empire. This means he would be called Sir Douglas if he was not an American.

QUEEN WORRIED

Fairbanks now is in the movie and TV business and his listing in Britain's Who's Who takes up 54 lines—18 more than Prime Minister Macmillan's.

It was believed the Fairbanks did not attend Tuesday's Royal Ascot race meeting.

Earlier it was reported the Queen was in a dilemma over whether to invite the couple into the royal enclosure. Both have been divorced and by tradition and practice no divorced person is allowed in the royal enclosure.

MISHAP SHOWS DANGER SPOT; SURVEY FAILS

MONTREAL (CP) — A newspaper man who had just finished a survey of Montreal's most dangerous intersections was injured Tuesday when hit by a taxi at the corner of Peel and St. Catherine Streets.

That intersection wasn't even on his list.

"There's nothing like being a clinical reporter," commented the Montreal Star's Charles Lazarus as he was released from hospital after treatment for bruises and lacerations.

Lew, Althea Draw Toughies At Wimbledon

LONDON (Reuters) — Both Lew Hoad of Australia and Althea Gibson of the United States, top-seeded stars in the Wimbledon tennis championship which starts Monday, have drawn tough starting matches.

Both were seeded Tuesday to win the men's and women's singles. Wimbledon is regarded as the amateur tennis world championship.

Hoad, defending champion, meets Pierre Darmon, a Davis Cup player who recently scored a convincing win over Hoad's compatriot, Ashley Cooper.

Cooper was seeded No. 2 in Tuesday's list.

Canuck Team Surprises In Golf Match

FLINT, Mich. (CP) — Canadian golfers scored a surprise 7½-4½ win over their United States opponents Tuesday in a series of pro-amateur matches held in conjunction with Thursday's $37,000 open tournament.

One point was awarded for the best-ball score on each nine and an additonal point for the 18-hole best-ball score. The Canadians were awarded the Carling Cup.

Results:

Ald Balding, Bigwin Inn, and Eric Hanson, Toronto, defeated Jimmy Demaret and Doug Bloom, 3-0; Gerry Kesselring, Toronto, and Gary Gowan, Kitchener, defeated Dow Finsterwald and Bob Shave, 3-0; Doug Ford and Glen Johnson defeated Stan Leonard, Lachute, Que., and Don Doe, Granby, Que., 3-0; Gord Brydson, Toronto, and Nick Weslock, Windsor, tied Julius Boros and Chuck Kocsis, 1½-1½. Best-ball score, Kesselring, Cowan, Ford and Johnson, tied with 64.

N.Z. Rates Autobikes Biggest Road Hazard

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — A drive to cut the toll of motorcycle deaths in New Zealand has brought spectacular results. Less than two years ago, motorcycles were classed as the most dangerous vehicles on the roads. The accident rate was five times as high as for cars.

Motorcycles totaled only 5 per cent of the vehicles on the road but they suffered 25 per cent of the traffic deaths.

So seriously was the position viewed that the government was considering clapping a 40 m.p.h maximum on motorcycles at all times and places.

SPONSOR CAMPAIGN

To meet the danger the motorcycle dealers and clubs got together and planned a safety campaign.

The government brought in a law making it compulsory to wear a crash helmet if riding a motorcycle at over 30 m.p.h. Motorcycle schools were started throughout the country to train riders how to handle their machines properly. The course is held in a safe place, off the roads, and consists of eight riding lessons, plus films and lectures.

These measures have changed the picture in New Zealand. In little more than a year since the motorcycle schools began, cycle fatalities on the roads have been cut by half.

START YOUNG

The improvement is especially striking with novice riders trained in the schools. It has been found that they are far better at avoiding accidents than those who learned haphazardly.

The compulsory wearing of crash helmets has produced equally striking results. A large number of accidents which once ended fatally now produce only injuries.

The campaign has not only staved off the threat of a 40 m.p.h speed limit. It has brought a cut in premium rates charged by insurance companies on motorcycles.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFS

A six-month suspended sentence was given R. S. Nyhang, 3132 Fifth, in city police court Tuesday for false pretences involving a worthless cheque for $14.25.

"You have been inviting trouble of some sort for some time," Magistrate H. C. Hall said.

Nyhang had spent several days in jail awaiting trial and sentence and had arranged for the goods obtained to be returned.

Complainant was furniture dealer Harry Israel.

Nyhang entered into a $500 good behavior bond.

First reading of "Shops, Hawkers and Peddlers Regulation By-Law 1957 was passed Monday night by Saanich council.

It allows for early closing on Monday of each week, except during July and August, when closing is extended to 6 p.m. as is regular closing on all but the short day.

About 50 per cent of Saanich businesses queried favored Monday for early closing rather than Wednesday.

Provision for the new legislation is made in Section 867 of the revised Municipal Act.

Official Opening Of Ladore Falls Plant Wednesday

CAMPBELL RIVER—British Columbia's newest source of hydro-electric power, the B.C. Power Commission's Ladore Falls plant, will be officially opened here by Premier W. A. C. Bennett next Wednesday.

Second stage of the giant Campbell River hydro-electric development, the Ladore Falls station will be inspected by representatives of the federal, provincial and municipal governments, industry, business, contractors and suppliers before Premier Bennett pushes the button which will send water cascading through the turbines to start the generators turning.

The $10,000,000 plant adds 70,000 horsepower to the 168,000 horsepower now generated at the John Hart plant. Both generating stations use the same water storage.

Wednesday's opening will be symbolical only. One generator has been in operation at Ladore since Dec. 29 of last year. The second unit went into service in April, 1957. It took two years to build.

Presley Cancels B.C. Engagement

VANCOUVER (CP) — Entertainment promoter Holly Maxwell said today singing idol Elvis Presley has cancelled plans for an engagement here next month.

TWO CONVICTS ESCAPE KINGSTON PENITENTIARY

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Two men, working in a cannery outside the east wall of Kingston Penitentiary but inside a wired fence, escaped today.

Thomas Edward Jillings, 34, and Edward Arnold Brooker, 32, were noticed missing when guards marched the cannery crew back into the prison for lunch.

Jillings was serving a nine-year term after being sentenced in Lindsay, Ont., in 1956 on charges of breaking and entering.

Brooker was sentenced at Sudbury to serve three years and four months for escaping jail at Sudbury.

Island Centres Plan Centenary

A varied program of Centennial Year celebrations is being drawn up by Vancouver Island communities.

Qualicum Beach will stage a gala carnival in July that will highlight swimming contests and a water show.

The nearby districts of Cedar, Bright, Cranberry and North Oyster have ambitious plans for a pioneer banquet, hobby and crafts show, monthly dances, presentation of a three-act play by the Yellow Point Drama Group, and an air show at Cassidy.

Parksville has plans for a similar pattern of activities, as does Ladysmith, where an oyster - shucking contest will also be featured.

The Comox Valley Centennial Committee, planning for Courtenay, Cumberland, Comox and 18 other districts, will extend and promote Cumberland's annual Folk Festival and May 24th celebration and the Dominion Day celebration at Courtenay.

Comox harbor will be used for water sports and yacht racing and Comox wharf for fireworks and an open air dance.

Dancing, sports, picnics and pioneer banquets will be staged by Centennial groups at Errington and Coombs.

George Price Heads Rotary At Chemainus

CHEMAINUS — George Price was installed as president of the Rotary Club at the annual banquet held at Manana Lodge.

Other officers installed were Jack Jameson, vice-president; Frank Dyer, secretary; Art Bird, treasurer; Bob Hossack, sergeant-at-arms; Jim Gordon, Bob Bennie and Tom Beggs, directors. Installing officer was Barney Cox of Duncan.

Retiring president Harry Ewart thanked the officers and members for their interest and support during the past year.

"Our community service record ranks with the best and our attendance record is one of which we can be particularly proud," he said.

Six Months Jail For Cafe Theft

CAMPBELL RIVER—Joseph Gerard Pellerin, charged Monday with breaking and entering a cafe Sunday and stealing $964, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to six months in Oakalla.

According to evidence, the Bright Spot Cafe was entered by breaking a rear window. Police said they recovered the full amount stolen.

BIG BEN TO TACKLE LONG SWIM

NANAIMO—Big Ben Laughren, Victoria's swimming chef, will set off from here Sunday in the first attempt ever made to swim the 36 miles from here to Vancouver.

It is expected he will take off from Departure Bay, two miles north of the city. English Bay, in Vancouver, is 36 miles from the take-off point in a straight line.

Outboard Motor Explodes After Refueling

Spilled gasoline caused a Victoria sport fisherman's outboard engine to burn and blow up off Discovery Island Monday at about 9:30 p.m.

Boat owner Dick Watson, 305 St. Charles, was not injured in the blast and his boat, of plastic construction, was little damaged.

The engine was badly burned.

Watson told police he had been fishing and was about to return to Oak Bay. He poured more gasoline into the engine, but some spilled over, igniting either by spark or on the hot metal.

A nearby friend George Gilbert, came and took the disabled boat in tow and Watson climbed into the other boat.

Just then the burning engine exploded in full view of dozens of watchers ashore. A number of boats had set out for the rescue when Gilbert started his tow.

Youth Guilty Of Threatening Two Accusers

NANAIMO — Edward Martin Lonsdale, 18, was found guilty in police court Tuesday of using threats to prevent evidence being given in court. He was remanded to Friday for sentence.

John Charles Nelson, 18, was acquitted by Magistrate Lionel Beevor - Potts on the same charge.

The case arose out of an incident some days ago when Colin Clarke, Nanaimo, laid an assault charge against Duncan Hodges.

'GET HIM'

According to testimony given by Mrs. A. C. Clarke, mother of Colin Clarke, Lonsdale threatened her, and her son was held by the arms and told that if he testified against Hodges, then Lonsdale would "get him."

Mrs. Mary Tait told the court how she and Mrs. Clarke and Colin Clarke were threatened outside a cafe.

Both Nelson and Lonsdale had pleaded not guilty. Nelson told the court he and Lonsdale were "just being inquisitive."

Mrs. Clarke was visibly frightened as she described the threats against her.

This is the second case within a week of persons here being found guilty of attempting to obstruct or pervert the course of justice by using threats to prevent evidence being given in court.

Tree Spraying Hits Fish, Tests Reveal

Fishermen and fish company executives have joined with the federal fisheries department in expressing serious alarm over preliminary results of the black-headed budworm spraying operation on northern Vancouver Island.

A. J. Whitmore, chief supervisor of fisheries, today stated that losses of up to 90 per cent of salmon fry and smolts in some test areas have been recorded by the team of fisheries departmnt and game commission biologists who have been in the area since the spraying operations began last week. It will take another two weeks to complete.

Pens containing young salmon and trout were placed in streams located both inside and outside the spraying area, a 150,000 acre timber tract which is being treated with a solution of DDT and oil. These pens have been carefully checked since early June and records kept of survival rates.

Fish were observed in distress condition in some pens within two hours after spraying and many began to die shortly after.

Fishery officers who flew with the pilots of spraying aircraft agreed pilots took every precaution to avoid streams, but results indicate that in most forest areas it is impossible to keep DDT out of streams and that fish mortality in varying degrees is inevitable.

Vancouver Island Viewpoint

Education

SIDNEY REVIEW — Some weeks ago Sidney's village fathers, concerned over a 34 per cent increase in the cost of education in one year, passed a resolution pointing out that the cost has reached a point beyond the ability of many property owners to pay. The resolution was a positive one—not negative—and suggested several ways in which the educational bill could be prepared. One of these points called for a slightly longer school day and fewer holidays during the year, permitting senior matriculation to be attained in four years.

Few Sidney residents agreed in every detail with the terms of the resolution—but the majority warmly applauded its intent. There was general agreement that the time is long overdue when the brakes should be applied with considerable force to the constantly soaring educational bill.

Folk Festival

COURTENAY ARGUS—Everyone attending the annual Cumberland Folk Festival surely must have come away feeling they had experienced an evening, or two if they took in the entire show, of excellent entertainment presented in a program of varied and unusual theme.

We would like to think, too, that the Festival as a meeting of people from many nations meant something more to the spectators than mere entertainment. Here was a grass-roots appreciation of cultures for one another presented in an atmosphere that can't help but produce a better understanding among races and of different national backgrounds.

Best Meetings

PARKSVILLE - QUALICUM BEACH PROGRESS — Poor attendance at the majority of meetings sponsored by the four candidates in the recent political campaign in Comox-Alberni riding duplicated the pattern set in the provincial election. At numerous meetings held by individual candidates, average attendance was probably about 30, and 75 was considered a crowd.

Those figures again point up the value of all-candidate forums sponsored by Commerce Chambers or similar groups. They have always attracted good-sized crowds in Parksville, Courtenay and other centres.

Next elections in this area are now a long way off but it is not too early to mark open forums down as a must for the future.

Industry's Fight

COWICHAN LEADER — The pendulum has swung far from the day when an employer could ride roughshod over a worker. In fact, the pendulum has swung so far that the worker would seem at times to be running roughshod over management.

The growth of unions has been too rapid for their own good. This needs to be said because there is abundant evidence that some workers consider they are working for a union instead of an industry. This is a downright ridiculous situation.

Employers have been too willing to transfer to unions their functions with respect to employees. They are now having to fight to win back their former status and to regain the loyalty of the men and women who live on the income derived from services to their firm. It is a fight worth the effort. Even in industry peace at any price is an impossible policy.

Slander Charged To Victorian By Realty Firm

Campbell River Development Co. Claims Sale of Stock Badly Hurt

An action for slander brought by the Campbell River Development Co. Ltd. against a Victoria resident opened in the B.C. Supreme Court Tuesday.

The company is suing John Wesley Baikie for alleging that the company's scheme to develop the Campbell River waterfront into a new business area was "inadequate and not engineeringly sound."

Mr. Baikie is said to have slandered the company at a public meeting in Campbell River in December, 1956. A writ against him was issued in January last.

George Gregory, for the Campbell River company, said it aimed to create a new business area of about 16 acres, together with a harbor and docking facilities, by filling in some tidal flats along the waterfront.

In December, 1956, Mr. Baikie spoke "falsely and maliciously" of the company and its way of business at a meeting attended by the village commissioners, local residents and newspaper representatives in St. Peter's Anglican church hall.

REPORTED STATEMENT

Mr. Baikie is alleged to have said:

"The information and plans are inadequate. The plans were not drawn by an accredited engineer. There is no guarantee that in 10 years' time the whole thing would not settle—settle as much as 10 feet and drag the village down.

"Who was to repair the sea wall—if this is a village responsibility, who will pay for it?—I will sign no blank cheque for the village of Campbell River. No guarantee of financial responsibility has been given by the company."

Mr. Gregory said this statement was reported in the Campbell River Courier.

The company, Mr. Gregory continued, had been gravely injured as to its credit and general reputation and the whole of the company's waterfront development plan had been brought into "public scandal, odium and contempt."

He said stock advertised for sale had been so adversely affected that it became impossible to sell any shares to the public.

"The defendant was well aware that newspaper representatives were present when he spoke adversely of the company . . . and that the Campbell River Courier had an extensive circulation in Campbell River."

Mr. Gregory asked for unspecified damages and costs.

He called as witness George Leslie Scott, Vancouver civil engineer, who testified that plans made by the company for the Campbell River project were "sound and practical."

A. D. Pool, a Vancouver lawyer, appeared for the defence and denied allegations of slander when the hearing continued today.

New Hospital Opening Soon At Campbell R.

Second opening of a new hospital on Vancouver Island this year will take place this summer at Campbell River.

The three-storey, 58-bed Campbell River and District Hospital is being built at a cost of $908,000.

It is one of 12 hospitals now under construction throughout the province which will cost a total of $16,000,000.

Officials of the government, which pays half the cost under its grant-in-aid scheme, say it is the largest hospital construction program ever underway in the province.

Another 12 projects which will cost a total of $12,000,000 are in the advanced planning stage.

Last April, a new 32-bed hospital costing $274,000 was officially opened at Ladysmith.

In the same month construction was started on the new Lady Minto Hospital at Ganges which will serve the Gulf Islands. The 21-bed hospital, of concrete block construction, will cost $265,000. A nurses' residence is being built alongside.

Also on the Island, the new 64-bed Queen Alexandra Solarium at Gordon Head is now under construction and will be opened next spring. Cost is $827,000.

CORONER'S JURISDICTION QUESTIONED

NANAIMO (CP)—Coroner Dr. Henry Lewis adjourned an inquest here Monday when his jurisdiction was questioned.

The challenge came when only five of six jurors showed up for the hearing, which was to have been into the death of Mrs. Lois Christine Doran.

Crown counsel E. D. Strongitharm said that Joseph Mellor, of Vancouver, had been arraigned on a criminal negligence charge since the coroner's jury originally convened. He said the Coroner's Act sets out that when a person is charged following a death, the attorney-general may direct that no inquest shall be held or continued into the death.

Mrs. Doran died April 4 in a highway collision at Nanoose, 18 miles north of here.

Water Rates At Duncan Due for Rise

DUNCAN — Rebuilding of the water system here will take 10 years and cost $350,000, according to city council estimates.

Cost of the project will be met by raising current monthly rates of $2.40 in Duncan and $2.70 in North Cowichan by $1. Application for the increase is before the Public Utilities Commission.

The brief to the commission states that wooden pipes need replacing, and that the peak demand is almost double the capacity of the pumping system.

There are 3,200 customers in Duncan and 2,020 in North Cowichan.

Duncan Stores Take Full Day Weekly Closing

DUNCAN — Decision to observe an all-day-Thursday store closing here was made at a meeting of the retail division, Duncan - Cowichan Chamber of Commerce, attended by more than 50 city merchants.

The new hours will come into effect July 4. Until then the usual Thursday afternoon closing will be observed.

After the merchants voted for the all-day closing, it was pointed out that the city council had power to enforce only a half-day closing.

T. Van Shindler suggested the all-day closing by "gentlemen's agreement," although several members wondered aloud how many "gentlemen" there would be in Duncan after July 4.

UNDER NEW ACT

Purpose of the meeting was to make a decision on store opening hours, as required under the new Municipal Act, and to advise the city council of the merchants' decision.

Some favored either Monday, Wednesday, or Thursday opening, and five-day, five and one-half, and six-day programs all had their supporters.

Fisheries Conservation Urged

By Times Staff Reporter

SOOKE — A recommendation that both federal and provincial governments take action to promote the conservation of the fisheries resources of British Columbia was made by a special committee at the annual meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island at Sooke Tuesday.

The committee was appointed at last year's ACCVI convention to make a study of the problem of diminishing sports fish and to report its findings.

★ ★ ★

Some 60 delegates representing Chambers of nearly every city, town and village on Vancouver Island are attending the convention which opened at the Grouse Nest Lodge Tuesday.

The two-day meeting is chaired by Tom Hargreaves of Campbell River.

The brief, submitted by Will Dobson of Duncan, reported that fish are rapidly diminishing in lakes, rivers and streams due to the fast industrialization of Vancouver Island.

★ ★ ★

It advocated a province-wide educational program to bring to the attention of the public and school children the importance of fish conservation.

"A resource educational program is vitally needed now," the brief said. "Vancouver Island is the centre of one of the best salt water playgrounds in the entire world."

★ ★ ★

The brief urged that a larger amount of money be made available to the federal department of fisheries.

It noted that the department at present only receives an appropriation of $2,300,000 a year to look after the needs of 7,000 miles of coastline in B.C.

Fisheries inspectors were underpaid, it said. A grade one inspector was paid less than a third-class constable in Vancouver.

The committee said the fisheries department also needs additional men during the summer and fall seasons to carry out an enlarged program of stream improvement and patrol duties.

"Salvage of fry from land-locked pools needs to be developed," it said. "At present there are not the men to keep open the channels of the many streams in our various watersheds."

Chisholm Raps Nursery Methods

By HUMPHRY DAVY

SOOKE — The system of separating newly-born babies from their mothers in Canadian hospitals was deplored Tuesday by Dr. Brock Chisholm, former director-general of the United Nations World Health Organization, at the annual meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island, at Sooke.

The system, he said, is undermining the health and retarding the social development of children.

"It is disastrous," he said. "This is not my opinion but that of the best medical advisors of the World Health Organization who made a special study of the subject."

Dr. Chisholm said that northern India is a generation ahead of Canada in running its maternity wards.

"They do not release from hospitals neurotic babies," he said. "They do not keep newly-born babies under glass or permit mothers to leave hospital without their infants."

He said newly-born infants in India were kept in a crib at the foot of the mother's bed—a system which he recommended to Canadian hospitals.

"Under the present system, many mothers never get to know their babies intimately," he said. "They are scared of their babies when they return home and the babies are scared of their mothers."

Air Navigational Station For Island Planned by U.S.

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — The planned construction of five tactical air navigation stations in western Canada — one on Vancouver Island—for use by Canadian and United States military planes was disclosed here Tuesday.

Maj.-Gen. Emerson C. Itschner, chief of engineers, U.S. Army, said the stations, known as TACAN, will be similar to tactical navigation units already in use by the U.S. Air Force in Alaska.

The total cost of construction, he said, will run between $100,000 and $200,000.

He described four of the stations as small, semi-mobile units. The fifth, to be built at Whitehorse, Y.T., is scheduled as the largest of the series.

Gen. Itschner said the planning for the Canadian TACAN stations was a co-operative venture between military officials of Canada and the United States.

Other TACAN stations will be at Fort Nelson, Sandspit and Port Hardy, all in British Columbia and at Namao, Alta.

St. Laurent Calls Caucus; Leadership May Be Raised

Unusual Action Sets Political Tongues Wagging

Prime Minister St. Laurent today called a special caucus in Ottawa of the 104 Liberal members elected on June 10.

The action immediately set off speculation throughout the country as to whether Mr. St. Laurent has decided to relinquish the leadership of the Liberal party.

On the other hand it may be that Mr. St. Laurent, who will become Opposition Leader on Friday when John Diefenbaker is sworn in as Prime Minister, may have decided to ask for a vote of confidence from the elected members in his decision to resign as prime minister.

SHORT-TERM STRATEGY

The official announcement carried by Canadian Press said the caucus would discuss short-term party strategy for the first session of the new Parliament early in the fall, and plans for the next general election whenever it is.

However the calling of the caucus meeting so suddenly, bringing members from all parts of the Dominion to Ottawa, was an unusual action. This is what set political tongues wagging, as it was pointed out the future leadership of the party was bound to come up for discussion at such a meeting.

Immediately after the election Mr. St. Laurent said he would continue to sit in the new Parliament, presumably as Liberal chieftain and Opposition Leader.

DIFFERENT PATTERN

But there has been a good deal of speculation that Mr. St. Laurent would not want to lead the party into another election against Mr. Diefenbaker. If Mr. Diefenbaker definitely intends to seek another election within a year, some party strategists feel it would be wise to choose a new leader, such as Lester B. Pearson, and face the country with a different pattern from the one which met defeat June 10.

In that event the caucus might decide to ask for a national convention of the party and settle the whole issue.

Besides the 104 Liberals elected June 10 the caucus meeting also will be attended by William Benidickson, Liberal-Labor member for Kenora-Rainy River. He was parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Harris in the last Parliament. It was not known whether two Independent Liberals elected in Quebec have been asked to attend.

Two B.C. Men Die in Crash Of RCAF Jet

Wreckage of Missing Plane Spotted By Helicopter on Farm Near Ottawa

BISHOP'S MILLS, Ont. (CP) Wreckage of an RCAF CF-100 jet fighter-interceptor aircraft, missing from St. Hubert air base since Tuesday evening, was identified on a farm near here shortly after noon today. Both occupants were dead and a coroner was summoned.

An RCAF helicopter from Rockcliffe air base was dispatched to the bushland scene late in the morning after Ontario provincial police reported sighting wreckage believed to be that of an aircraft.

The CF-100, belonging to the RCAF's Air Defence Command, was manned by Flt. Lt. William H. Siegel, 30, White Rock, B.C., pilot, and Flt. Lt. Robert Willard Bogle, 32, whose father lives at New Westminster, B.C. Bogle was the navigator and radar-observer.

The crash occurred during the height of a violent electrical storm in the course of which a severe explosion occurred in a desolate swamp area on the farm of Leonard Sunderland in nearby Wolford township. Bishop's Mills is 40 miles south of Ottawa.

IDENTIFIED FROM AIR

The Rockcliffe helicopter, a twin-screw aircraft, was too large to descend in the area but RCAF personnel aboard identified the crash wreckage as that of a CF-100. On the radio they asked the provincial police cruisers nearby to call for a coroner.

A provincial police ground party, accompanied by farmers and workmen in the area, was beating its way through the bush and swamp to the scene.

RCAF officials who travelled from Ottawa's Uplands Airport were also reported working their way toward the plane's wreckage. The last mile had to be covered on foot.

234 Dead From U.S. Heat Wave

7 Forest Fires In California

CHICAGO (AP) — Thunderstorms moved into the east in advance of a cold front today signaling a breakup of the season's most widespread heat wave.

Five days of broiling temperatures in the eastern half of the United States and floods in the midcontinent took at least 234 lives. Most of the 206 heat casualties were drownings. Floods caused another 28 deaths.

The cold front was expected to pass across most of the Atlantic states area today, followed by cooler and drier air tonight and Thursday.

A mass of cool air from Canada broke the torrid heat wave in the midwest Tuesday, and early today the cold air front extended along a line from Lake Erie through southwest Ohio and down to southeast Arkansas.

FLOOD DAMAGE HEAVY

In the two principal flood areas, residents of Marshall, Minn., waited for a further rise in the rampaging Redwood River, but the flood seemed to wane in eastern South Dakota.

The Big Sioux River, now as wide as a mile in some places instead of its normal 60 feet, caused millions of dollars damage along a 100-mile line in South Dakota. There were three dead and two missing.

But in Minnesota the Redwood River at flooded Marshal still was three feet above flood stage, and down-river towns braced themselves for an expected deluge.

The property damage at Marshal was estimated at $1,000,000. Farm experts said crop damage would be three times as great.

TORONTO (CP) — Ontarians awoke from a cool night's sleep today and found their three-day heat wave ended.

A cold front moved across the province behind thunderstorms and rain showers, squeezing the mass of hot and humid air into eastern Quebec.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Firemen manned lines today at seven major forest fires. Acreage burned totaled more than 7,500 early today.

Weary firemen patrolled six blazes which were brought under control Tuesday or during the night. A seventh, 65 miles southeast of Los Angeles, blazed on out of control.

The unchecked fire is in Temescal Canyon, not far from a blaze which was controlled Tuesday after burning across 1,850 acres. The canyon fire has burned 2,500 acres. No homes are menaced. Elsinore, the nearest town, is 10 miles away.

Firemen said that dry, desert winds and 100-plus temperatures left the brush-covered hills so dry that the smallest spark could cause a major conflagration.

Italians Flee Raging Po River

ROVIGO, Italy (Reuters)—A massive flow of floodwater which has drained off from the storm-lashed Alps and Apennine foothills today rolled steadily towards the dike-protected farmlands of the Po River delta.

A small army of police, firemen and peasant volunteers stood guard in the low-lying delta fields and mudflats on the Adriatic coast as the level of Italy's greatest river rose by 7½ inches an hour throughout the night.

The rain-swollen river breached the main dike encircling the island of Ariano, where 32,000 farmers cultivate land. Stretches of dike crumbled under the pressure.

The islanders began shifting prized household possessions to upper floors and drove their cattle onto the walls of the strongest dikes.

In France, six persons died from sunstroke or bathing accidents in the continuing heatwave.

Quadruple Shot Tested For 4 Diseases

EDMONTON (CP)—Canadian scientists have developed and now are testing a quadruple vaccine for protection against polio, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough.

The work started two years ago at the Connaught medical research laboratories in Toronto and "the technical difficulties have been largely solved," said Dr. R. D. Defries, director emeritus and consultant at the laboratories.

He made his announcement today in a paper to the scientific session of the Canadian Medical Association's annual convention.

The new quadruple vaccine is a combination of the Salk polio vaccine and the triple antigens injectes together as protection against the other three diseases.

Disarmament Plan

LONDON (Reuters) — United States delegate Harold E. Stassen will begin presenting the long-awaited American proposal for partial disarmament Thursday at five-power talks here, it was learned tonight. Conference sources said the U.S. has achieved enough agreement with its Western allies to start presenting the plan.

Tankers Collide; 8 Dead, 50 Saved

BREST, France (AP) — Two big oil tankers collided and burst into flames in darkness and fog off Brittany today. Eight sailors died in the oily sea but more than 50 were rescued.

Rescue vessels picked their way gingerly through fog and oil slicks to get to the burning ships. Ten of the surviving crew members were severely hurt.

The French naval radio station identified the vessels as the 15,000-ton tanker Stony Point, sailing under Liberian papers, and the 19,000-ton Greek tanker Ioannis. But the Greek ship was also reported to be a freighter named Joannis or Ionis.

Victory Carriers Incorporated, operating agents in New York for the Stony Point, said the tanker was loaded with oil en route from Sidon, Lebanon, to Antwerp and carried a crew of 40.

HAMPERED BY FOG

Reports of the disaster, 20 miles off the tip of the Brittany peninsula, came by ship's wireless from rescue craft. The fog was so thick off the coast that aircraft couldn't locate the burning ships.

The first radio message alerted shore stations when the German ship Eric Reckmann came upon the burning vessels.

The two stricken craft were still burning eight hours later, apparently abandoned by their crews. The Stony Point was reported settling low in the water. The rescue ships asked for tugs, indicating that at least one of the derelicts might be towed to shore.

WIRE BRIEFS

Suez Canal Cleared

PORT SAID, Egypt (AP)—Suez Canal traffic was resumed today after a 12-hour stoppage when the British tanker Tribulus ran aground 25 miles north of Suez.

Cheaper Food Urged

TORONTO (CP)—The new Diefenbaker administration was urged today by Thomas G. McCormack, president of Dominion Stores, to lower retail food prices by exempting all foodstuffs from direct sales tax and to wipe out hidden taxes on foods.

Kishi in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prime Minister Kishi of Japan arrived today for three days of high level talks which he said may open a "new era of Japanese-American relations."

Triplets Born

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mrs. Johan Steenhuisen, 100-pound Dutch immigrant just out of her teens, gave birth to triplets in Grace Hospital here today. All are doing fine.

Firemen Essential

TORONTO (CP—Two CPR engineers told the Kellock royal commission today that firemen on diesel engines are an essential safety factor.

Bandits Hunted

CALGARY (CP)—Police today extended their hunt for three bandits who held a family captive while they forced Safeway store manager George Barnes to open a safe at gunpoint Monday. About $2,000 was stolen.

Firefighters Helped

WINDSOR, N.S. (CP)—The first heavy rain this month subdued Nova Scotia's 10,000-acre forest fire today but almost 500 men continued the battle to put it out.

Subs Create Tension In Mid-East

Israeli Cabinet Meets Hurriedly

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press
Staff Correspondent

Israel expressed growing concern today at Egypt's acquisition of three Soviet submarines, and informed sources said an attack on Israeli shipping meant war.

The Israeli cabinet met in emergency session Tuesday night and early today to discuss the Soviet move which once again shifted the Middle East balance of power.

Jerusalem dispatches said the atmosphere in Israel resembled that of the days just before the Sinai invasion when a swift Israeli drive captured much of the Soviet equipment turned over to Egypt in the 1955 Czech arms deal.

A series of new incidents along the border, the Gaza Strip, led to speculation that Cairo might be planning new actions to force Israel to attack.

A double mine explosion Tuesday killed one member of a UN Emergency Force patrol and seriously wounded four others. Earlier, UNEF troops shot and killed two Arabs trying to cross the border into Israel.

VICTIMS YUGOSLAVS

Yugoslav troops were the victims, and UNEF officers said it appeared that some mines had been laid deliberately to harm UNEF troops. Two Indian soldiers were killed in a mine explosion earlier this year.

Relations between Egypt and Jordan steadily deteriorated, and there were indications relations might worsen between Jordan and Syria, Egypt's chief partner in the Arab neutralist camp.

Jordan recalled its charge d'affaire from Damascus Tuesday and there was no indication today in Amman that he would be replaced.

Damascus reports indicated Egypt and Syria growing closer together. One newspaper said Egypt's forthcoming parliament would vote on a draft resolution proposing federation between Syria and Egypt.

Jordan, meanwhile, postponed for another three months the reconvening of its parliament. A four-hour cabinet session headed by King Hussein also decided to set up additional military courts to speed the trials of persons who plotted against the throne.

The parliament has been inactive since Hussein broke a plot to seize his government. There had been speculation he would dissolve it and postpone elections for at least two years while he purged politics of subversive elements.

STILL NEUTRAL

Foreign Minister Samir Rifai told newsmen Jordan still would maintain positive neutrality, but he also complained that only Saudi Arabia had come through with promised economic aid. Syria and Egypt are still "vague," he said.

ENRICHED

Defeat at the polls June 10 brought no financial loss to federal Works Minister Robert H. Winters. From his cabinet post at $27,000 a year he goes to head Canadian operations of huge British corporation Rio Tinto Mining Company at $60,000 a year.

Speculation Busy On New Cabinet

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—John Diefenbaker today continued conferences with prospective cabinet ministers as he worked out the makeup of a Progressive Conservative government to be sworn in Friday.

The party leader spent much of the morning in meetings and was to resume them later in the day after a quick automobile trip to Perth, Ont., for the funeral of Dr. W. G. Blair, Conservative member for Lanark who died Sunday.

Mr. Diefenbaker met Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, member for Esquimalt-Saanich; Gordon Churchill of Winnipeg South Centre; Davie Fulton of Kamloops; and George Nowlan of Digby-Annapolis-Kings.

PROBABLE POSTS

Gen. Pearkes is expected to be his defence minister. Mr. Nowlan is probable trade or transport minister. Mr. Fulton, who arrived by plane today from British Columbia, may be minister of justice or possibly speaker of the Commons.

A portfolio is planned for Mr. Churchill, one of Mr. Diefenbaker's chief campaign strategists, but there has been no information on what will be allocated to him.

Later today Mr. Diefenbaker was to meet Howard Green of Vancouver-Quadra, flying here from Vancouver.

Mr. Diefenbaker, to present a cabinet nucleus to be sworn in by Governor-General Massey Friday, flies to London Monday for the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference, starting June 26. He said today he will be back in Canada Saturday, July 6.

Before leaving for Dr. Blair's funeral, Mr. Diefenbaker met briefly with another series of cabinet prospects. Most of the meetings consisted for the moment merely of a handshake and a hello before the whole group departed for Perth.

Among those who met him were Douglas Harkness, Calgary North, who will have a portfolio; and A. J. Brooks, Royal, N.B., likely veterans minister.

The member who will be Canada's first woman federal cabinet minister — Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, Hamilton West—was among those going to Perth. She is ticketed for either the labor or the health and welfare portfolio, according to informants.

Other prospective cabinet ministers meeting the leader were John Charlton, Brant-Haldimand, Ont., probable agriculture minister; W. J. Browne, St. John's West, who will almost certainly represent Newfoundland in the cabinet, possibly as fisheries minister.

QUEBECER CALLED IN

Another who conferred with Mr. Diefenbaker today was J. Wilfrid Dufresne, one of four Quebec Conseratives in the last Parliament. He was defeated in Quebec West on June 10.

There is speculation that he is being offered a portfolio, particularly since Mr. Diefenbaker—who needs about six Quebec ministers—has only two members with parliamentary experience among the eight returned in the general election.

Britain Blasts Final H-Test

LONDON (UP) — Britain exploded its third and last H-bomb at the Christmas Island testing ground today.

A ministry of supply announcement said "this third explosion completes this series of tests."

The announcement gave no details but the fact that no more tests are planned was interpreted as indicating Britain has now perfected its thermonuclear weapons.

3 CABINET MINISTERS FOR B.C. SAYS GREEN

VANCOUVER (CP)—Howard Green, Progressive Conservative member for Vancouver Quadra, said Tuesday British Columbia will have three ministers in the cabinet of Prime Minister-designate Diefenbaker.

"It looks like John is doing quite a thing, appointing three B.C. ministers," Mr. Green remarked to reporters just before he boarded an Ottawa-bound airplane.

He flew at the telephone summons of Mr. Diefenbaker, who also sent for Davie Fulton, Kamloops, and Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, MP for Esquimalt-Saanich.

Makeup of the cabinet is expected to be announced Friday. Asked if he expected to be a member Mr. Green said: "I expect I will."

He suggested that he might be named minister of transport.

317 Torture Cases Listed By Makarios

ATHENS (Reuters) — Archbishop Makarios claimed at a press conference here today to have a list of 317 cases of "torture" inflicted by British security and military authorities in Cyprus to obtain confessions.

The Greek Cypriot leader produced copies of handwritten statements which he said had been made by victims.

The archbishop asserted that no measures were taken against those responsible when such "inhuman atrocities" were reported to the British governor of Cyprus, Sir John Harding.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Give us, O God, eyes that can see and ears that can hear so that we may see in all nature evidences of Thy love and hear everywhere Thy voice speaking to us. Make us sensitive to the influence of Thy Spirit, and may we let our light so shine before men that they may see our good works and glorify, not us, but our Father who is in heaven. Amen.

If th' party wuz in th' grocery bizness 'stead o' th' guv'mint bizness, w'd Mr. St. L. be a loss leader?

Symphony Cuts Deficit; Hikes Attendance

Encouraging Report Given Annual Meeting Of Society; Municipal Councils Under Fire

A deficit reduced by more than half the 1956-57 figure—and an increase in attendance of 15 per cent—were among encouraging facts brought to light at the annual meeting of Victoria Symphony Society held Tuesday night in Spencerhouse.

President Jack Barraclough was in the chair and did some plain speaking during the evening.

Regarding the new foundation fund, he told the meeting that its chairman, Hon. R. W. Mayhew, hopes to have his goal of $1,000,000 in view within 10 years. Mr. Mayhew expects to accomplish this mainly through bequests and as permanent memorials.

At no time, however, would more than half the symphony's deficit be covered out of this fund, the balance being regarded as a civic and community responsibility.

Other applications of the foundation fund are visualized as provision of scholarships and assistance to musical organizations generally within the Greater Victoria area.

Concerning culturally lethargic municipal councils, Mr. Barraclough made some scathing remarks, while commenting that city council had shown its heart to be in the right place when it made the $2,500 grant last year.

Saanich council was the speaker's particular target.

Saanich and Esquimalt have rejected grants for this year. Victoria and Oak Bay are at present considering the matter.

"We ought to be ashamed, particularly of Saanich," said Mr. Barraclough. "First they hid behind the skirts of the legal profession and then, when the Municipal Act was changed, made their decision against the symphony grant for one reason—because the reeve recommended it."

"They seem to have no more difficulty in turning down a $500 courtesy grant than they do in making a $250,000 mistake in a sewerage program."

Special Appeal Raised Record Sum

It was revealed that a special appeal by the society last February had raised a record amount of about $24,000, of which $7,000 could be applied to next season's financing.

During the past season, the women's committee had raised $5,000 of which $1,500 is still on hand. From the Koerner Foundation, a grant of $2,000 had been recived.

Deficit on April 30 was $3,321—to be made up by guarantors—compared to $7,056 at the end of last season, according to the report of treasurer, K. R. Genn.

Average attendance at each pair of concerts during the past season was 1,814, compared to 1,576 last year.

"It may seem that we are getting to the point where we need no further support," Mr. Barraclough commented. "What these figures actually mean is that we not only deserve, but should demand more support from civic leaders."

Presentation of three outdoor concerts this summer may be announced at a later date. Negotiations are now under way for a Butchart Gardens series in July and it is also hoped to find sponsorship for a free concert from the steps of the legislative buildings.

Elections resulted in Jack Barraclough, P. E. George, Mrs. Jack Gillespie, W. Gilmour, J. Genge, Dr. Mellis Mair, Tony Lort, Dal Hawkshaw, John Wade and A. H. Fitzgerald being named for two-year terms on the board of directors. One-year terms will be served by Don E. Smith, Walter Stenner and Lieut.-Cmdr. Ian MacDonald.

This board will meet shortly to elect officers for the 1957-58 season.

Council Grants To Aid Culture Ready in August

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada Council grants to aid Canadian cultural pursuits likely will be announced late in August, council chairman Brooke Claxton said in an interview today.

A program of aid was mapped out at an executive meeting Tuesday and will be submitted for approval of the 21-member council to meet here August 19 and 20.

"Very good progress is being made in our organization and in developing a program," Mr. Claxton said. "We also had a very satisfactory meeting with the learned societies which met here in the last two weeks."

The grants are to be paid out of earnings from the council's $50,000,000 endowment fund. Some officials have estimated the earnings may total about $1,500,000 in the current fiscal year.

Victoria Girl On European Tour With Elgar Choir

A 14-year-old Victoria girl, Dianne Matthews, is among 33 young girl members of Vancouver's Elgar Choir which left the mainland city Tuesday night for its seventh United Kingdom and European tour. Dianne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Matthews, Crescent Road.

Charles E. Findlater, prominent Vancouver musician, who founded the choir in 1924, will conduct both choir and tour. Stop-overs will be made in Jasper and Ottawa before the group sails on the Saxonia June 28. They will return to Vancouver September 15.

Dianne, who came to Victoria with her parents nearly a year ago, won a silver medal from the Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto, last year and received warm praises from the vocal adjudicator at the recent Victoria Musical Festival.

Doctors Want Assurance Of Bargaining Rights

By DON HANRIGHT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—Canadian doctors want assurance of bargaining rights for their own professional organization before any dispute over fees develops with government or private health-plan agencies.

Acceptance of this "broad general principle" by the 180-member parliament of the Canadian Medical Association was described officially as a precautionary step and spokesmen were quick to stress that the CMA does not want to become associated loosely with trade unionism.

Indications were that the association adopted the principle to avert any possible doctor-government stalemate in case a national health plan evolves in Canada.

TERMS OF RESOLUTION

The resolution read:

"No doctor or group of doctors should enter into an agreement respecting remuneration for professional services with any non-governmental, semi-governmental or governmental body, without prior assurance of a recognized system for arbitration and negotiation of issues such as remuneration and terms of service.

One of the first applications of this CMA principle may come in connection with establishment of regulations governing diagnostic services to be included in the forthcoming national hospital insurance scheme.

In this program, regulations will be set up by the provinces and, in the case of diagnostic services, probably would affect pathologists and radiologists providing these services.

Dr. Thomson said it is "theoretically possible" that the CMA bargaining principle could be applied in any case of dispute in one or more provinces. However, it also would be applicable to any private firm underwriting medical insurance for a group of, say, railway employees.

In a second major step, the general council also decided to ask the federal government to put tranquillizer drugs on the prescription list.

Explaining this action, Dr. K. J. R. Wightman of Toronto said there already are 40 or 50 of these drugs on the market in Canada and soon the number will reach 100 or more.

They are out-selling aspirin in the United States, Dr. Wightman said, and in Canada the sales "indicates far greater use of them than is necessary in the interests of national health."

He said that in some persons these tranquillizers have the effect of making them "slap-happy and uninhibited," or in others result simply in "less tension." Addiction to these drugs was possible over a period of years.

NOW SOLD FREELY

In most provinces the tranquillizers now are sold openly in drugstores, while in other provinces they have been made subject the physicians' prescriptions. The CMA wants them on a prescription list right across Canada.

In other action, the CMA established a committee to review the effects of radiation—not only thermo-nuclear in origin, but also from X-rays in dental and hospital laboratories—and attempt to make definite recommendations on the problem.

Premier Manning of Alberta told the convention he is "unalterably opposed to state medicine in any form in the field of medical science."

BONN (Reuters) — West Germany is ready to follow the example of Britain in relaxing the trade embargo against Communist China, a foreign ministry spokesman said Tuesday.

MORE HYPOTHESES THAN FACTS IN PSYCHIATRY SAYS CRITIC

VANCOUVER (CP)—A University of British Columbia scientist says the field of psychiatry "suffers from a surfeit of hypotheses and a famine of facts."

Dr. William C. Gibson, Victoria, head of the UBC research department, led a seminar of 20 U.S., British and Canadian scientific researchers, meeting here for five days to discuss the biochemical nature of mental diseases.

Dr. Gibson said Tuesday recent studies of mental disease, particularly schizophrenia, have been fruitful.

"But," he added, "they have been no more than that."

Among the most recent advances, he said, is the finding of chemicals in body secretions and blood configurations in finger nails which can be associated with poor mental health.

UN CORRESPONDENCE

By CHARLES LYNCH

World's Eyes on Canada

NEW YORK—Other countries, inasmuch as they take any interest at all in Canadian domestic politics, were astonished at the election tidings from Canada Monday night. Canada's emergence as a middle power in world affairs has been most pronounced in the years since 1935—that is, the world at large has become conscious of Canada with a Liberal government at the helm.

This includes Canada's large-scale participation in the Second World War, which has been the basis of a good deal of Canada's global influence. It includes her participation in the formation and the subsequent history of the United Nations. It includes the periods of enormous change in the structure of the British Commonwealth, and Canada's key position in that group of nations.

Lynch

It includes the very concept of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the Colombo Plan—in fact, every world agency in which Canada plays a part. In all of these, the men Canada has sent abroad have been men who were members of, or appointed by, a Liberal government.

The Canadians of whom the world has been most aware in these years of change have been only three in number—William Lyon Mackenzie King, Louis St. Laurent, and Lester B. Pearson. Of these, the man best known in other countries is perhaps Mr. Pearson. He is the most travelled of the three, he has served in the United Kingdom and the United States, he has been resident of the United Nations General Assembly, and is perhaps, outside of Mr. Dag Hammarskjold, the best-known man in the councils of the United Nations. To many people at the UN, what has happened to the government of which Mr. Pearson has been so long a member seems nothing short of incredible, despite his own personal success at the polls.

Other countries, and this includes particularly the United States, have always taken Canadian political stability for granted. The nation became known as the most stable of democracies—the place where a single party had been in power for 22 years, and seemed likely to go on forever. The fact that there were opposition parties was scarcely known, and what little publicity Mr. John Diefenbaker has had abroad has been in connection with his election campaign. The leader of the Progressive Conservative Party remained, at least until Monday night, a virtual unknown outside the borders of Canada.

Now, for the first time in the last two decades, the world will be taking a long second look at Canadian internal affairs, and all the nations in association with Canada, as well as those not aligned with her, will be following closely to see what the election result will mean in terms of Canadian external policy.

Many of the answers must await the clarification of the internal position, and the composition of whatever government the country is to have as a result of the voting.

Mr. St. Laurent was a respected figure abroad—in particular, he was a close friend of Mr. Nehru of India. It was St. Laurent's concept, concurred in and furthered by Mr. Pearson, that the Commonwealth could only endure if the Asian members were given the prominence that their population and geographical position demanded. It was the Liberal government's policy that decided Canada's role in the Suez crisis of last November, when Canada did not, as Australia and New Zealand did, stand at Britain's side. Instead, she chose a position between that of the old Commonwealth nations and the new.

The Suez question was not a burning issue in the campaign, but all of the opposition parties brought it up, and Mr. Diefenbaker in particular said again and again that Canada's position was at Britain's side. Mr. Low of the Social Credit Party said the same thing even more forcefully.

The world will want to know who will speak for Canada now?

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Mrs. Dylan Thomas Writes

LONDON—The book they're talking about now is Leftover Life to Kill, by Caitlin Thomas. She is widow of Welsh poet Dylan Thomas, who died young and suddenly a couple of years ago. She was furious at a book written in the U.S. called Dylan Thomas in America which painted him as a lecherous drunkard.

Leftover Life to Kill was intended as her reply to that book and it was expected that it would be a defence of her husband. In fact, it does nothing to refute the accusations of sousing bawdiness in the American book; it merely comes forward with more details, many of them much more intimate because of their husband-wife relationship.

Reyburn

* * *

It would of course be foolish to try to whitewash Dylan Thomas. He was such a noticeable figure in so many hectic parties that too many people knew the facts. He used to use one of our local pubs (the Prince of Wales on Queen's Grove, just below Swiss Cottage), so I had ample opportunity to see him in action.

I never remember seeing him attired in anything but open-necked shirt gaping at the waistline where it had budged out from the top of his baggy trousers, worn half-mast on his paunch. His hair showed no signs of ever having had a conscientious combining and he was never without a tankard of beer in his hand which he waved around sloppily to emphasize something he was saying.

And the big pint beer mug got lots of waving around because he seldom stopped talking, with the bemused sort of wordiness of a person loaded to the gills. At a friend's house during several visits I paid there in the course of three weeks Dylan Thomas was to be seen on the living room couch in the process of fighting his way out of and relapsing back into a monumental binge which my friend was trying to shepherd him through.

This brings up the main point about Dylan Thomas and the aspect of his life that has set people arguing about his widow's book. Was it worth bothering with a man such as this, whose behavior branded him in the eyes of the average person as the sort of troublesome drunk that would be asked to leave any party that was even vaguely respectable? His staunch defenders, plus those who were merely prepared to put up with him, used the phrase which made allowances for everything—"He can write."

* * *

With the public his writing fame rests mainly on Under Milk Wood, heard first on radio, recently a London stage success and heading your way soon. This and some bits of poetry and poetic prose writings form not much of a basis on which to build a Dylan Thomas legend, say those who are against this current glorifying of him.

With other men also far from angelic—such as Balzac, Oscar Wilde and Van Gogh—at least it can be said of them that each left an important body of work behind him. Why make a cult of an unpleasant beer souse who only occasionally got down to stringing together some well-turned phrases?

Foot and Mouth Disease Menaces Channel Islands

JERSEY, England (Reuters)—Jersey farmers are battling an outbreak of foot and mouth disease which is threatening the Channel Islands' 11,000-strong herd of the most valuable cattle in the world.

Already 30 animals worth thousands of dollars have had to be destroyed since the outbreak started a month ago.

Persons arriving at the airport are being made to step on mats impregnated with powerful disinfectant. No pets are allowed to be taken to the island. Farmers may shoot on sight cats or dogs straying onto their land.

Korean Atomic Expert Vanishes

SEOUL (Reuters)—The South Korean National Assembly has ordered a committee to investigate the disappearance of a Korean army officer who received advanced training on atomic and guided missile warfare in the United States. The officer, Lt.-Col. Kim Hai Shik, disappeared May 30. Army sources said another lieutenant-colonel was also missing since that date and was believed to have crossed the armistice line into Communist North Korea.

Strike Holds Up Big French Ship

PARIS (AP) — The French liner Liberte was forced to delay its scheduled departure for New York today because of a wage strike by maritime engineers and mechanics of the Communist-dominated General Workers' Union.

Shipping officials expressed concern that the delay would throw trans-Atlantic passenger traffic into confusion in the midst of one of the heaviest tourist seasons in years.

Passengers scheduled to leave Le Havre for New York aboard the Liberte switched to the liners United States and Queen Mary.

The most serious difficulty posed by the continuing strike was on the other side of the Atlantic where hundreds of passengers already have booked eastbound passage aboard the Liberte.

BRICKS MORE DANGER

A-Bomb Fallout Lesser Hazard

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's top defence scientist says the risk from radioactive fallout is so small that it is much less than that involved in moving from a wooden into a brick house.

Dr. A. H. Zimmerman, chairman of the defence research board, says that moving from a frame house into one of brick or cement blocks increases the amount of natural radiation received by the individual by .025 roentgens a year.

This is almost precisely the same amount, he adds, as the estimated fallout hazard over a 30-year period from nuclear test explosions, assuming that the tests will be continued at the same rate as in the past.

In other words, says Dr. Zimmerman, living in a brick house is 30 times more risky, as far as radioactivity is concerned, than world-wide radioactive fallout from nuclear weapons tests.

In light of recent conflicting statements by world scientists on the possible effects of radioactivity from nuclear tests, The Canadian Press requested an interview with Dr. Zimmerman on the subject.

Dr. Zimmerman stressed in the promptly-granted interview that he was not taking sides. He merely wished to present some figures gathered by the board's "radiation panel" in order to bring about a better sense of proportion in the public mind of the degree of risk involved.

The question was: "How much real danger is there?" In reply, Dr. Zimmerman said he feels that a comparison with natural radiation hazards puts fallout hazards in better perspective and indicated in fact, that the risk is small.

Here are some yardstick figures:

A lethal dose of radioactivity, over the whole body, is calculated to be between 400 and 600 roentgens. Of a given number of persons exposed to such a dose, it is estimated that half would die in 30 days.

Natural Radioactivity Much Larger

The dose from nuclear weapons tests, taking into account all "shots" so far and future ones made at the current rate, is calculated at only .026 roentgens throughout a period of 30 years. That would be .001 roentgens a year.

The natural dose—from rocks, space and so on—is calculated at .01 roentgens a year. Radioactivity from minerals in bricks or cement blocks in a house is calculated at .025 roentgens a year—that is, 30 times greater than from the dose caused by nuclear tests.

Again, because of cosmic rays, the dose at 4,500 feet altitude—for instance, at some points in the Rockies—is .025 roentgens a year greater than at sea level. In other words, if you live in a brick house high in the Rockies you are exposed to 60 times more radioactivity than from nuclear tests, though the total dose is still very small.

A radioactive dose to cause sterility—and aimed directly at the reproductive organs — is reckoned at 500 roentgens for men and 300 roentgens for women.

If nuclear tests continue at their present rate, the amount of accumulated radioactivity would be four times the present level by 1983 and six times the current level by 2011. That is, by 1983, it would still be only 0.1 roentgens.

Dr. Zimmerman said there is no clinical evidence for a so-called threshold dose of strontium -90 which, in sufficient quantity, can cause cancer of the bones.

Dr. Zimmerman indicated he considers the genetic hazard is low—as low perhaps as the hazard from radioactive fallout to present generations. He added, however, that the genetic effect of radioactivity is accumulative.

Dr. Zimmerman said he personally believes the amount of radioactivity from testing will decrease as "cleaner" weapons are developed.

Flower Show Promises Surprises

Gardeners and farmers are likely to be more aware of weather than other groups of citizens with the probable exception of aviators and meteorologists.

This year our pet peeve is that the wonderful weather has brought along a host of late summer flowers by mid-June, and "blown" the choicest of the early flush of roses.

Hilda

These garden catastrophes are more noticeable when a flower show is pending, as on Friday and Saturday of this week at the Crystal Garden.

With 36 of the 110 competitive classes devoted to roses, the Victoria Horticultural Society shows its awareness that there are few gardens which do not have at least a half dozen specimen rose plants.

The great diversity of garden climates in the Victoria area is the factor which enables the annual flower shows to be a success in spite of an early or late season. Some areas always come up with the prize blooms.

This year, apart from the sweet pea classes and other specialty flowers, we are likely to see a wide range of later summer flowers make their appearance in the artistic arrangement classes.

It will also be interesting to see what turns up in the fruit and vegetable section. Some areas have been slow with vegetables and ahead in flowers.

The junior sections in any show should be better filled than formerly. This, of course, will depend primarily on the interest of the parents.

To the many new gardeners in and around Victoria we would like to say "see the flower show—it will help you to see what can be grown, and to select what appeals to you for your own garden."

MARKET SUMMARIES

Copper Shares Drop After Cut in Price

With base metals leading the index declines the Toronto stock market continued its downward trend today.

The mining list was led lower by coppers, which began to fall following a 2⅝ decrease in the price of copper. Hudson Bay was off 1½ points to 66 and International Nickel dipped 1⅜ points to 101⅝. Lower-price copper losses ranged to 15 cents but were generally 10 cents or less.

The market at New York declined quietly. Among key stocks the losses ranged from fractions to around two points or so, but a fair sprinkling of gainers remained.

AT TORONTO McIntyre led golds lower with a two-point loss at 108. Uraniums were mixed to lower in narrow-range trading.

Refining oils were the leading industrial losers. Imperial lost a point at 57¼, while other major stocks were down fractions. Page-Hersey Tubes lost two points at 132½ and Algoma Steel was off 1½ to 150.

Security featured western oils with a 50-cent gain at $5.80. Canadian Atlantic and Medallion were each ahead 25 cents. Pacific Pete gained ⅝ to 31⅞. Losses were narrow but there were almost as many as gains.

AT NEW YORK closing Canadian issues were McIntyre, off 2¼; International Nickel, a big copper producer, 2⅛; Hudson Bay Mining, 1½, and Walker-Gooderham, ¾. Aluminium Ltd., Canadian Pacific and Distillers-Seagrams lost ⅛ each. Dome Mines was among the few gainers, moving ahead ⅛.

Rising Canadian stocks on the American Exchange included Brazilian Traction and Richwell Petroleum, ahead ¼ each. Dropping off ⅜ were Fargo Oil and Preston East Dome.

AT MONTREAL prices sagged today in moderate afternoon trading on the stock exchange.

Most losses were narrow, but some issues dropped more than a point. Hudson Bay was the afternoon's big loser with a drop of 3¼ at 66.

AT LONDON the stock market failed to derive much benefit from the start of the new account and no decided trend developed today.

Gilt-edged securities eased but there was a tendency later to recover.

Steel shares were firm. Dollar stocks reflected Tuesday's decline on Wall Street. South African gold shares were firm. Oils went ahead and showed several good improvements.

AT VANVOUVER a light market saw prices drop. Futurity moved 7,000 at 82. Cowichan Copper sold 5,000 at $1.15. Vantor traded 5,800 at $2.52.

Canadian Market Eyed by British Oil Gear Firms

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British petroleum equipment mission winds up its cross-Canada tour today "quite astounded by the goodwill and interest displayed by every oil company and the governments throughout the tour.

A spokesman for the 12-member mission said at a press conference Tuesday manufacturers of petroleum equipment in the United Kingdom "now feel they are in a position to crack the Canadian market."

J. M. Storoy, leader of the mission, said British manufacturers have been getting only three per cent of the Canadian money being spent on petrochemical equipment.

"We're keen on getting more of your 105-cent dollars," he said.

Last year the 450 companies represented on the council of British manufacturers of petroleum equipment had a business volume equivalent to $430,000,000 of which $364,000,000 went to export, "but very little went to Canada."

Wheat Exports Drop Sharply

OTTAWA (BUP) — Canadian wheat exports in the first week of June amounted to 5.7 million bushels, down sharply from the 9.8 million shipped abroad in the same week last year, the bureau of statistics said today.

Shipments since the beginning of the crop year last Aug. 1 were 184.4 million bushels, compared with 203 million in the same period a year ago.

General Softening Noted For Canadian Exports

OTTAWA (CP)—A softening in demand in some markets for wheat and other Canadian exports occurred in the first three months of 1957, the bureau of statistics said today.

The bureau also reported a "moderating" in the rate of increase for some imports in the period although many imports remained at record levels.

The bureau's views were contained in a report on Canada's balance of international payments during the first three months of 1957. The report showed that a greater increase in payments to other countries for goods and services than in receipts led to a widening of the current account deficit in the three months.

The deficit for the quarter totaled $409,000,000, compared with $363,000,000 in the first quarter of 1956. The figure for the period is exceeded only by a deficit of $435,000,000 in the second quarter of last year.

Canadian demand for industrial machinery and building and engineering materials still was providing the backbone of the recent extraordinary import demand.

A major factor contributing to the size of the deficit was an imbalance in merchandise trade. A deficit of $224,000,000 on merchandise transactions was some $33,000,000 above the deficit in the same quarter last year.

Declares Dividend

TORONTO (CP)—Sheraton Corp. of America has declared a stock dividend of two per cent payable Aug. 1, to shareholders of record July 3. Cash will be paid in lieu of fractional shares based on the closing price July 3, 1957.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Reports that the U.S. tariff commission had recommended a cut in rye imports brought liberal rye selling today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Later, however, offerings showed a tendency to dry up and there were some rallies from the low points.

Moderate activity occurred in trading in other grains with some export orders for flax. There was some buying of barley by exporters and shippers with reports of parcel lots going to the United Kingdom.

Oats trading was mainly domestic. Prices were lower.

Overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat included: Poland, 370,000 bushels; Belgium, 150,000; United Kingdom, 85,000; The Netherlands, 30,000, and Germany, 20,000.

Lakehead prices for class two, IWA, and domestic wheat were all unchanged from Tuesday.

CHICAGO (AP) — Short covering and strong advances in rye prices aided a rally in grain futures today on the board of trade.

Wheat, which had been lower early on hedge selling, advanced on short covering.

Rye featured the market with gains of as much as five cents at times. The buying was influenced by word that the U.S. tariff commission has recommenced an import quota of 95,200,000 pounds for rye, rye flour and rye meal for each of the two years beginning July 1.

Pacific Petroleums Brings in B.C. Well

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (CP) — Pacific Petroleums Ltd. today announced discovery of oil in its Pacific Charlie Lake 93 well, one mile east of here.

The company said the oil was obtained on a drill stem test of cretaceous sand between 3,320 and 3,340 feet. The test brought gas to the surface in three minutes and the oil flow was estimated at 17 barrels an hour, it said.

The firm's statement said 800 feet of oil and 100 feet of gas-cut and oil-cut mud was recovered when the pipe was pulled.

JUDY BOOTS

(Barking for Monte Roberts)

Well a lot of people keep asking the Old Man in our house how he is getting along since we have a Small Cat in our house in addition to a Large Dog which the latter is me namely Judy Boots Streak the friend of all the people.

And the Old Man in our house seems hard put to it to find out how to answer people who ask him how he is getting along with a Small Cat and also a Large Dog so I guess I will have to answer the question for him and the answer is he is getting along okay but not nearly so okay as the Small Cat and the Large Dog.

For instance there was Sunday morning which it was just an ordinary Sunday morning when the Old Man wanted to sleep in but I wanted to go for my Sunday morning walk so naturally we went for my Sunday morning walk.

And when we came back why the Old Man wanted to go back to bed but Small Cat and I we wanted our breakfast so naturally Small Cat and I had our breakfast which was cooked by hand by the Old Man. Naturally.

So then I went outside for a small romp in the sunshine and the Old Man started to clean up around the kitchen sink which Small Cat helped him do by prowling around on the window sill above the sink and why shouldn't she, what are Small Cats for if it is not to prowl around on window sills and help Old Men clean up the sink?

And when I was outside a friend of mine came to visit me namely a cocker spaniel by trade a small type of Large Dog but very lively and he challenged me to a game of Pull the Stick which this is a sort of tug of war with a stick as anyone who is owned by a dog knows very well.

Naturally the Cocker Spaniel by trade and I did a considerable amount of growling snarling snapping and general carrying on all in the spirit of good clean fun but what do you think Small Cat did?

Small Cat thought she was witnessing a dog fight little does she know what a real dog fight is like and Small Cat became very excited and ran up the curtain by the window over the kitchen sink but her claws are not very big yet so she slipped and landed on the Old Man's head.

Which of course is nothing unusual but then Small Cat took off from the Old Man's head and sprang down to the sink and that was okay too except what she landed on was nothing but a piece of soap in the soap dish and the soap went one way and hit the Old Man in the eye and the soap dish went another way and hit the Old Man on the chin and Small Cat went another way and landed in a saucepan which happened to be filled with soapy water also a reasonable amount of grease and the soapy water and the grease splashed on the Old Man and Small Cat bounced out of the saucepan up unto the Old Man's shoulder and began to clean herself as Small Cats do not like soapy water or so I am told.

So I guess you can see why the Old Man is hard put to it to find an answer when people ask him how he is getting along since Small Cat came to live at our house but personally I think it is wonderful I haven't had so many laughs since Rin Tin Tin was a pup.

'ART' CRUMBLES WITH MACHINE AGE

Sentiment is blown to dust by giant sander when school desks are refinished at school board maintenance plant. George Taylor guides desk in jig as revolving belt erases initials carved by doodling pupils. Some of names would embarrass today's citizens — long married to wrong sets of initials.

CARVED MESSAGES TURNED TO DUST

Clean Sweep of School Desks Made by New Sanding Machine

By PETE LOUDON

A romance between Sharron and Ron was blasted to dust today—sawdust.

The names were engraved and entwined by a heart in the top of a desk from Esquimalt High School. Close by was another soulful declaration, "SOS—I'm dying of French."

The desks were being resurfaced at Greater Victoria School Board's new maintenance building on Gorge Road. It's one of the unending tasks that go with running a multi-million dollar school system.

The $187,500 building has all the appearances of a modern factory. It includes a well-equipped carpenter shop, electrical shop, plumbing shop, sheet metal shop, paint shop, glazier's shop and a shop for a locksmith and for repair of precision instruments.

About 55 men make the building their headquarters. They represent all these trades and laborers and gardeners as well. They have just moved in after years in several cramped and crowded shanties.

Everything which can lend to economy of operation, safety, efficiency and morale of the staff is combined in the building.

Entering the plant area a visitor passes spacious lumber storage units. Blacktop driveways are being laid and a parking bay provided. There are wide loading ramps for supply trucks.

A bright office gives access to the shops. Flooring is of two-inch fir decking, glowing with varnish. A non-skid painted apron surrounds each machine.

Plant boss Charles Thom and school buildings and grounds supervisor R. Hamilton Smith feel the plant adds a new dignity to the maintenance trades, sets a pattern for other major employers to emulate.

To get back to the desks. The key machine for refinishing them is a sanding jig built by the department a few years ago at a cost of $100. Manufactured jigs cost $900.

George Taylor, who operates the sander, says it enables complete sanding without dismantling. He has seen desks 25 to 40 years old come in.

Many of them bear initials carved in bygone years by some of Victoria's most distinguished citizens.

Recent finds were names of hockey great Lynn Patrick and basketballer Hank Rowe.

A sidelight on today's juvenile behaviour patterns—desks are not defaced as much today as in years gone by.

It is also noted that where all the desks in a room are renewed, carving of initials is slow to start. Where there are old scarred desks and new ones in the same room, the kids tend to emulate the former owners of the mutilated desks.

Chambers Seek Power Ministry

Duncan-Cowichan Motion Supported

By HUMPHRY DAVY

SOOKE—The B.C. government will be urged by the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island to create a ministry for power resources and the development and distribution of electric power.

The ACCVI, at its annual convention here today, unanimously endorsed a resolution for a power portfolio, submitt 1 by Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce. (See also page 33).

It was suggested by Joe Garner of Duncan that power distribution is becoming a major issue in the province, and should be dealt with by a separat. ministry.

The demands for power will exceed electric power output in a few years, he said.

It was evident at the meeting that some delegates were dissatisfied with power distribution on Vancouver Island. Earlier, the ACCVI refused to endorse a Duncan-Cowichan chamber resolution asking the provincial government to institute a definite power policy for B.C.

George Gudbranson of Tofino requested the meeting to ask the government to empower the B.C. Power Commission to develop the proposed Mica Creek project. He said if the commission was allowed to develop this project it would mean lower electrical power rates for Vancouver Island.

UNDER REVIEW

Tom Hargreaves, retiring ACCVI president and chairman, said the idea advanced by the Tofino chamber now is under review by the B.C. Chamber of Commerce.

At the same time the Sayward chamber requested that the B.C. Power Commission provide electricity to the northern Island area.

Among resolutions passed were those asking for posting of an RCMP officer at the Legislative Buildings at all times during the tourist season, improvement of the harbor facilities at Tofino, retention of all existing and future government departments in Victoria, and permission for shops to stay open all day Wednesday and to 9 p.m. Friday.

HYDRO TOUR

The two-day convention at Sooke wound up today with a tour of the B.C. Electric hydro-electric installation at Jordan River, and the West Coast Road beyond Jordan River.

Conway Parrott, Victoria, was elected ACCVI president for the coming year. He succeeds Tom Hargreaves of Campbell River.

Other officers elected were Jack Evans, Nanaimo, vice-president, and Arnold Webb, Victoria, secretary-manager.

WEDNESDAY OPENING DUE SOON

This is the last Wednesday but one on which Victoria stores will be closed in the afternoon.

Starting Wednesday, July 3, (two weeks from today) stores will be open all afternoon through the months of July and August.

Employees' hours will be staggered so that they will work the same hours as before, and the larger stores are engaging extra staff to permit all-day Wednesday opening.

The larger stores already employ their staff on a five-day week basis.

Police Check Disappearance Of Salesman

Foul Play Theory Investigated

City detectives are investigating the disappearance Monday of a 35-year-old brush salesman who may have met with foul play for the estimated $200 he carried.

Mrs. Arthur Yurkowski, Suite 3, 2624 Quadra, last saw her husband at 1 p.m. Monday and reported him missing at 1.20 a.m. Tuesday.

About two hours earlier she had found his car parked on Kings between Rose and Douglas. His sales records, sample case and car appeared to be in order.

Fuller Brush Co., for which Mr. Yurkowski is a salesman, said he was to remit an invoice and about $200 to Vancouver headquarters Monday.

The missing man was described as dependable and of good habits and neither his wife nor employers could suggest any reason for him to vanish.

Mrs. Yurkowski said her husband had not felt well Monday and had an appointment to see his doctor at 4 p.m. He did not keep the appointment.

The man was described as being about 145 pounds, six-feet-one, with dark hair, grey-blue eyes and wearing a light blue shirt with grey slacks and a tweed sports coat.

Two Proposals For Hatcheries At Beaver Lake

Two applications to lease or buy old filter beds adjoining Beaver Lake for conversion to commercial fish hatcheries were received at city hall today.

One applicant would charge for public fishing as well as raise trout for sale to local restaurants.

Separate applications were received from Thomas A. Fee and Charles Nelles.

Public works committee tabled both requests while all phases of the proposal are investigated.

Mr. Fee pointed out the old filter beds, which have not been used since Victoria ceased drawing water from the lake, are a liability to the city and could cause accidents because they are not fenced.

FIX UP LAND

They resemble two large cement-walled swimming pools with sand bottoms. Mr. Fee said he and his associates would fence them and provide a full-time caretaker and "fix up the land surrounding."

In commercial pools elsewhere, the public is furnished with tackle and bait. In some places a customer catches the trout, the operators fry it for him and he eats it on the spot. Mr. Fee would charge for public fishing.

Mr. Nelles said there would be no public fishing if he were given opportunity to develop a hatchery. His plan is a "fish farm."

GOING UP

This 14-foot delphinuim at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Lewis, 58 Government Street, may not be the biggest in the world, but it certainly is a leading contender. Young admirer is five-year-old Diane Abbott, a neighbor. (Times Photo)

CHURCH TOUR

Hawaiians' Reception 'Cool' Here

Sixty-two Hawaiian men and women from Honolulu got their first glimpse of Victoria today and found it "lovely but cold."

The visitors, all members of Congregational churches in Hawaii, stood and shivered on the steps of the Empress Hotel while waiting for the sightseeing coaches which took them to Butchart's Gardens and other points of interest.

"We left Honolulu only last Sunday night," said Rev. Paul Nagamo, who is in charge of the party, "and the change of temperature is somewhat abrupt."

The Hawaiians were startled by the sight of the huge silver-colored Kalakala steaming into the Inner Harbor from Port Angeles.

"What is it—a space ship?" asked one of the party.

The Hawaiians are en route to Mount Herman, Santa Cruz, for a religious conference from June 24 to 30.

"After that the party breaks up and we shall travel home via many different points in the United States and Canada," Mr. Negamo said.

Queen's Own Leave City For Summer

Main body of Second Battalion Queen's Own Rifles was scheduled to move out of Camp Gordon Head for the summer this afternoon headed for Camp Wainright, Alberta.

About 450 men were to be taken in buses to CPR docks to be ferried to Vancouver where they would board two special trains tonight.

Unlike past summers, they were to leave a rear party of 20 riflemen and a lieutenant to take charge of the camp here.

At the end of camp on Aug. 5 the men will take annual leave and then prepare to go overseas as a unit of Canada's contribution to NATO forces in Europe.

Child's Death Accidental

A six-man coroner's jury here today returned a verdict of "accidental death" in the fatality Saturday in which a 2½-year-old girl was killed by a Veteran Stages Ltd. bus in Belmont Park.

Evidence disclosed that Dorothy McDormand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald E. McDormand, 406 Monarch Crescent, Belmont Park, ran in front of the bus on Belmont Road, main thoroughfare of the navy housing development near Colwood, and was killed immediately.

The child was hit by a bus driven by Claude Cole, 47, 844 Goldstream Avenue, Langford.

Mr. Cole was visibly shaken at the inquest before Dr. E. C. Hart, and said he preferred not to testify.

Mrs. Orma Rudolphi, 1012 Goldstream, said that "The child ran in front of the bus, I hoped she would make it, and then I felt the bump."

The jury recommended provisions be made in the area for improved bus stops,

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Aldermen M. H. Mooney, J. Donald Smith and Hugh Ramsay of Victoria will go to Vancouver within the next month to inspect the vehicle testing station there.

Council is seeking special provincial legislation which would permit setting up a similar operation here. Last year, police commissioners Gordon Carter and William Hamilton made a similar inspection and later recommended setting up a testing station in Victoria.

Eric Norman Hand, Vancouver, was sentenced in city police court today to three months concurrent on five charges to which he pleaded guilty.

The jail term was imposed for failing to supply a wife and four children with necessities of life.

Other charges were careless driving, $35 or five days; driving while under suspension, $40 or five days; using another person's driver's licence, $25 or five days, and using an improper salesman's licence, $25 or five days.

Magistrate H. C. Hall said the days in default of payment could be served concurrently with the first sentence.

Centennial Plans To Committee Thursday Night

Greater Victoria Centennial Committee will meet in the city hall Thursday, at 8 p.m., to receive delegations submitting plans for centennial projects.

Construction of a fireproof wing for Victoria Art Gallery will be urged by a delegation of directors, and a brief will be presented on behalf of the gallery's 956 members by Major Cuthbert Holmes.

A delegation from the Kiwanis Village Society will urge construction of a villa on land adjoining Kiwanis Village which would provide accommodation for 74 widows and widowers living on pensions.

Cost of the project is estimated at $400,000.

Committee members are Ron Lochhead, Edward Mallek, Reginald Harris, Charles E. Craig and Glenn Hope.

"An appeal to the public for its opinion on the project brought 74 replies in favor and four against," Mr. Lochhead said.

Hotelkeepers Back Labor Stand For Change in Liquor Penalty

Support for a Victoria Labor Council brief urging changes in provincial liquor laws was given today by the president of the Hotel and Inkeepers' Society of B.C.

James Neely of the Douglas Hotel in Victoria, said the existing legislation is "unfair" to beer parlor waiters who are convicted of selling liquor to minors.

In a brief presented to Attorney-General Robert Bonner Tuesday, the labor council protested the "obvious injustice" in the case of a Victoria waiter who was recently fined $300 or three months' imprisonment for serving a minor.

"We submit that a minor who breaks the law intentionally by false pretence and deception receives a light penalty compared to that meted out to the waiter who breaks the law unintentionally, the victim of this deliberate deception," the brief said.

Mr. Neely said it is very difficult for a busy waiter to determine whether a young customer is telling the truth if he states that he is over 21.

"This is not the present government's fault," Mr. Neely said. "It is in the legislation and we feel that it will be rectified in time."

The labor council brief pointed out that a waiter has nothing to gain by serving a minor because he is paid by the hour and not by the number of customers served.

GOOD FAITH

"It is obvious that, on occasion and in good faith, he can make a mistake without the slightest intention of breaking the law."

Attorney-General Bonner admitted when the labor council first raised the matter last month that a "good case" could be made for the waiters.

He added, however, that the dispensing of liquor is a privilege, not a right and "if you relieve the proprietor from responsibility to enforce the act, you remove a very valuable form of control."

CCF VIEWPOINT

Lawyer George Gregory, Victoria MLA, said today he feels that the legislation gives "adequate protection" to the waiters.

The matter was raised at the spring legislature session by CCFer Randolph Harding, who said the penalties imposed on the waiters were "too harsh."

"The larger onus should be on those people who get the operator into trouble," Mr. Harding said.

He suggested that beer parlors be equipped with forms to be signed by persons who say they are over 21 but of whom the management is doubtful.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Just exactly what is "chamber music" which in some quarters seems to be gaining more recognition today?—F.S.C.

A.—Before public concert-giving began in the late 17th century, set musical performances fell into three classes, church, theatre and in homes of the aristocracy. Those of the last class, whether vocal or instrumental, were chamber music. It consists of compositions for a small concert room and a small audience, as opposed to music for church or theatre, or, comprehensively, cantatas, single songs, solos and trios and quartettes. It is generally noted for its simplicity of presentation.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Favorite Italian Shoe Here for Summer Wear

By PENNY SAVER

Europe's most popular summer shoes have arrived in Victoria! They're the wooden-soled "Zoccoli," made in Italy, that girls in England and all across the continent wear with swim suits, slacks and shorts and cotton dresses.

They will certainly be a change from the usual white sandals, although I admit that they do take a bit of getting used to. The wooden soles are actually designed for easy walking on cobbled streets and on the beach, but they're worn on city pavements as well.

They've come to a Victoria shoe shop direct from Italy. The wooden soles and semi-high heel (European girls prefer these to flat shoes—they make their legs look longer!) have a burnt-on design and painted flowers for decoration, and the raffia tops are flower-embroidered.

Basic colors for the uppers are beige or black and they're priced at $5.98 a pair.

BAMBOO MATS

Colorful bamboo place mats will certainly save laundry these warm summer days, and they'd look equually pretty on a dining room table or out on a patio or garden table.

Colors are pink, red, light and dark green, yellow, different shades of blue and many others. You get eight for $1.49.

Bamboo is also used for new drinking glasses. They are very light and are suitable for either hot or cold drinks. In natural shade, there are large ones (nearly milk-shake size) for 89c, medium for 79c and small for 69c.

A collapsible bamboo bag would be ideal for carrying bathing suit, towel and all your other beach equipment. It folds flat and opens out to a good size, with sturdy handles for easy carrying. Price is $1.98.

Give me a ring at 2-3131 if you'd like to know where I found these items.

"Let's change—you drive and I'LL ogle."

Women Have Lost Vigor Of Pioneer Efforts

MONTREAL (CP)—Charlotte Whitton, Ottawa's former mayor, said recently women's efforts have become "resolutionary" rather than "revolutionary."

Miss Whitton, now an Ottawa newspaper columnist, said that women's hard won rights must be well nurtured and fearlessly applied.

"Women, their organization, their efforts, the councils of women, too widely have lost the vigor of the pioneer women's movement. . .

"Women's efforts have become resolutionary when they should still be revolutionary.

"Politically, women have made little impact on the life of most countries, particularly in the wealthy comfortable life of North America."

Married women who stayed at home often satisfied restlessness by participating in women's groups and clubs, church and voluntary welfare service.

"This satisfying outlet explains in part the deplorably poor showing of women on the whole, in political life at any of our government levels."

She said perhaps women's powers lag because they still tend to be more concerned about their social claims and status, and their innate appeal and appeasement of the opposite sex, than about their economic status, the legal status of their children or their own political rights.

Victoria BPW Club Returns Mrs. Masters as President

Mrs. R. Masters was unanimously re-elected president of Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club in annual meeting recently. Other officers are: Vice-president, Miss Lily Henderson; second vice-president, Miss Ella Brett; recording secretary, Miss D. Burrows; corresponding secretary, Miss Virginia Ross; treasurer, Miss Jean Smith. Directors are Mrs. E. Maunsell, Mrs. C. Danby, Miss M. Beveridge, Miss J. Rodger and Miss L. Wright.

In her address the president spoke of three major projects already planned for the year ahead: The visit of Lisia Sergio, editor of the international magazine, Widening Horizons, and an authority on international affairs who will be the speaker at a meeting in Victoria at the Oak Bay Junior High School auditorium in October; the observance of Business Women's Week in September, and the visit of a large delegation of Business and Professional Women from the United States on a post-convention tour next summer.

It was again decided to send a student from one of the Greater Victoria high schools to the UN seminar this summer at University of British Columbia.

Two members were elected to membership, Mrs. L. Grainger and Mrs. M. H. Benbow.

Announcement was made that island clubs will meet for a picnic at Swallowfields on the Chemainus River on July 14, when Nanaimo club will act as hostess group.

Installation of Victoria officers will take place at a dinner meeting next Monday when Rev. Laura Butler will be guest speaker. Mrs. Bessie Smith will act as installing officer.

Simply Designed Cotton Dress For Beginner's First Effort

If you have never made a dress in your life, you can make this easy-to-sew summer cotton with confidence from our Anne Adams printed pattern 4506. This pattern comes in only four main parts with directions for cutting, sewing and putting pieces together printed on each easy-do pattern part.

Shown here in rosy red and gold Victoriana cotton, a signature fabric by M. Lowenstein, it is a fashion that goes anywhere and everywhere. Its smooth simple lines are so flattering to your figure. Shoulder bows simplify construction and add charm and style. The crease-resistant fast finish requires little ironing, making this an extremely easy dress to launder.

So if you are learning to sew or plan to teach a beginner to sew, order this printed pattern today. It comes in misses' sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Misses' size 16 requires 4¾ yards of 39-inch fabric.

Send 40c in coins for printed pattern 4506 to Anne Adams, the Times Pattern Department, 60 Front Street West, Toronto 1-A, Ont.

Styled on cool and pretty lines for warm summer days, this cotton dress has been designed for easy sewing. The shoulder bows add a charming touch and make construction easy.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Losing Excess Pounds Gradually Is Best Bet

Human nature is like that! A woman may take 20 years to accumulate her extra pounds, but onec she makes up her mind to lose them she is apt to want to see results immediately.

We all have seen the unattractive effects of losing a great deal of weight too rapidly. The skin did not have time to shrink to its new proportions and often the arms and neck are baggy. Wrinkles may appear which would have been avoided if the reduction had been more gradual.

If you have only a few pounds to lose you can do so rapidly without these unhappy by-products. You can lose 10 pounds in a short time and look 10 years younger. However, if you have many extra pounds you should be contented with a loss of two to two-and-a-half pounds a week.

You should remember that when you lose weight on the outside you also lose on the inside. You should not lose too much supporting flesh without giving internal organs time for adjustment.

You will not have to cut your calorie intake drastically if you aim at a loss of two-and-a-half pounds weekly. You can follow these simple rules.

1. Take smaller helpings. Never eat until you feel stuffed.

2. Cut down on fats. This means that you leave off rich desserts, fried foods, gravy, cream sauces, drink skim or dried, fat-free milk, and decrease the amount of butter and salad oils.

3. Build up on proteins such as lean meat, fish and fowl.

4. Build up on the vitamin rich foods such as fresh vegetables and fruits. These are low in calorie count and high in health value. They are also filling.

5. You need some carbohydrate foods but control them.

You won't starve on 12 to 1,400 calories a day, and you will lose two to two-and-a-half pounds in a week.

Remember, too, that exercise will be a great ally in firming you up while you lose poundage.

If you have only a few pounds to lose you may want my Nine-Day Reducing Diet. This gives you a loss of from five to 10 pounds in nine days time. Razor Slashing at Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Royal MacDonald, 52, narrowly missed death when attacked on Powell Street early today.

MacDonald told police a man with whom he had been drinking slashed his throat with a razor. He was taken to General Hospital where 10 stitches were required to close the wounds, which barely missed the jugular vein. Police were searching for his assailant.

Quadruple Vaccine Developed in Canada

EDMONTON, Alta. — Canadian scientists have produced and are now testing a quadruple vaccine to protect against polio, diphtheria, tetanus (lockjaw) and whooping cough.

This was revealed here today by Dr. R. D. Defries, Toronto, director emeritus and consultant, Connaught Medical Research Laboratories. Dr. Defries was addressing the 90th annual meeting of the Canadian Medical Association.

The quadruple vaccine combines the Salk polio vaccine with the triple vaccine now given to provide immunity against diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough.

Dr. Defries said the development is important because the number of injections involved in giving protection against the four diseases prompted doctors to give only one series of inoculations, omitting either the triple vaccine or the polio vaccine.

And it is important, he intimated, that more people get the polio protection. Vaccination does not affect the spread of polio as vaccinated individuals may still be carriers of the disease, he said. There are seven million Canadians between infancy and 40 who have not been vaccinated. Since protection against polio is dependent on vaccination, it is urgent that these 7,000,000 persons receive the vaccine.

"Protection is a personal and not a community measure," he added.

Dr. Defries reviewed research being conducted in several countries to develop a vaccine with greater effectiveness and providing a longer period of immunity. The safety of such vaccine developed to date is questionable, he said.

Two B.C. Men Die in Crash Of RCAF Jet

Wreckage of Missing Plane Spotted By Helicopter on Farm Near Ottawa

BISHOP'S MILLS, Ont. (CP) Wreckage of an RCAF CF-100 jet fighter-interceptor aircraft, missing from St. Hubert air base since Tuesday evening, was identified on a farm near here shortly after noon today. Both occupants were dead and a coroner was summoned.

An RCAF helicopter from Rockcliffe air base was dispatched to the bushland scene late in the morning after Ontario provincial police reported sighting wreckage believed to be that of an aircraft.

The CF-100, belonging to the RCAF's Air Defence Command, was manned by Flt. Lt. William H. Siegel, 30, White Rock, B.C., pilot, and Flt. Lt. Robert Willard Bogle, 32, whose father lives at New Westminster, B.C. Bogle was the navigator and radar-observer.

The crash occurred during the height of a violent electrical storm in the course of which a severe explosion occurred in a desolate swamp area on the farm of Leonard Sunderland in nearby Wolford township. Bishop's Mills is 40 miles south of Ottawa.

IDENTIFIED FROM AIR

The Rockcliffe helicopter, a twin-screw aircraft, was too large to descend in the area but RCAF personnel aboard identified the crash wreckage as that of a CF-100. On the radio they asked the provincial police cruisers nearby to call for a coroner.

A provincial police ground party, accompanied by farmers and workmen in the area, was beating its way through the bush and swamp to the scene.

RCAF officials who travelled from Ottawa's Uplands Airport were also reported working their way toward the plane's wreckage. The last mile had to be covered on foot.

234 Dead From U.S. Heat Wave

7 Forest Fires In California

CHICAGO (AP) — Thunderstorms moved into the east in advance of a cold front today signaling a breakup of the season's most widespread heat wave.

Five days of broiling temperatures in the eastern half of the United States and floods in the midcontinent took at least 234 lives. Most of the 206 heat casualties were drownings. Floods caused another 28 deaths.

The cold front was expected to pass across most of the Atlantic states area today, followed by cooler and drier air tonight and Thursday.

A mass of cool air from Canada broke the torrid heat wave in the midwest Tuesday, and early today the cold air front extended along a line from Lake Erie through southwest Ohio and down to southeast Arkansas.

FLOOD DAMAGE HEAVY

In the two principal flood areas, residents of Marshall, Minn., waited for a further rise in the rampaging Redwood River, but the flood seemed to wane in eastern South Dakota.

Israeli Cabinet Meets Hurriedly

Israel expressed growing concern today at Egypt's acquisition of three Soviet submarines, and informed sources said an attack on Israeli shipping meant war.

The Israeli cabinet met in emergency session Tuesday night and early today to discuss the Soviet move which once again shifted the Middle East balance of power.

Jerusalem dispatches said the atmosphere in Israel resembled that of the days just before the Sinai invasion when a swift Israeli drive captured much of the Soviet equipment turned over to Egypt in the 1955 Czech arms deal.

Italians Flee Raging Po River

ROVIGO, Italy (Reuters)—A massive flow of floodwater which has drained off from the storm-lashed Alps and Apennine foothills today olled steadily towards the dike-protected farmlands of the Po River delta.

A small army of police, firemen and peasant volunteers stood guard in the low-lying delta fields and mudflats on the Adriatic coast as the level of Italy's greatest river rose by 7½ inches an hour throughout the night.

The rain-swollen river breached the main dike encircling the island of Ariano, where 32,000 farme cultivate land. Stretches of dike crumbled under the pressure.

The islanders began shifting prized household possessions to upper floors and drove their cattle onto th walls of the strongest dikes.

Tankers Collide; 8 Dead, 50 Saved

BREST, France (AP) — Two big oil tankers collided and burst into flames in darkness and fog off Brittany today. Eight sailors died in the oily sea but more than 50 were rescued.

Rescue vessels picked their way gingerly through fog and oil slicks to get to the burning ships. Ten of the surviving crew members were severely hurt.

The French naval radio station identified the vessels as the 15,000-ton tanker Stony Point, sailing under Liberian papers, and the 19,000-ton Greek tanker Ioannis. But the Greek ship was also reported to be a freighter named Joannis or Ionis.

Victory Carriers Incorporated, operating agents in New York for the Stony Point, said the tanker was loaded with oil en route from Sidon, Lebanon, to Antwerp and carried a crew of 40.

Reports of the disaster, 20 miles off the tip of the Brittany peninsula, came by ship's wireless from rescue craft. The fog was so thick off the coast that aircraft couldn't locate the burning ships.

The first radio message alerted shore stations when the German ship Eric Reckmann came upon the burning vessels.

The two stricken craft were still burning eight hours later, apparently abandoned by their crews. The Stony Point was reported settling low in the water. The rescue ships asked for tugs, indicating that at least one of the derelicts might be towed to shore.

Britain Blasts Final H-Test

LONDON (UP) — Britain exploded its third and last H-bomb at the Christmas Island testing ground today.

A ministry of supply announcement said "this third explosion completes this series of tests."

The announcement gave no details but the fact that no more tests are planned was interpreted as indicating Britain has now perfected its thermonuclear weapons.

Speculation Starts Over Leadership

Prime Minister St. Laurent today called a special caucus in Ottawa of the Liberal members elected on June 10 as well as some Independents.

The action immediately set off speculation throughout the country as to whether Mr. St. Laurent has decided to relinquish the leadership of the Liberal party.

On the other hand it may be that Mr. St. Laurent, who will become Opposition Leader on Friday when John Diefenbaker is sworn in as Prime Minister, may have decided to ask for a vote of confidence from the elected members in his decision to resign as prime minister.

SHORT-TERM STRATEGY

The official announcement carried by Canadian Press said the caucus would discuss short-term party strategy for the first session of the new Parliament early in the fall, and plans for the next general election whenever it is.

However the calling of the caucus meeting so suddenly, bringing members from all parts of the Dominion to Ottawa, was an unusual action. This is what set political tongues wagging, as it was pointed out the future leadership of the party was bound to come up for discussion at such a meeting.

Immediately after the election Mr. St. Laurent said he would continue to sit in the new Parliament, presumably as Liberal chieftain and Opposition Leader.

DIFFERENT PATTERN

But there has been a good deal of speculation that Mr. St. Laurent would not want to lead the party into another election against Mr. Diefenbaker. If Mr. Diefenbaker definitely intends to seek another election within a year, some party strategists feel it would be wise to choose a new leader, such as Lester B. Pearson, and face the country with a different pattern from the one which met defeat June 10.

In that event the caucus might decide to ask for a national con-

John D. Works Out Cabinet Makeup

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—John Diefenbaker today continued conferences with prospective cabinet ministers as he worked out the makeup of a Progressive Conservative government to be sworn in Friday.

The party leader spent much of the morning in meetings and was to resume them later in the day after a quick automobile trip to Perth, Ont., for the funeral of Dr. W. G. Blair, Conservative member for Lanark who died Sunday.

Mr. Diefenbaker met Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, member for Esquimalt-Saanich; Gordon Churchill of Winnipeg South Centre; Davie Fulton of Kamloops; and George Nowlan of Digby-Annapolis-Kings.

PROBABLE POSTS

Gen. Pearkes is expected to be his defence minister. Mr. Nowlan is probable trade or transport minister. Mr. Fulton, who arrived by plane today from British Columbia, may be minister of justice or possibly speaker of the Commons.

A portfolio is planned for Mr. Churchill, one of Mr. Diefenbaker's chief campaign strategists, but there has been no information on what will be allocated to him.

Later today Mr. Diefenbaker was to meet Howard Green of Vancouver-Quadra, flying here from Vancouver.

Mr. Diefenbaker, to present a cabinet nucleus to be sworn in by Governor-General Massey Friday, flies to London Monday for the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference, starting June 26. He said today he will be back in Canada Saturday, July 6.

Before leaving for Dr. Blair's funeral, Mr. Diefenbaker met briefly with another series of cabinet prospects. Most of the

317 Torture Cases Listed By Makarios

ATHENS (Reuters) — Archbishop Makarios claimed at a press conference here today to have a list of 317 cases of "torture" inflicted by British security and military authorities in Cyprus to obtain confessions.

The Greek Cypriot leader produced copies of handwritten statements which he said had been made by victims.

The archbishop asserted that no measures were taken against those responsible when such "inhuman atrocities" were reported to the British governor of Cyprus, Sir John Harding.

3 CABINET MINISTERS FOR B.C. SAYS GREEN

VANCOUVER (CP)—Howard Green, Progressive Conservative member for Vancouver Quadra, said Tuesday British Columbia will have three ministers in the cabinet of Prime Minister-designate Diefenbaker.

"It looks like John is doing quite a thing, appointing three B.C. ministers," Mr. Green remarked to reporters just before he boarded an Ottawa-bound airplane.

He flew at the telephone summons of Mr. Diefenbaker, who also sent for Davie Fulton, Kamloops, and Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, MP for Esquimalt-Saanich.

Makeup of the cabinet is expected to be announced Friday. Asked if he expected to be a member Mr. Green said: "I expect I will."

He suggested that he might be named minister of transport.

Symphony Cuts Deficit; Hikes Attendance

Encouraging Report Given Annual Meeting Of Society; Municipal Councils Under Fire

A deficit reduced by more than half the 1956-57 figure—and an increase in attendance of 15 per cent—were among encouraging facts brought to light at the annual meeting of Victoria Symphony Society held Tuesday night in Spencerhouse.

President Jack Barraclough was in the chair and did some plain speaking during the evening.

Regarding the new foundation fund, he told the meeting that its chairman, Hon. R. W. Mayhew, hopes to have his goal of $1,000,000 in view within 10 years. Mr. Mayhew expects to accomplish this mainly through bequests and as permanent memorials.

At no time, however, would more than half the symphony's deficit be covered out of this fund, the balance being regarded as a civic and community responsibility.

Other applications of the foundation fund are visualized as provision of scholarships and assistance to musical organizations generally within the Greater Victoria area.

Concerning culturally lethargic municipal councils, Mr. Barraclough made some scathing remarks, while commenting that city council had shown its heart to be in the right place when it made the $2,500 grant last year.

Saanich council was the speaker's particular target.

Saanich and Esquimalt have rejected grants for this year. Victoria and Oak Bay are at present considering the matter.

"We ought to be ashamed, particularly of Saanich," said Mr. Barraclough. "First they hid behind the skirts of the legal profession and then, when the Municipal Act was changed, made their decision against the symphony grant for one reason—because the reeve recommended it."

"They seem to have no more difficulty in turning down a $500 courtesy grant than they do in making a $250,000 mistake in a sewerage program."

Special Appeal Raised Record Sum

It was revealed that a special appeal by the society last February had raised a record amount of about $24,000, of which $7,000 could be applied to next season's financing.

During the past season, the women's committee had raised $5,000 of which $1,500 is still on hand. From the Koerner Foundation, a grant of $2,000 had been recived.

Deficit on April 30 was $3,32[illegible]—to be made up by guarantors—compared to $7,056 at the end of last season, according to the report of treasurer, K. R. Genn.

Average attendance at each pair of concerts during the past season was 1,814, compared to 1,576 last year.

"It may seem that we are getting to the point where we need no further support," Mr. Barraclough commented. "What these figures actually mean is that we not only deserve, but should demand more support from civic leaders."

Presentation of three outdoor concerts this summer may be announced at a later date. Negotiations are now under way for a Butchart Gardens series in July and it is also hoped to find sponsorship for a free concert from the steps of the legislative buildings.

Elections resulted in Jack Barraclough, P. E. George, Mrs. Jack Gillespie, W. Gilmour, J. Genge, Dr. Mellis Mair, Tony Lort, Dal Hawkshaw, John Wade and A. H. Fitzgerald being named for two-year terms on the board of directors. One-year terms will be served by Don E. Smith, Walter Stenner and Lieut.-Cmdr. Ian MacDonald.

This board will meet shortly to elect officers for the 1957-58 season.

Council Grants To Aid Culture Ready in August

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada Council grants to aid Canadian cultural pursuits likely will be announced late in August, council chairman Brooke Claxton said in an interview today.

A program of aid was mapped out at an executive meeting Tuesday and will be submitted for approval of the 21-member council to meet here August 19 and 20.

"Very good progress is being made in our organization and in developing a program," Mr. Claxton said. "We also had a very satisfactory meeting with the learned societies which met here in the last two weeks."

The grants are to be paid out of earnings from the council's $50,000,000 endowment fund. Some officials have estimated the earnings may total about $1,500,000 in the current fiscal year.

Victoria Girl On European Tour With Elgar Choir

A 14-year-old Victoria girl, Dianne Matthews, is among 33 young girl members of Vancouver's Elgar Choir which left the mainland city Tuesday night for its seventh United Kingdom and European tour. Dianne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Matthews, Crescent Road.

Charles E. Findlater, prominent Vancouver musician, who founded the choir in 1924, will conduct both choir and tour. Stop-overs will be made in Jasper and Ottawa before the group sails on the Saxonia June 28. They will return to Vancouver September 15.

Dianne, who came to Victoria with her parents nearly a year ago, won a silver medal from the Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto, last year and received warm praises from the vocal adjudicator at the recent Victoria Musical Festival.

Doctors Want Assurance Of Bargaining Rights

By DON HANRIGHT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—Canadian doctors want assurance of bargaining rights for their own professional organization before any dispute over fees develops with government or private health-plan agencies.

Acceptance of this "broad general principle" by the 180-member parliament of the Canadian Medical Association was described officially as a precautionary step and spokesmen were quick to stress that the CMA does not want to become associated loosely with trade unionism.

Indications were that the association adopted the principle to avert any possible doctor-government stalemate in case a national health plan evolves in Canada.

TERMS OF RESOLUTION

The resolution read:

"No doctor or group of doctors should enter into an agreement respecting remuneration for professional services with any non-governmental, semi-governmental or governmental body, without prior assurance of a recognized system for arbitration and negotiation of issues such as remuneration and terms of service.

One of the first applications of this CMA principle may come in connection with establishment of regulations governing diagnostic services to be included in the forthcoming national hospital insurance scheme.

In this program, regulations will be set up by the provinces and, in the case of diagnostic services, probably would affect pathologists and radiologists providing these services.

Dr. Thomson said it is "theoretically possible" that the CMA bargaining principle could be applied in any case of dispute in one or more provinces. However, it also would be applicable to any private firm underwriting medical insurance for a group of, say, railway employees.

In a second major step, the general council also decided to ask the federal government to put tranquillizer drugs on the prescription list.

Explaining this action, Dr. K. J. R. Wightman of Toronto said there already are 40 or 50 of these drugs on the market in Canada and soon the number will reach 100 or more.

They are out-selling aspirin in the United States, Dr. Wightman said, and in Canada the sales "indicates far greater use of them than is necessary in the interests of national health."

He said that in some persons these tranquillizers have the effect of making them "slap-happy and uninhibited," or in others result simply in "less tension." Addiction to these drugs was possible over a period of years.

NOW SOLD FREELY

In most provinces the tranquillizers now are sold openly in drugstores, while in other provinces they have been made subject the physicians' prescriptions. The CMA wants them on a prescription list right across Canada.

In other action, the CMA established a committee to review the effects of radiation—not only thermo-nuclear in origin, but also from X-rays in dental and hospital laboratories—and attempt to make definite recommendations on the problem.

Premier Manning of Alberta told the convention he is "unalterably opposed to state medicine in any form in the field of medical science."

Red China Trade

BONN (Reuters) — West Germany is ready to follow the example of Britain in relaxing the trade embargo against Communist China, a foreign ministry spokesman said Tuesday.

MORE HYPOTHESES THAN FACTS IN PSYCHIATRY SAYS CRITIC

VANCOUVER (CP)—A University of British Columbia scientist says the field of psychiatry "suffers from a surfeit of hypotheses and a famine of facts."

Dr. William C. Gibson, Victoria, head of the UBC research department, led a seminar of 20 U.S., British and Canadian scientific researchers, meeting here for five days to discuss the biochemical nature of mental diseases.

Dr. Gibson said Tuesday recent studies of mental disease, particularly schizophrenia, have been fruitful.

"But," he added, "they have been no more than that."

Among the most recent advances, he said, is the finding of chemicals in body secretions and blood configurations in finger nails which can be associated with poor mental health.

Color Movies at Snapshot Cost!

Brownie Movie Camera by Kodak...only $36.95

Set . . . sight . . . shoot!
Sparkling color movies are as easy to take as snapshots—and just as inexpensive!

Imagine being able to take home a real Kodak home-movie camera for only $36.95! It's a handsome, rugged, precision-built camera with a fast f/2.7 lens—and it's yours at the lowest price in Brownie movie history.

This camera is really simple to use. Set the new exposure dial to match the light condition. Then aim and shoot. It's as easy as taking snapshots!

You get snapshot economy, too. Up to 50 average-length scenes—in glorious color—on one roll of low-cost 8mm Kodachrome Film.

Start this weekend to save all your good times—at home and away—in action-and-color movies. See the great new Brownie Movie Camera demonstrated at your near-by photo dealer's. It's a great buy at $36.95!

Brownie Movie Camera, Turret f/1.9, brings you 3-lens range at a 1-lens price!

This easy-to-use camera gives you all three movie views—regular, wide-angle, and telephoto—plus the ease and simplicity you expect in a Brownie. There are no extra lenses to buy or attach. Just flip the handy revolving turret to the range you want . . . and shoot. Brownie Movie Camera, Turret f/1.9 $98.25

If it's made by Kodak ...you know it's good!

New Kodak Medallion 8 Movie Camera, f/1.9, the easiest-to-use movie camera Kodak ever made!

This smartly styled beauty weighs only 23 ounces—so easy to carry wherever you go. To load, just open the cover . . . drop in a pre-threaded magazine of 8mm film . . . and close. Takes only 3 seconds. And shooting's just as easy. Set the new exposure dial to match the light condition . . . aim . . . and press the button. Nothing could be simpler! Kodak Medallion 8 Movie Camera, f/1.9 $119.75

With 3-lens turret, $179.75.

Prices are subject to change without notice. Ask your Kodak dealer about low down payment and easy terms.

DUCHESSES MUTTER IN TEA CUPS

Royal Family Attends Doug Fairbanks Party

LONDON (AP)—Actor Douglas Fairbanks Jr. and his wife staged the biggest scoop of the Mayfair social season Tuesday night when they entertained the Royal Family.

More than one duchess was muttering in her tea cup.

The occasion was a spectacular coming-out party for Fairbanks' debutante daughter Daphne—but it was Queen Elizabeth and others of the Royal Family who got most attention.

Last week the Queen declined an invitation to the coming-out dance of lovely Nora Lyle, stepdaughter of the Duke of Bedford.

"I asked them all," said the duke, "but they the Royal Family were busy."

More than 350 guests went to the Fairbanks party including Prince Philip, Princess Margaret and Princess Alexandra.

BORROWED HOUSE

The scene of what will go down as one of the most glittering balls of the year was historic Clieveden, in the nearby countryside.

Fairbanks borrowed the country house for the night from a pal, the third Viscount Astor. "It was a personal gesture," said Astor's secretary.

Nov. 19, 1952, Mrs. Fairbanks—daughter of a Bluefield, W.Va., dentist—became the first hostess to be honored by having the Queen as guest at a private dinner.

Fairbanks knew Admiral Lord Mountbatten and Mountbatten introduced him to his nephew, Prince Philip.

The Queen made Fairbanks a knight commander of the British Empire. This means he would be called Sir Douglas if he was not an American.

QUEEN WORRIED

Fairbanks now is in the movie and TV business and his listing in Britain's Who's Who takes up 54 lines—18 more than Prime Minister Macmillan's.

It was believed the Fairbanks did not attend Tuesday's Royal Ascot race meeting.

Earlier it was reported the Queen was in a dilemma over whether to invite the couple into the royal enclosure. Both have been divorced and by tradition and practice no divorced person is allowed in the royal enclosure.

MISHAP SHOWS DANGER SPOT; SURVEY FAILS

MONTREAL (CP)—A newspaper man who had just finished a survey of Montreal's most dangerous intersections was injured Tuesday when hit by a taxi at the corner of Peel and St. Catherine Streets.

That intersection wasn't even on his list.

"There's nothing like being a clinical reporter," commented the Montreal Star's Charles Lazarus as he was released from hospital after treatment for bruises and lacerations.

Lew, Althea Draw Toughies At Wimbledon

LONDON (Reuters) — Both Lew Hoad of Australia and Althea Gibson of the United States, top-seeded stars in the Wimbledon tennis championship which starts Monday, have drawn tough starting matches.

Both were seeded Tuesday to win the men's and women's singles. Wimbledon is regarded as the amateur tennis world championship.

Hoad, defending champion, meets Pierre Darmon, a Davis Cup player who recently scored a convincing win over Hoad's compatriot, Ashley Cooper.

Cooper was seeded No. 2 in Tuesday's list.

Canuck Team Surprises In Golf Match

FLINT, Mich. (CP) — Canadian golfers scored a surprise 7½-4½ win over their United States opponents Tuesday in a series of pro-amateur matches held in conjunction with Thursday's $37,000 open tournament.

One point was awarded for the best-ball score on each nine and an additonal point for the 18-hole best-ball score. The Canadians were awarded the Carling Cup.

Results:

Ald Balding, Bigwin Inn, and Eric Hanson, Toronto, defeated Jimmy Demaret and Doug Bloom, 3-0; Gerry Kesselring, Toronto, and Gary Gowan, Kitchener, defeated Dow Finsterwald and Bob Shave, 3-0; Doug Ford and Glen Johnson defeated Stan Leonard, Lachute, Que., and Don Doe, Granby, Que., 3-0; Gord Brydson, Toronto, and Nick Weslock, Windsor, tied Julius Boros and Chuck Kocsis, 1½-1½. Best-ball score, Kesselring, Cowan, Ford and Johnson, tied with 64.

Aces for Sale

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec Aces, whose management announced Friday the club would withdraw from the Professional Quebec Hockey League for a year, were put up for sale Tuesday.

Main shareholders J. R. Latter and C. H. Smith announced they consider it time for younger and more energetic men to take over and "all reasonable, serious offers will be considered."

Financial difficulties prompted the decision to withdraw.

N.Z. Rates Autobikes Biggest Road Hazard

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — A drive to cut the toll of motorcycle deaths in New Zealand has brought spectacular results. Less than two years ago, motorcycles were classed as the most dangerous vehicles on the roads. The accident rate was five times as high as for cars.

Motorcycles totaled only 5 per cent of the vehicles on the road but they suffered 25 per cent of the traffic deaths.

So seriously was the position viewed that the government was considering clapping a 40 m.p.h maximum on motorcycles at all times and places.

SPONSOR CAMPAIGN

To meet the danger the motorcycle dealers and clubs got together and planned a safety campaign.

The government brought in a law making it compulsory to wear a crash helmet if riding a motorcycle at over 30 m.p.h. Motorcycle schools were started throughout the country to train riders how to handle their machines properly. The course is held in a safe place, off the roads, and consists of eight riding lessons, plus films and lectures.

These measures have changed the picture in New Zealand. In little more than a year since the motorcycle schools began, cycle fatalities on the roads have been cut by half.

START YOUNG

The improvement is especially striking with novice riders trained in the schools. It has been found that they are far better at avoiding accidents than those who learned haphazardly.

The compulsory wearing of crash helmets has produced equally striking results. A large number of accidents which once ended fatally now produce only injuries.

The campaign has not only staved off the threat of a 40 m.p.h speed limit. It has brought a cut in premium rates charged by insurance companies on motorcycles.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFS

A six-month suspended sentence was given R. S. Nyhang, 3132 Fifth, in city police court Tuesday for false pretences involving a worthless cheque for $14.25.

"You have been inviting trouble of some sort for some time," Magistrate H. C. Hall said.

Nyhang had spent several days in jail awaiting trial and sentence and had arranged for the goods obtained to be returned.

Complainant was furniture dealer Harry Israel.

Nyhang entered into a $500 good behavior bond.

Vandalous burglars who broke into Malvern House School, 1024 Richmond, early Monday or over the weekend, scrawled obscenities on blackboards, splattered ink over walls and scattered chalk, books and papers over floors.

Police discovered entry to the old building had been made by smashing a coal chute window and damage was caused in three classrooms.

First reading of "Shops, Hawkers and Peddlers Regulation By-Law 1957 was passed Monday night by Saanich council.

It allows for early closing on Monday of each week, except during July and August, when closing is extended to 6 p.m. as is regular closing on all but the short day.

About 50 per cent of Saanich businesses queried favored Monday for early closing rather than Wednesday.

Provision for the new legislation is made in Section 867 of the revised Municipal Act.

Seaman Presumed Dead

VANCOUVER (CP) — A seaman who was asleep aboard the coastal freighter Triggerfish when it sank in Howe Sound last Oct. 6 was presumed dead Tuesday by Mr. Justice J. V. Clyne. The seaman was Boyne A. Hay.

Greater Victoria School Board physical training supervisor George Grant and Miss Nancy Ferguson, rhythm and dance instructress for the schools, will represent Victoria at a Halifax convention next week.

Canadian Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation (CAHPER) meets there June 24 to 28.

Official Opening Of Ladore Falls Plant Wednesday

CAMPBELL RIVER—British Columbia's newest source of hydro-electric power, the B.C. Power Commission's Ladore Falls plant, will be officially opened here by Premier W. A. C. Bennett next Wednesday.

Second stage of the giant Campbell River hydro-electric development, the Ladore Falls station will be inspected by representatives of the federal, provincial and municipal governments, industry, business, contractors and suppliers before Premier Bennett pushes the button which will send water cascading through the turbines to start the generators turning.

The $10,000,000 plant adds 70,000 horsepower to the 168,000 horsepower now generated at the John Hart plant. Both generating stations use the same water storage.

Wednesday's opening will be symbolical only. One generator has been in operation at Ladore since Dec. 29 of last year. The second unit went into service in April, 1957. It took two years to build.

Presley Cancels B.C. Engagement

VANCOUVER (CP) — Entertainment promoter Holly Maxwell said today singing idol Elvis Presley has cancelled plans for an engagement here next month.

TWO CONVICTS ESCAPE KINGSTON PENITENTIARY

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Two men, working in a cannery outside the east wall of Kingston Penitentiary but inside a wired fence, escaped today.

Thomas Edward Jillings, 34, and Edward Arnold Brooker, 32, were noticed missing when guards marched the cannery crew back into the prison for lunch.

Jillings was serving a nine-year term after being sentenced in Lindsay, Ont., in 1956 on charges of breaking and entering.

Brooker was sentenced at Sudbury to serve three years and four months for escaping jail at Sudbury.

LONDON CONFERENCE DISCUSSED

Prime Minister-designate John Diefenbaker conferred at Ottawa Tuesday with Jules Leger (left), undersecretary of state for external affairs, and Commons secretary R. B. Bryce on the forthcoming Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London.—(AP wirephoto)

meetings consisted for the moment merely of a handshake and a hello before the whole group departed for Perth.

Among those who met him were Douglas Harkness, Calgary North, who will have a portfolio; and A. J. Brooks, Royal, N.B., likely veterans minister.

The member who will be Canada's first woman federal cabinet minister — Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, Hamilton West—was among those going to Perth. She is ticketed for either the labor or the health and welfare portfolio, according to informants.

Other prospective cabinet ministers meeting the leader were John Charlton, Brant-Haldimand, Ont., probable agriculture minister; W. J. Browne, St. John's West, who will almost certainly represent Newfoundland in the cabinet, possibly as fisheries minister.

Another who conferred with Mr. Diefenbaker today was J. Wilfrid Dufresne, one of four Quebec Conseratives in the last Parliament. He was defeated in Quebec West on June 10.

There is speculation that he is being offered a portfolio, particularly since Mr. Diefenbaker—who needs about six Quebec ministers—has only two members, with parliamentary experience among the eight returned in the general election.

vention of the party and settle the whole issue.

Besides the 104 Liberals elected June 10 the caucus meeting also will be attended by William Benidickson, Liberal-Labor member for Kenora-Rainy River. He was parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Harris in the last Parliament.

It was also announced today that Sam Boulanger, elected as an Independent-Liberal in Quebec's Drummond-Athabaska, has been accepted by the Liberal party as a full member. This closes the gap between the Liberals and the Progressive Conservatives in the Commons to four members.

The new party standing in the Commons: Conservatives 109, Liberals 105, CCF 25, Social Credit 19, Independent 2, Independent-Liberal 1, Independent-Progressive-Conservative 1, Liberal-Labor 1, vacant 1, voting deferred 1, total 265.

Should Mr. Benidickson cast in his lot with the Liberals, their group would be raised to 106.

ENRICHED

Defeat at the polls June 10 brought no financial loss to federal Works Minister Robert H. Winters. From his cabinet post at $27,000 a year he goes to head Canadian operations of huge British corporation Rio Tinto Mining Company at $60,000 a year.

Disarmament Plan

LONDON (Reuters) — United States delegate Harold E. Stassen will begin presenting the long-awaited American proposal for partial disarmament Thursday at five-power talks here, it was learned tonight. Conference sources said the U.S. has achieved enough agreement with its Western allies to start presenting the plan.

Cheaper Food Urged

TORONTO (CP)—The new Diefenbaker administration was urged today by Thomas G. McCormack, president of Dominion Stores, to lower retail food prices by exempting all foodstuffs from direct sales tax and to wipe out hidden taxes on foods.

. . . HEAT

The Big Sioux River, now as wide as a mile in some places instead of its normal 60 feet, caused millions of dollars damage along a 100-mile line in South Dakota. There were three dead and two missing.

But in Minnesota the Redwood River at flooded Marshal still was three feet above flood stage, and down-river towns braced themselves for an expected deluge.

The property damage at Marshal was estimated at $1,000,000. Farm experts said crop damage would be three times as great.

TORONTO (CP) — Ontarians awoke from a cool night's sleep today and found their three-day heat wave ended.

A cold front moved across the province behind thunderstorms and rain showers, squeezing the mass of hot and humid air into eastern Quebec.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Firemen manned lines today at seven major forest fires. Acreage burned totaled more than 7,500 early today.

Weary firemen patrolled six blazes which were brought under control Tuesday or during the night. A seventh, 65 miles southeast of Los Angeles, blazed on out of control.

The unchecked fire is in Temescal Canyon, not far from a blaze which was controlled Tuesday after burning across 1,850 acres. The canyon fire has burned 2,500 acres. No homes are menaced. Elsinore, the nearest town, is 10 miles away.

Firemen said that dry, desert winds and 100-plus temperatures left the brush-covered hills so dry that the smallest spark could cause a major conflagration.

TORONTO (CP—Two CPR engineers told the Kellock royal commission today that firemen on diesel engines are an essential safety factor.

Tree Spraying Hits Fish, Tests Reveal

Fishermen and fish company executives have joined with the federal fisheries department in expressing serious alarm over preliminary results of the black-headed budworm spraying operation on northern Vancouver Island.

A. J. Whitmore, chief supervisor of fisheries, today stated that losses of up to 90 per cent of salmon fry and smolts in some test areas have been recorded by the team of fisheries departmnt and game commission biologists who have been in the area since the spraying operations began last week. It will take another two weeks to complete.

Pens containing young salmon and trout were placed in streams located both inside and outside the spraying area, a 150,000 acre timber tract which is being treated with a solution of DDT and oil. These pens have been carefully checked since early June and records kept of survival rates.

Fish were observed in distress condition in some pens within two hours after spraying and many began to die shortly after.

Fishery officers who flew with the pilots of spraying aircraft agreed pilots took every precaution to avoid streams, but results indicate that in most forest areas it is impossible to keep DDT out of streams and that fish mortality in varying degrees is inevitable.
